Mysterious Killer May Be Swine Flu

Death Toll Mounts To 16 Who Attended Legion's Philadelphia Meeting

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Medical researchers today sought to identify an unknown, flu-like disease which in the past four days has brought death to 16 persons who attended a state American Legion convention. Health officials said there was no cause for panic.

Public health officials said the outbreak, which has sent at least 50 other people to the hospital, may be the result of swine flu. They said that they could not now make a firm diagnosis, suggesting viral pneumonia as another possible cause.

The ages of the dead ranged from 39 to 82. At least one death has been recorded officially as pneumonia. Autopsies have been ordered in many of the deaths.

All of the victims experienced the same symptoms: headaches, fever ranging to 107 degrees and chills. These were followed, in most cases, by chest pains, lung congestion and shortness of breath.

"I've never seen anything like it," said state Health Secretary Leonard Bachman.

Blood samples and throat swabblings from the victims were sent to state health laboratories in Philadelphia and flown to the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for tests.

It will take two to three days to grow cultures from the samples. These cultures could lead to identification of the disease.

Cases of the illness were reported throughout the state. All the persons affected attended the 10-day Legion convention in Philadelphia that ended July 24. The first reports of illness came last Monday; the first death last Friday. It was the mounting death toll Monday that alarmed public health officials.

Bachman was asked if it could be swine flu. "That's a possibility," he said. "We're trying to pin it down, but we don't know right now. But there's no reason to panic, everyone should realize that."

More than one million people from throughout the world are gathered in Philadelphia this week for the Roman Catholic International Eucharistic Congress. Congress officials said they had no plan to curtail activities.

The Center for Disease Control, an arm of the U.S. Public Health Service, dispatched a three-man medical investigative team to Pennsylvania. Two other virus experts from the CDC were already in the state.

Dr. Michael Gregg, director of the center's Viral Disease Division, said the symptoms reported by victims are similar to influenza, but it was too early, he said, to say whether it was swine flu.

One recruit died when several hundred soldiers at Fort Dix, N.J., contracted swine flu early this year. The outbreak prompted plans for a nationwide immunization campaign this fall. The program is bogged down on issues of insurance protection for the drug companies producing the vaccine for immunization.

Most of those stricken in Pennsylvania were delegates to the Legion convention, although some wives and children who attended with delegates have also fallen ill.

More than 10,000 legionnaires attended the convention. Bach-

Sunny Weather Fails To Swell Voter Ranks

By PIET BONNETT

DETROIT (AP) — A relatively low voter turnout is expected today despite sunny weather as voters choose from the largest field of candidates for a U.S. Senate primary in modern Michigan history.

Voters in southwestern Michigan will also cast ballots for U.S. representative, state representatives, a variety of county offices, county judicial posts, county commissioners, township offices, and an occasional local proposal.

In Benton Harbor, city voters will name a new mayor and three commissioners to fill vacancies left by a recall election in May. They also will vote on the recall of one current commissioner.

Although the primary campaign has been the most expensive ever, election officials said no more than 27 per cent of the state's 4.9 million registered voters were expected at the polls.

The polls close at 8 p.m.

Four Republicans and four Democrats are vying for their parties' nominations in the Senate contest. Since World War II, only 1952 offered a field of more than four candidates. That year, there were six after Sen. Arthur Vandenberg died in office.

This year, Democratic Sen. Philip Hart is retiring after 18 years in the Senate. The eight candidates collected and spent more than $800,000 as of June 30, according to reports they were required to file under the 1972 federal Campaign Financing Act.

The favorite on the Democratic side, according to the much-debated polls, is 63-year-old Michigan Secretary of State Richard Austin, who could become the first black Democrat ever to serve in the Senate.

Moderate five-term Congressman Marvin Esch, 48, of Ann Arbor, has been rated far ahead in the GOP field.

But the recent polls also showed about 25 to 40 per cent of potential Democratic voters and 25 per cent of the Republicans still undecided.

Democratic Rep. Donald Riegle, 38, a five-term congressman from Flint, reported the largest campaign budget and claimed last week a poll by his campaign workers showed him within three percentage points of Austin. "I think we have a major upset in the making," Riegle said Monday.

Rep. James O'Hara, 50, a veteran of nine congressional terms, disputed the accuracy of Riegle's poll and is relying on strong labor backing. O'Hara and Riegle had several exchanges over which one of them is running second to Austin.

James Elmsman, a 38-year-old Birmingham lawyer, had 1 per cent or less of the support in virtually all the polls.

But Elmsman provided much of the Democratic campaign's beat with his challenges to Austin's accepting contributions from branch office managers who hold their posts at the secretary of state's pleasure. Austin denied any wrongdoing and said the decades-old patronage system is being phased out.

Austin, who became Michigan's first black Certified Public Accountant in 1941, lost in-bids for Congress and mayor of Detroit before being elected secretary of state in 1970. His name is widely recognized among Michigan voters because it appears on all drivers licenses and "Drive Safely" announcements around the state.

On the Republican side, Esch has the support of many GOP leaders and some of its top financial backers. His opponents wasted little breath disputing the polls.

DETROIT (AP) — The state Judicial Tenure Commission has asked the Michigan Supreme Court to suspend Detroit Recorder's Court Judge James Del Rio pending the outcome of formal complaints the commission has filed against the judge.

In a lengthy document released Monday, the commission accused Del Rio of judicial misconduct and prejudicial behavior.

The complaint also charged that Del Rio's actions gave the appearance of "incompetence, partiality and impropriety."

Del Rio refused to comment on the charges.

The commission charged Del Rio often tried to coerce guilty pleas by offering probation or threatening long prison terms.

In one case, the commission said, Del Rio found a defendant guilty of armed robbery and sentenced him to probation. When Del Rio was told that sentence could not be given, the commission said, he then granted a motion for a new trial, convicted the man on a lesser charge and again ordered probation.

In another case, the commission charged Del Rio "engaged in physical and verbal abuse" of police officers, and by doing so brought "dishonor and disrespect on himself and on the office he holds."

The Supreme Court has authority to suspend or remove Del Rio from the bench.

Talk About A Mess! -- It's Medicare-Medicaid

Georgia Gov. George Busbee called it "the most complex, confusing, duplicative and administratively wasteful system ever conceived by man." Officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have acknowledged it is "Chaotic."

"It" is the combined Medicare-Medicaid health program. In testimony before Congress, HEW officials said they did not believe fraud was a major problem in the health assistance field, but they did view overuse and abuse of Medicare and Medicaid as a serious problem.

HEW Secretary David Mathews testified there is little incentive to doctors and hospitals to hold down costs of the health programs because they are paid on the basis of bills submitted. If it is true, as implied, that some practitioners and hospitals are performing unnecessary services in order to inflate their bills, that in itself is a form of fraud.

It would be helpful to both Congress which provides the legislative foundation for Medicare-Medicaid and HEW administrators who oversee the programs if Mathews could be more explicit in providing proof of the allegation and explain what HEW is doing to prevent abuses of this type in the programs now costing state and federal taxpayers $28 billion annually.

Idi Amin Builds Bed Of Quicksand

Idi Amin, the unpredictable chief of Uganda, may be coming to the end of his string. Amid reports that already he may have been the target of unsuccessful assassination plots from among his people — possibly from within his own military — Amin now faces a greater danger, lack of respect for his leadership capacities.

Events for Amin have all been downhill since the Entebbe airport incident. Enraged by the success of the Israeli commando rescue but impotent to respond in any meaningful way, Amin tried to arouse sentiment against a substitute target — neighboring Kenya.

Not only did that fail, but when vital supplies which must travel overland through Kenya were all but shut off, Amin made a further fool of himself by pretending his bellicose attitude was all a joke and what he really wanted was to be friends with Kenya. Nobody, least of all Kenya, is buying it.

Partly because of his dangerously erratic conduct, and partly, one suspects, to hasten his departure, Britain has broken off relations with the Amin government. The fact that is the first time Britain ever has taken such a step against a Commonwealth member has not been lost on Ugandans who see Amin as a growing liability.

Idi Amin has built himself a bed of quicksand from which escape no longer may be possible.

Precise Forecasting Of Quakes Badly Needed

In the not-too-distant past, about the best advice scientists were able to give concerning earthquakes was that they knew certain areas of the globe were more susceptible to the upheavals than others and they assumed those same regions would be victimized again.

That ignorance is changing rapidly. Through concentrated studies with elaborately sensitive instruments, scientists in the United States and China, among others, have reached the point of reasonably accurate earthquake predictability. Now they face another problem: What action to take on their predictions.

Many weeks will pass, perhaps months, before Chinese authorities have restored a semblance of routine to the cities and lives which have been shattered in what by all accounts is one of the most destructive earthquakes of this century. But when finally they have taken care of the pressing human needs, they will have an important dilemma to resolve.

Chinese scientists have been concentrating for some time on improving earthquake predictions with a view toward issuing warnings timely enough to prevent large loss of life, if not property damage. Apparently they were successful in saving many lives last year on the Liaoning Peninsula by initiating a mass evacuation before an earthquake hit the area.

There are credible accounts that Chinese scientists had predicted an earthquake in the Peking-Tientsin region would occur before the 1980s, but no similar evacuations had been attempted. The problem, of course, is that the cities involved were inhabited by millions of people. To undertake a forced evacuation based on an indefinite forecast simply was unthinkable.

Hindsight cannot change that picture. Contemplating how many lives might have been saved had such an evacuation been ordered changes nothing. Earthquake predicting is still too imprecise an art to rely upon, except for preliminary protective steps.

With each new earthquake disaster the pressure increases to improve forecasting so something more than token measures can be taken. Whether earthquake activity is increasing, as some have suggested, or they are merely striking more populous centers — resulting in increased casualties — the need for pushing an understanding of these disturbances to its fullest is growing.

Given the growing density of world populations, earthquake targets like Peking-Tientsin may no longer be so rare.

Voters Urged To Support Chikaming Safety Tax

Editor.

A millage proposal of 1½ mills is on the August 3rd ballot in Chikaming Township. The millage is for fire and police protection. I mill is for new fire trucks, as many of the existing trucks are ten years old and older, and ½ mill is for needed police protection.

Without the millage approval, the Chikaming Township Fire Department (consisting of 52 volunteer men) will be severely hampered, causing a proportional increase in fire insurance rates.

The Chikaming Township Police with 1 full time, and five part time officers will be similarly hampered.

There seems to be a movement, prompted by one candidate vying for a seat on the township board, to urge the voters of this township to defeat this millage vote. I totally disagree with this thinking. The current township board is NOT "just spending your money". A No vote on these propositions would undoubtedly mean an increase in your fire and vandalism insurance rates. Without up to date fire equipment, and "adequate" police protection, the State insurance rating board has to raise the dollar per thousand value of fire and vandalism protection.

My insurance agent has told me that most insured companies have suddenly refused to renew many vandalism policies, and have added increasingly tighter restrictions on fire insurance.

I am stressing the word "volunteer" for fire, and the word "needed" for police. Without these dedicated people, we would have virtually no fire and police protection. If volunteers and part time police officers were not available, the township would have to hire FULL TIME firemen and police officers. Think of how much money these full time officers would cost YOU.

These volunteers spend much of their own time and money training in police schools and fire training classes. These people should be commended not damned for the hours and dollars spent in training.

Voters of Chikaming Township: Find out the facts. Do not listen to half truths and mis-information. Find out what is really going on. Your township board is willing and able to answer your questions. Ask Them! Get Involved! Vote Yes for the millage questions August 3rd.

PRESIDENT FACED A 'DIFFICULT TASK'

Editor.

If the public thinks the Democrats are not going to be wallowing in Watergate this fall, think again. Republican leaders of both houses of Congress, even many Democrats said they would not have objected to the pardon if it had come after a trial, in order to avoid the jailing of a former president. Now the Democrats will not let the country forget Watergate and keep reminding us all Gerald Ford pardoned Nixon.

It was a difficult task that President Ford faced in satisfying the public. With the disorganization and distrust our country was left in, we did and do need a president who is very open and candid, knows how to exercise the power of the presidency and stands up for what he believes in. He has assumed leadership, finally taking hold and adding needed backbone to the posture of the United States.

More power to him.

The names of two other candidates have not yet been released.

Establishment of a municipal court in Benton Harbor was seriously considered by the city commission Monday afternoon. Although the idea got no further than a lengthy discussion yesterday and was left to further consideration, the consensus of the commission was unanimously favorable. A municipal court, it was pointed out, practically would abolish the present justice court work. All cases now handled by the two justice courts could be adjudicated before the municipal court judge.

Nude bathers swimming conspicuously in the river without even the scantiest bathing suit have given St. Joseph a shock. At the foot of State street and farther up the river boys and men have been going in swimming in this shape for several weeks and complaint has at last been made to the police. Chief Morton is surprised at the reports and has instructed his officers to keep an eagle eye set on the river. Anyone caught in the water without a sufficient dress will be arrested. The nude bathers have so far escaped detection by keeping their bodies submerged whenever the officers passed along the docks. They have not been so careful however, when the river steamers have passed them. An officer on the Tourist declares that on one occasion a group of naked boys stood on the Big Four pier opposite the Three-I depot in full view of the passengers while the steamer passed.

"Gosh, son! I wish I could help you, but I'm afraid I'm going through an identity crisis, too!"

Polls May Swing Votes

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The other day at a community swimming meet each timekeeper was told to quietly write his reading on the record sheet — not to voice his results out loud. Experience had demonstrated other timekeepers could be unduly influenced and some would change their times.

Surveys by political scientists seem to suggest strongly that poll results do swing votes in political races. No one knows why.

It is usually argued, with apparently little foundation, that a percentage of the voters want to be certain of going with the winner, so that their votes aren't "wasted."

If polls were reasonably accurate, and unbiased, this might not matter — or not matter much.

Michael Wheeler, associate professor of law at the New England School of Law in Boston, has now written a book entitled "Lies, Damn Lies, and Statistics: The Manipulation of Public Opinion in America."

In this book, Wheeler includes an analysis of some of the results of one of the more famous public pollsters in this country. He compares the reportedly nonpartisan ratings of President Nixon noted by the pollster (who had been employed by President Kennedy) before and after quietly taking on a job at the Nixon White House.

According to Wheeler, the more friendly this man became with Nixon assistant Charles Colson, the higher the Nixon rating in his nonpartisan polls.

Wheeler suggests that these poll results may have helped to keep Mr. Nixon in office longer.

Wheeler does not suggest this pollster consciously twisted his questions or deliberately biased his techniques. Nor is there any proof that the shift was anything more than accidental. But there it was, at least according to the Wheeler survey.

Now this same pollster, by his own statements, is a very close friend of Sen. Walter Mondale, Democratic vice presidential candidate.

The logical question is whether this man's friendship with Mondale is influencing his polls, which today show an extraordinarily high preference for the Carter-Mondale ticket. Some would say an unbelievably high preference, if judged by most past elections.

The other logical question is will those polls shift a significant number of votes?

To keep things in balance, it must be pointed out that another equally respected pollster has, according to some surveys, personally leaned toward Republican tickets, this reportedly showing up in his polls.

One thing is certain. Most of us are biased. For another, the questions in polls are normally highly subjective and usually poorly or vaguely phrased.

Part of the problem lies in our language, or interpretation. The word "fair" may be a derogatory term to some in evaluating a man. To others, it may indicate competence. Thus, when all the checks in a "fair" column are lumped together they may have no meaning statistically.

The most dangerous polls by far are those taken early in a presidential race or on a controversial subject, when their results, according to Wheeler, can be self-fulfilling prophecies.

Few Campuses Have 'It'

During the last term at Dartmouth college, an earnest discussion got underway about the "intellectual atmosphere" — that is, whether the college had one or not, and if it did, whether it was of satisfactory quality.

I thought I understood what the discussion was really all about, but the term "intellectual atmosphere" seemed a bit wide of the mark. After all, if you step inside any good library, the atmosphere is quite intellectual enough. You can spend the summer with Hegel or Husserl.

The thing general felt to be missing might better be called "intellectual romance" and indeed it seems to be in short supply on most American campuses. In one form or another, however, it almost certainly exists in pockets on all of them.

Intellectual romance comes in two principal styles. I call them, shorthand, "Oxford" and "Sorbonne."

The Oxford style involves the intellectual and sensual discovery of elegance — literary, artistic, stylistic. It can be encountered in its pure version, for example, in the opening pages of Compton Mackenzie's marvelous but almost forgotten novel "Sinister Street" (1914).

The hero, Michael Fane, arrives by train from London for his first day at Oxford and this version of intellectual romance before him.

"Then suddenly, as Michael was gazing out of the (train) window, the pearly sky broke into spires and pinnacles and domes and towers."

He finds his rooms in St. Mary's College and after a lunch of cheese and ale goes shopping in town.

"Michael bought three straight-grained pipes so substantially silvered that they made his own old pipes take on an attenuated vulgarity. He brought an obese tobacco jar blazoned with the arms of his college."

"Michael did not wander far in that dusk of fading spires and towers, for a bookshop glowing like a jewel in the gloom of an ancient street lured him within... The bookseller smiled. 'Do you know this set — Boccaccio, Rabelais, Straparola, Masuccio?' Michael could not resist the swish of the watered silk as Volume One of the Decameron was put back into its vacancy. And as he hurried down to college, the thought that he had spent nineteen pounds one shilling scarcely weighed against the imagination of lamplight making luminous three slitten backs of faded blue and green and red and gold..."

The "Sorbonne" style of intellectual romance is urban and much grittier. Its patron saints are figures like Hegel and Dostoyevsky. Its ideal background is not Oxford with its dreaming spires but the tenements and sidewalk cafes of the Parisian Left Bank. You don't smoke pipes, silvered or otherwise; you smoke cigarettes, drink cognac out of saucers, and try to look as if you had spent five years in earnest conversation with Simone de Beauvoir.

Both styles of intellectual romance have of course crossed the Atlantic. Scott Fitzgerald's "This Side of Paradise" has a hero named Amory Blaine who is an American version of Michael Fane. Fitzgerald viewed Princeton as an American Oxford.

On any campus, you can open a door to find cherished books and carefully selected prints reflecting a desire to aesthetic elegance. Urban campuses like Chicago and Columbia have their bistros where you can discuss Dostoyevsky for hours with the local Simone de Beauvoir.

The spirit of intellectual romance is not dead. It persists in spite of everything. In any case, a few good secondhand bookstores can do wonders for any campus.

Mysterious Killer May Be Swine Flu

Death Toll Mounts To 16 Who Attended Legion's Philadelphia Meeting

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Medical researchers today sought to identify an unknown, flu-like disease which in the past four days has brought death to 16 persons who attended a state American Legion convention. Health officials said there was no cause for panic.

Public health officials said the outbreak, which has sent at least 50 other people to the hospital, may be the result of swine flu. They said that they could not now make a firm diagnosis, suggesting viral pneumonia as another possible cause.

The ages of the dead ranged from 39 to 82. At least one death has been recorded officially as pneumonia. Autopsies have been ordered in many of the deaths.

All of the victims experienced the same symptoms: headaches, fever ranging to 107 degrees and chills. These were followed, in most cases, by chest pains, lung congestion and shortness of breath.

"I've never seen anything like it," said state Health Secretary Leonard Bachman.

Blood samples and throat swabbings from the victims were sent to state health laboratories in Philadelphia and flown to the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for tests.

It will take two to three days to grow cultures from the samples. These cultures could lead to identification of the disease.

Cases of the illness were reported throughout the state. All the persons affected attended the 10-day Legion convention in Philadelphia that ended July 24. The first reports of illness came last Monday; the first death last Friday. It was the mounting death toll Monday that alarmed public health officials.

Bachman was asked if it could be swine flu. "That's a possibility," he said. "We're trying to pin it down, but we don't know right now. But there's no reason to panic, everyone should realize that."

More than one million people from throughout the world are gathered in Philadelphia this week for the Roman Catholic International Eucharistic Congress. Congress officials said they had no plan to curtail activities.

The Center for Disease Control, an arm of the U.S. Public Health Service, dispatched a three-man medical investigative team to Pennsylvania. Two other virus experts from the CDC were already in the state.

Dr. Michael Gregg, director of the center's Viral Disease Division, said the symptoms reported by victims are similar to influenza, but it was too early, he said, to say whether it was swine flu.

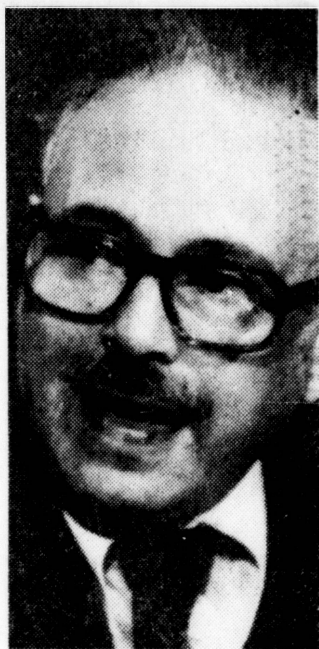

One recruit died when several hundred soldiers at Fort Dix, N.J., contracted swine flu early this year. The outbreak prompted plans for a nationwide immunization campaign this fall. The program is bogged down on issues of insurance protection for the drug companies producing the vaccine for immunization.

Most of those stricken in Pennsylvania were delegates to the Legion convention, although some wives and children who attended with delegates have also fallen ill.

More than 10,000 legionnaires attended the convention. Bach-

Deaths Could Hit 200 In Colorado

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Searchers switched from recovering the living to looking for the dead today in devastated Big Thompson Canyon, where officials said the death toll from a flash flood could climb far higher than the 77 known fatalities.

Larimer County Sheriff Robert Watson said the death figure could reach 200.

"Who knows what's buried in all this silt? Some farmer will dig down in his corn patch some day and find a body," the sheriff said.

Flying close to the craggy canyon walls, military helicopter pilots Monday evening ferried to safety all remaining survivors who wanted to leave. The popular Colorado Rockies vacation spot had been turned into a death trap by a torrential downpour Saturday night.

"Some survivors refused to leave their mountain homes," Watson said. "They were in good shape and thought they could do more good where they were."

Besides the 77 confirmed dead, authorities said 260 persons were injured, an estimated 559 were unaccounted for, and the search for the dead was just beginning.

Officials said the 12-foot wall of water unleashed by the flood was so powerful that many of the dead were found with their bodies stripped of clothing. One body was found 15 miles downstream from the canyon mouth.

"All the bodies will never be recovered," said Watson, who earlier had refused to estimate how high the death toll might reach, saying he feared public "panic and hysteria."

President Ford declared the 2,700-square mile county a federal disaster area Monday, making local residents eligible for federal relief assistance.

But Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm said it would take three years and $10 million just to rebuild U.S. 34, the once-scenic route that wound 30 miles down the canyon from Estes Park east to Loveland. The road ran beside the Big Thompson River, and little remained of it.

Monday's evacuation flights brought to 1,000 the number of persons lifted from the canyon since the airlift started early Sunday morning. More flights were planned as a precaution. Helicopter pilots said they were so busy dodging other helicopters in the canyon that they might have overlooked someone.

As the survivors emerged from helicopters at a landing zone here, ground crews scurried in white jackets to meet them. They were taken by bus to an evacuation center at Loveland High School, where the personal tales unfolded.

Nancy Witte, 30, Fort Yukon, Alaska, said the area near the Rocky Mountain National Park looked like "the creation of the world before roads were put in, before bridges were put in, before anything was put in."

Others emerging grimy and mud-soaked reported that communities along the winding stretch of scenic canyon — Drake, Glen Comfort, Cedar Grive, Modway and Glen Haven — were transformed into piles of debris and mud.

For some of the survivors at the evacuation center, there were joyous reunions with loved ones. For others, the waiting continued, another 24 hours gone and still no word.

Phyllis Conley, her face grim and strained, waited to learn the fate of her husband, a policeman from Colorado Springs, Colo.

"I think it's just a matter of time," she said. "Unless cir-

Proposed SJ Plans Include Tax Power

A Downtown Development Authority (DDA), which would have the power to levy taxes, is being proposed for downtown St. Joseph, according to Steven A. Reed, president of Telgroup.

Reed discussed the DDA proposal at Monday's meeting of the Twin Cities Rotary club held at the St. Joseph Elks lodge. Reed said the DDA, if established, would have the power to levy a tax of up to two mills on real estate within the boundaries of a downtown development district. Two mills would yield approximately $10,000 per year, over the proposed district, Reed said.

Telgroup, a St. Joseph-based marketing and public relations consulting firm, is coordinating "Project Foresight", which is a marketing development study for downtown St. Joseph.

Reed said the DDA would be primarily concerned with raising money to finance "brick and mortar" (long term) projects for improving downtown.

Reed listed other powers of the DDA:

—Broad powers for planning for economic development by a body which includes merchants, landlords, city government and area businessmen — all working together.

—Authority to retain taxes that would be paid to the city on any new developments in the district that add to the tax base. This means that new taxes generated in the district would remain in the district for further improvements.

—Authority to finance projects through borrowing or bonding in conjunction with the city (with city approval).

—Authority to coordinate financing of projects through other means, such as special assessments, an economic development corporation, building authorities. One of the authority's planning responsibilities would be to select the best means of financing.

The DDA could be developed by the St. Joseph Business association passing a resolution, which would then be presented to the city commission. A public hearing would then be held and it would then take a majority vote of the commission to establish the authority.

The DDA would be run by a nine-man board headed by the mayor with each board member having a vested interest in the development district. Any decisions made by the authority must have final permission of the city commission before it can proceed.

John Cookson, president of the St. Joseph Business association, has announced that there will be an open meeting Aug. 12 at the Maud Preston Palenske library at 7:30 p.m. at which time an advisory vote on the DDA will be taken. After the open meeting a general membership meeting will convene at which time official action on a resolution petitioning the city commission for formation of the DDA will be taken.

Wayne Ransbottom, manager of the St. Joseph Business as-

SJ PROJECT COST IS $800,000

Apartment Complex Proposed

Plans for a proposed $800,000, 48-unit apartment complex on the site of the old Baptist Children's home, 1401 Langley avenue, were presented to the St. Joseph city commission last night.

The plans were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, who were requesting a special use permit to build the complex. The request was referred to the planning commission. Smith said he was the owner of the Leonard Smith Construction Co., Inc., 814 Main street, St. Joseph.

The 4½-acre site, presently vacant, is owned by the Michigan Baptist Homes, Inc.,

with corporate offices in Detroit. The same organization also owns the Whitcomb Tower retirement center, St. Joseph.

The Smiths said they are presently "working on an option to buy" the property.

The Smiths termed the project a "luxury apartment community" and said it would be built in two stages. Each stage consisting of four buildings to contain a total of 24 units. Smith said the total project would cost about $800,000 including land. Rent would run from $250 per month minimum to $400 maximum. The apartments would include both one and two bedroom units.

Included in the project would be a swimming pool, recreation center, parking, and possibly a guard house for security near the entrance. Smith said the apartments are aimed at "retirees and young executives."

At Smith's $800,000 figure the cost of building each apartment would figure out to about $16,666 per unit.

Smith said he has been involved in similar apartment projects in Niles, Berrien Springs, Watervliet and Bridgman. The 4½ acres on Langley are presently zoned two-family residential.

Also at last night's meeting, the commission passed a resolution authorizing $173,500 left over from the $1.7 million bond issue used to pay for the water plant expansion program be used for renovations to the original water plant structure as well as the 1957 additions.

The work would include re-roofing the entire original plant and the entire 1957 additions, cleaning and repainting the metal surfaces of the existing upflow clarifier unit in the 1957 building addition, and installing 13 lights around the perimeter of the plant.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said the expansion program is completed except for minor work associated with plant start-up.

Hepler also read a letter signed by Walter B. Laetz, secretary-treasurer of the Tiscornia Foundation, Inc., St. Joseph, stating the foundation was pledging a grant of $10,000, payable in five installments, to the city for Tiscornia park (beach).

Hepler said the DNR has suggested non-residents pay $2 (on weekends and holidays) per car and city residents pay $1. Non-residents presently pay $2 per car and city residents nothing.

Hepler said he hopes private funds can be raised to help defray the cost of some of the projects planned for the park such as restroom facilities and a picnic area. Hepler said the city has been in contact with a number of private sources about possible funds. He said the St. Joseph Lions club has also pledged $2,000 for the park.

The commission also voted to enter into a contract for a federally assisted traffic sign program in which over 800 traffic signs will be replaced. The program will cost a total of $27,153 of which the city will pay $2,700.

Hepler said the project is part of a nationwide program to get "standardization" in traffic signs in all communities throughout the country. Hepler said the new signs, such as four-way, yield, etc., would be different in size and lettering. The commission also approved the transfer of a liquor license for the Sand Bar tavern, 2701 Lake Shore drive, from Alice Carroll to William P. (Paul) Weber, 4685 Terra lane, St. Joseph. Weber said he is in the process of buying the tavern. The commission denied Weber's request for a dance permit. The city police recommended the dance permit not be issued because there was presently not enough space in the building.

Last night's meeting was chaired by Mayor Pro-tem Joseph Hanley in the absence of Mayor Frank Smith.

ARIC Proposes Two Ordinances To St. Joe City

Restrictions on the sites permissible for holding rummage sales and parking recreational vehicles in St. Joseph were proposed to the city commission last night by J. Howard Edwards, executive director of the Area Resources Improvement Council (ARIC).

Edwards read a resolution passed by ARIC at a recent meeting that recommends that rummage (garage) sales in St. Joseph be allowed on church, school or commercial properties only. The resolution also suggested that prolonged parking of trailers, boats, trucks and other recreational vehicles be limited to the rear yards of homes.

There was no action taken on the resolution last night by the commission until further study of the problems could be made.

The resolution stated "...rummage sales produce often unsightly signs on adjacent property, writing on curbs to give directions, a blocking of streets because of inadequate parking and some times disruption of neighborhood peace and quiet."

The resolution further stated prolonged parking of recreational vehicles "...on driveways or sideyards between the setback line and sidewalk blocks the view of neighboring homes, often is unsightly, and at the very least constitutes a violation of the spirit of the city's setback ordinance."

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston said the setback line is usually at least 30 feet from the street, and that structures cannot be built closer to the street than that.

BH Schools Will Borrow $2 Million

The Benton Harbor board of education Monday voted to borrow $1 million from Farmers & Merchants National bank and another $1 million from Inter-City bank. The loans are for operating money, pending arrival of state aid.

F&M submitted the lowest rate of interest, 3.72 per cent, but the F&M bid was only on $1 million, and the board wanted to borrow $2 million.

Inter-City's interest bid was 4.10 per cent on $2 million, so the board took all of F&M's low bid and half of ICB's at 4.10 per cent. A third bidder was Michigan National bank, Battle Creek, with an interest rate of 4.15 per cent on $2 million. The notes are due Sept. 1, 1977. Borrowings for the last school were $500,000 at 3.85 per cent; $500,000 at 4.66 per cent; $1 million at 4.60 per cent; and $800,000 at 4.3 per cent.

Talk About A Mess!-- It's Medicare-Medicaid

Georgia Gov. George Busbee called it "the most complex, confusing, duplicative and administratively wasteful system ever conceived by man." Officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have acknowledged it is "Chaotic."

"It" is the combined Medicare-Medicaid health program. In testimony before Congress, HEW officials said they did not believe fraud was a major problem in the health assistance field, but they did view overuse and abuse of Medicare and Medicaid as a serious problem.

HEW Secretary David Mathews testified there is little incentive to doctors and hospitals to hold down costs of the health programs because they are paid on the basis of bills submitted. If it is true, as implied, that some practitioners and hospitals are performing unnecessary services in order to inflate their bills, that in itself is a form of fraud.

It would be helpful to both Congress which provides the legislative foundation for Medicare-Medicaid and HEW administrators who oversee the programs if Mathews could be more explicit in providing proof of the allegation and explain what HEW is doing to prevent abuses of this type in the programs now costing state and federal taxpayers $28 billion annually.

Idi Amin Builds Bed Of Quicksand

Idi Amin, the unpredictable chief of Uganda, may be coming to the end of his string. Amid reports that already he may have been the target of unsuccessful assassination plots from among his people — possibly from within his own military — Amin now faces a greater danger, lack of respect for his leadership capacities.

Events for Amin have all been downhill since the Entebbe airport incident. Enraged by the success of the Israeli commando rescue but impotent to respond in any meaningful way, Amin tried to arouse sentiment against a substitute target — neighboring Kenya.

Not only did that fail, but when vital supplies which must travel overland through Kenya were all but shut off, Amin made a further fool of himself by pretending his bellicose attitude was all a joke and what he really wanted was to be friends with Kenya. Nobody, least of all Kenya, is buying it.

Partly because of his dangerously erratic conduct, and partly, one suspects, to hasten his departure, Britain has broken off relations with the Amin government. The fact that is the first time Britain ever has taken such a step against a Commonwealth member has not been lost on Ugandans who see Amin as a growing liability.

Idi Amin has built himself a bed of quicksand from which escape no longer may be possible.

Precise Forecasting Of Quakes Badly Needed

In the not-too-distant past, about the best advice scientists were able to give concerning earthquakes was that they knew certain areas of the globe were more susceptible to the upheavals than others and they assumed those same regions would be victimized again.

That ignorance is changing rapidly. Through concentrated studies with elaborately sensitive instruments, scientists in the United States and China, among others, have reached the point of reasonably accurate earthquake predictability. Now they face another problem: What action to take on their predictions.

Many weeks will pass, perhaps months, before Chinese authorities have restored a semblance of routine to the cities and lives which have been shattered in what by all accounts is one of the most destructive earthquakes of this century. But when finally they have taken care of the pressing human needs, they will have an important dilemma to resolve.

Chinese scientists have been concentrating for some time on improving earthquake predictions with a view toward issuing warnings timely enough to prevent large loss of life, if not property damage. Apparently they were successful in saving many lives last year on the Liaoning Peninsula by initiating a mass evacuation before an earthquake hit the area.

There are credible accounts that Chinese scientists had predicted an earthquake in the Peking-Tientsin region would occur before the 1980s, but no similar evacuations had been attempted. The problem, of course, is that the cities involved were inhabited by millions of people. To undertake a forced evacuation based on an indefinite forecast simply was unthinkable.

Hindsight cannot change that picture. Contemplating how many lives might have been saved had such an evacuation been ordered changes nothing. Earthquake predicting is still too imprecise an art to rely upon, except for preliminary protective steps.

With each new earthquake disaster the pressure increases to improve forecasting so something more than token measures can be taken. Whether earthquake activity is increasing, as some have suggested, or they are merely striking more populous centers — resulting in increased casualties — the need for pushing an understanding of these disturbances to its fullest is growing.

Given the growing density of world populations, earthquake targets like Peking-Tientsin may no longer be so rare.

Voters Urged To Support Chikaming Safety Tax

Editor.

A millage proposal of 1½ mills is on the August 3rd ballot in Chikaming Township. The millage is for fire and police protection. 1 mill is for new fire trucks, as many of the existing trucks are ten years old and older, and ½ mill is for needed police protection.

Without the millage approval, the Chikaming Township Fire Department (consisting of 52 volunteer men) will be severely hampered, causing a proportional increase in fire insurance rates.

The Chikaming Township Police with 1 full time, and five part time officers will be similarly hampered.

There seems to be a movement, prompted by one candidate vying for a seat on the township board, to urge the voters of this township to defeat this millage vote. I totally disagree with this thinking. The current township board is NOT "just spending your money". A No vote on these propositions would undoubtedly mean an increase in your fire and vandalism insurance rates. Without up to date fire equipment, and "adequate" police protection, the State insurance rating board has to raise the dollar per thousand value of fire and vandalism protection.

My insurance agent has told me that most insurance companies have suddenly refused to renew many vandalism policies, and have added increasingly tighter restrictions on fire in-officer.

I am stressing the word "volunteer" for fire, and the word "needed" for police. Without these dedicated people, we would have virtually no fire and police protection. If volunteers and part time police officers were not available, the township would have to hire FULL TIME firemen and police officers. Think of how much money these full time officers would cost YOU.

These volunteers spend much of their own time and money training in police schools and fire training classes. These people should be commended not damned for the hours and dollars spent in training.

Voters of Chikaming Township: Find out the facts. Do not listen to half truths and mis-information. Find out what is really going on. Your township board is willing and able to answer your questions. Ask Them! Get Involved! Vote Yes for the millage questions August 3rd.

PRESIDENT FACED A 'DIFFICULT TASK'

Editor.

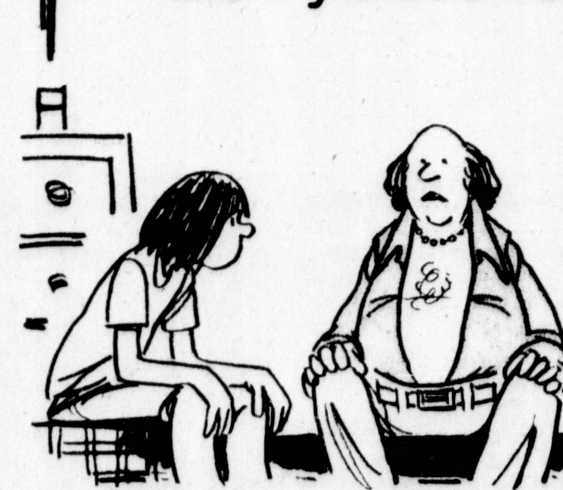

If the public thinks the Democrats are not going to be wallowing in Watergate this fall, think again. Republican leaders of both houses of Congress, even many Democrats said they would not have objected to the pardon if it had come after a trial, in order to avoid the jailing of a former president. Now the Democrats will not let the country forget Watergate and keep reminding us all Gerald Ford pardoned Nixon.

It was a difficult task that President Ford faced in satisfying the public. With the disorganization and distrust our country was left in, we did and do need a president who is very open and candid, knows how to exercise the power of the presidency and stands up for what he believes in. He has assumed leadership, finally taking hold and adding needed backbone to the posture of the United States.

More power to him.

Polls May Swing Votes

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The other day at a community swimming meet each timekeeper was told to quietly write his reading on the record sheet — not to voice his results out loud. Experience had demonstrated other timekeepers could be unduly influenced and some would change their times.

Surveys by political scientists seem to suggest strongly that poll results do swing votes in political races. No one knows why.

It is usually argued, with apparently little foundation, that a percentage of the voters want to be certain of going with the winner, so that their votes aren't "wasted."

If polls were reasonably accurate, and unbiased, this might not matter — or not matter much.

Michael Wheeler, associate professor of law at the New England School of Law in Boston, has now written a book entitled "Lies, Damn Lies, and Statistics: The Manipulation of Public Opinion in America."

In this book, Wheeler includes an analysis of some of the results of one of the more famous public pollsters in this country. He compares the reportedly nonpartisan ratings of President Nixon noted by the pollster (who had been employed by President Kennedy) before and after quietly taking on a job at the Nixon White House.

According to Wheeler, the more friendly this man became with Nixon assistant Charles Colson, the higher the Nixon rating in his nonpartisan polls.

Wheeler suggests that these poll results may have helped to keep Mr. Nixon in office longer.

Wheeler does not suggest this pollster consciously twisted his questions or deliberately biased his techniques. Nor is there any proof that the shift was anything more than accidental. But there it was, at least according to the Wheeler survey.

Now this same pollster, by his own statements, is a very close friend of Sen. Walter Mondale, Democratic vice presidential candidate.

The logical question is whether this man's friendship with Mondale is influencing his polls, which today show an extraordinarily high preference for the Carter-Mondale ticket. Some would say an unbelievably high preference, if judged by most past elections.

The other logical question is will those polls shift a significant number of votes?

To keep things in balance, it must be pointed out that another equally respected pollster has, according to some surveys, personally leaned toward Republican tickets, this reportedly showing up in his polls.

One thing is certain. Most of us are biased. For another, the questions in polls are normally highly subjective and usually poorly or vaguely phrased.

Part of the problem lies in our language, or interpretation. The word "fair" may be a derogatory term to some in evaluating a man. To others, it may indicate competence. Thus, when all the checks in a "fair" column are lumped together they may have no meaning statistically.

The most dangerous polls by far are those taken early in a presidential race or on a controversial subject, when their results, according to Wheeler, can be self-fulfilling prophecies.

Few Campuses Have 'It'

During the last term at Dartmouth college, an earnest discussion got underway about the "intellectual atmosphere" — that is, whether the college had one or not, and if it did, whether it was of satisfactory quality.

I thought I understood what the discussion was really all about, but the term "intellectual atmosphere" seemed a bit wide of the mark. After all, if you step inside any good library, the atmosphere is quite intellectual enough. You can spend the summer with Hegel or Husserl.

The thing general felt to be missing might better be called "intellectual romance" and indeed it seems to be in short supply on most American campuses. In one form or another, however, it almost certainly exists in pockets on all of them.

Intellectual romance comes in two principal styles. I call them, shorthand, "Oxford" and "Sorbonne."

The Oxford style involves the intellectual and sensual discovery of elegance — literary, artistic, stylistic. It can be encountered in its pure version, for example, in the opening pages of Compton Mackenzie's marvelous but almost forgotten novel "Sinister Street" (1914).

The hero, Michael Fane, arrives by train from London for his first day at Oxford and this version of intellectual romance before him.

"Then suddenly, as Michael was gazing out of the (train) window, the pearly sky broke into spires and pinnacles and domes and towers."

He finds his rooms in St. Mary's College and after a lunch of cheese and ale goes shopping in town.

"Michael bought three straight-grained pipes so substantially silvered that they made his own old pipes take on an attenuated vulgarity. He brought an obese tobacco jar blazoned with the arms of his college..."

"Michael did not wander far in that dusk of fading spires and towers, for a bookshop glowing like a jewel in the gloom of an ancient street lured him within... The bookseller smiled. 'Do you know this set — Boccaccio, Rabelais, Straparola, Masuccio?' Michael could not resist the swish of the watered silk as Volume One of the Decameron was put back into its vacancy. And as he hurried down to college, he thought that he had spent nineteen pounds on shilling scarcely weighed against the imagination of lamplight making luminous those silken backs of faded blue and green and red and gold..."

The "Sorbonne" style of intellectual romance is urban and much grittier. Its patron saints are figures like Hegel and Dostoevsky. Its ideal background is not Oxford with its dreaming spires but the tenements and sidewalk cafes of the Parisian Left Bank. You don't smoke pipes, silvered or otherwise; you smoke cigarettes, drink cognac out of saucers, and try to look as if you had spent five years in earnest conversation with Simone de Beauvoir.

Both styles of intellectual romance have of course crossed the Atlantic. Scott Fitzgerald's "This Side of Paradise" has a hero named Amory Blaine who is an American version of Michael Fane. Fitzgerald viewed Princeton as an American Oxford.

On any campus, you can open a door to find cherished books and carefully selected prints reflecting a desire to aesthetic elegance. Urban campuses like Chicago and Columbia have their bistros where you can discuss Dostoevsky for hours with the local Simone de Beauvoir.

The spirit of intellectual romance is not dead. It persists in spite of everything. In any case, a few good secondhand bookstores can do wonders for any campus.

Preserves Indian Culture Through Art And Writing

NEW YORK (AP) — When Hrooskahrohet was a child on the Tuscarora reservation in upper New York State his father immersed him in the culture and traditions of the American Indian — the ways of the woods, the earth and the mythology surrounding the countless plants that grow near his home.

Today, Hrooskahrohet — loosely translated as He Who Wears a Cloth Shirt — is 36-year-old Ted Williams, author, painter, sculptor, musician, ex-paratrooper and medicine man.

He has turned his talents to spreading the culture of his people through his art and his writing, both of which have been recently published as "The Reservation."

The book is a series of short essays and sketches describing the life of American Indians as seen through the eyes of a young boy. It also contains Williams' philosophy of life.

"If you're positive, you can do anything," he said in an interview, pausing to light the latest in an endless stream of cigarettes. "You create your own environment."

Williams was dressed in a gaudy flowered shirt and red pants. A necklace of brightly colored Indian beads held his eyeglasses. Under his shirt he wears a medicine bag that he says "beats up" to warn him of impending danger. A pair of hoop earrings under his long black hair carries turquoise good-luck charms. On the back of his shirt was printed "have a nice day."

Although he rarely practices Indian medicine for fear of legal action. Williams has numerous tales to tell of his and his father's prowess as herb doctors.

Williams left the Indian reservation at 18 to join the army, serving four years as a paratrooper, most of them in Korea. After the war, he took advantage of the GI Bill to study modern jazz at the Knapp Institute in Chicago and learned to play the trumpet. About 10 years ago, he went to work for Eastman Kodak in Rochester, N.Y., where he now lives.

Williams got started on "The Reservation" almost purely by chance. "I saw this woman that I had eyes for and I got her phone number. About a week later I got the nerve to call her and she said she was going to sign up for a creative writing course. I said, 'That's all I ever wanted to do.' That was an old Indian trick," he said, and laughed at the memory of his small lie. "The next thing I knew, I had a book and a wife," added Williams, who has been married twice and has four children.

He wrote down some of his experiences, getting a great deal of encouragement from a professor and friends, one of whom sent a few of his stories to Syracuse University Press. They responded with a contract to do the book.

Although he says he hasn't encountered any real racial discrimination, Williams feels there are popular misconceptions about the lives and characters of his people that should be cleared up. And that was one of his reasons for writing the book.

Williams is concerned about the current militancy in the American Indian Movement (AIM). "They might be accomplishing something, I kind of think they're not," he said. "Negative feelings are like negative seeds and you reap a negative harvest."

The writer-artist noted a tendency among Indians not to vote. Williams himself does not. "It's almost an edict from the chiefs," he explained. "Voting would be the first step toward the eradication of Indian status as a separate nation."

A reflection of this is the fact that the Indians will be the only group that won't actively celebrate the Bicentennial year. "They're not interested. They look upon it as they would any other form of entertainment."

Williams does not worry, on the other hand, about the possibility of the current loss of Indian culture in the melting-pot of American life. "Nothing is ever lost because if the need persists we can have anything we want," he said. "There will always be change and it is always for the best. Sometimes we have to get hit on the head with a 2-by-4 to see it, but change is inevitable."

Soccer Player Gives Good Grooming Advice

"In Europe, good grooming — like physical fitness — starts early," says New York Cosmos soccer star Mike Dillon.

"European men take things like hair care and weight control much more for granted — they aren't new fads," the native Londoner says.

Dillon's muscled frame and casual good looks are topped by a head of thick curly hair which he takes good care of. "Any guy's hair looks best when it's clean. But mine gets frizzy when it's washed a lot — except when I use gentle baby shampoo. It's easy on my hair and I can keep the style I like no matter how often I wash and blow dry it."

Twenty-three-year-old Dillon, who signed his first pro soccer contract at the age of 15 with the London Spurs, says soccer is a game that requires stamina and the ability to move quickly — and that means staying healthy.

"There's lots of pressure, too," he admits. "That's why the after-game shower is a necessary tension reliever. Then we all use lots of baby powder after the shower — we like to be cool and comfortable just like everybody else," he laughs.

Dillon's scarred legs are

By his own estimate, Dillon has about 10 more years of soccer-playing ability left. What will he do when his soccer days are over? "Well, I own a London cab which my father drives while I'm in this country," he answers. "That's another occupation where the ability to move quickly counts," he adds.

Proposed SJ Plans Include Tax Power

A Downtown Development Authority (DDA), which would have the power to levy taxes, is being proposed for downtown St. Joseph, according to Steven A. Reed, president of Telgroup.

Reed discussed the DDA proposal at Monday's meeting of the Twin Cities Rotary club held at the St. Joseph Elks lodge. Reed said the DDA, if established, would have the power to levy a tax of up to two mills on real estate within the boundaries of a downtown development district. Two mills would yield approximately $10,000 per year, over the proposed district, Reed said.

Telgroup, a St. Joseph-based marketing and public relations consulting firm, is coordinating "Project Foresight", which is a marketing development study for downtown St. Joseph.

Reed said the DDA would be primarily concerned with raising money to finance "brick and mortar" (long term) projects for improving downtown.

Reed listed other powers of the DDA:

—Broad powers for planning for economic development by a body which includes merchants, landlords, city government and area businessmen — all working together.

—Authority to retain taxes that would be paid to the city on any new developments in the district that add to the tax base. This means that new taxes generated in the district would remain in the district for further improvements.

—Authority to finance projects through borrowing or bonding in conjunction with the city (with city approval).

—Authority to coordinate financing of projects through other means, such as special assessments, an economic development corporation, building authorities. One of the authority's planning responsibilities would be to select the best means of financing.

The DDA could be developed by the St. Joseph Business association passing a resolution, which would then be presented to the city commission. A public hearing would then be held and it would then take a majority vote of the commission to establish the authority.

The DDA would be run by a nine-man board headed by the mayor with each board member having a vested interest in the development district. Any decisions made by the authority must have final permission of the city commission before it can proceed.

John Cookson, president of the St. Joseph Business association, has announced that there will be an open meeting Aug. 12 at the Maud Preston Palenske library at 7:30 p.m. at which time an advisory vote on the DDA will be taken. After the open meeting a general membership meeting will convene at which time official action on a resolution petitioning the city commission for formation of the DDA will be taken.

Wayne Ransbottom, manager of the St. Joseph Business association, gave a brief history of Project Foresight prior to introducing Reed. The St. Joseph Business association is an affiliate of the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

SJ PROJECT COST IS $800,000

Apartment Complex Proposed

Plans for a proposed $800,000, 48-unit apartment complex on the site of the old Baptist Children's home, 1401 Langley avenue, were presented to the St. Joseph city commission last night.

The plans were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, who were requesting a special use permit to build the complex. The request was referred to the planning commission. Smith said he was the owner of the Leonard Smith Construction Co., Inc., 914 Main street, St. Joseph.

The 4½-acre site, presently vacant, is owned by the Michigan Baptist Homes, Inc.,

with corporate offices in Detroit. The same organization also owns the Whitcomb Tower retirement center, St. Joseph.

The Smiths said they are presently "working on an option to buy" the property.

The Smiths termed the project a "luxury apartment community" and said it would be built in two stages. Each stage consisting of four buildings to contain a total of 24 units. Smith said the total project would cost about $800,000 including land. Rent would run from $250 per month minimum to $400 maximum. The apartments would include both one and two bedroom units.

Included in the project would be a swimming pool, recreation center, parking, and possibly a guard house for security near the entrance. Smith said the apartments are aimed at "retirees and young executives."

At Smith's $800,000 figure the cost of building each apartment would figure out to about $16,600 per unit.

Smith said he has been involved in similar apartment projects in Niles, Berrien Springs, Watervliet and Bridgman. The 4½ acres on Langley are presently zoned two-family residential.

Also at last night's meeting, the commission passed a resolution authorizing $173,500 left over from the $4.7 million bond issue used to pay for the water plant expansion program be used for renovations to the original water plant structure as well as the 1957 additions.

The work would include re-roofing the entire original plant and the entire 1957 additions, cleaning and repainting the metal surfaces of the existing upflow clarifier unit in the 1957 building addition, and installing 13 lights around the perimeter of the plant.

City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said the expansion program is completed except for minor work associated with plant start-up.

Hepler also read a letter signed by Walter B. Laetz, secretary-treasurer of the Tiscornia Foundation, Inc., St. Joseph, stating the foundation was pledging a grant of $10,000, payable in five installments, to the city for Tiscornia park (beach).

Hepler said the Department of Natural Resources has offered the city $28,500 for improvements at the beach, but the city has presently declined to take the money because of a disagreement on whether city residents should pay to enter the park.

Hepler said the DNR has suggested non-residents pay $2 (on weekends and holidays) per car and city residents pay $1. Non-residents presently pay $2 per car and city residents nothing.

Hepler said he hopes private funds can be raised to help defray the cost of some of the projects planned for the park such as restroom facilities and a picnic area. Hepler said the city has been in contact with a number of private sources about possible funds. He said the St. Joseph Lions club has also pledged $2,000 for the park.

The commission also voted to enter into a contract for a federally assisted traffic sign program in which over 800 traffic signs will be replaced. The program will cost a total of $27,153 of which the city will pay $2,700.

Hepler said the project is part of a nationwide program to get "standardization" in traffic signs in all communities throughout the country. Hepler said the new signs, such as four-way, yield, etc., would be different in size and lettering. The commission also approved the transfer of a liquor license for the Sand Bar tavern, 2701 Lake Shore drive, from Alice Carroll to William P. (Paul) Weber, 4685 Terra lane, St. Joseph. Weber said he is in the process of buying the tavern. The commission denied Weber's request for a dance permit. The city police recommended the dance permit not be issued because there was presently not enough space in the building.

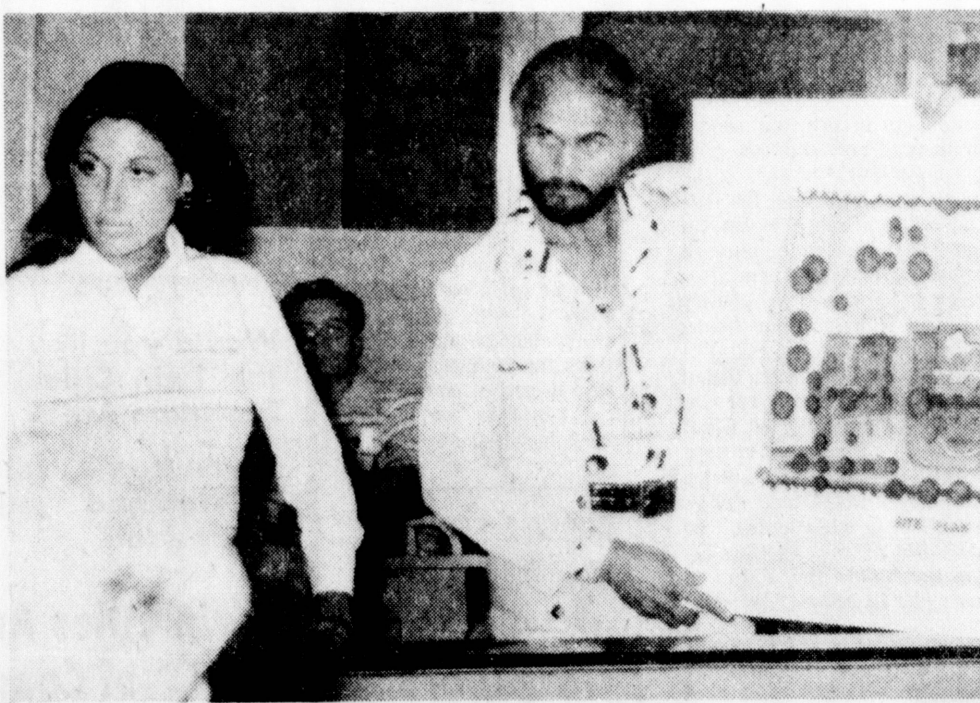

Last night's meeting was chaired by Mayor Pro-tem Joseph Hanley in the absence of Mayor Frank Smith.

ARIC Proposes Two Ordinances To St. Joe City

Restrictions on the sites permissible for holding rummage sales and parking recreational vehicles in St. Joseph were proposed to the city commission last night by J. Howard Edwards, executive director of the Area Resources Improvement Council (ARIC).

Edwards read a resolution passed by ARIC at a recent meeting that recommends that rummage (garage) sales in St. Joseph be allowed on church, school or commercial properties only. The resolution also suggested that prolonged parking of trailers, boats, trucks and other recreational vehicles be limited to the rear yards of homes.

There was no action taken on the resolution last night by the commission until further study of the problems could be made.

The resolution stated "...rummage sales produce often unsightly signs on adjacent property, writing on curbs to give directions, a blocking of streets because of inadequate parking and some times disruption of neighborhood peace and quiet...."

The resolution further stated prolonged parking of recreational vehicles "...on driveways or sideyards between the setback line and sidewalk blocks the view of neighboring homes, often is unsightly, and at the very least constitutes a violation of the spirit of the city's setback ordinance...."

City Atty. Arthur G. Preston said the setback line is usually at least 30 feet from the street, and that structures cannot be built closer to the street than that.

BH Schools Will Borrow $2 Million

The Benton Harbor board of education Monday voted to borrow $1 million from Farmers & Merchants National bank and another $1 million from Inter-City bank. The loans are for operating money, pending arrival of state aid.

F&M submitted the lowest rate of interest, 3.72 per cent, but the F&M bid was only on $1 million, and the board wanted to borrow $2 million.

Inter-City's interest bid was 4.10 per cent on $2 million, so the board took all of F&M's low bid and half of ICB's at 4.10 per cent. A third bidder was Michigan National bank, Battle Creek, with an interest rate of 4.19 per cent on $2 million. The notes are due Sept. 1, 1977. Borrowings for the last school were $500,000 at 3.85 per cent; $500,000 at 4.68 per cent; $1 million at 4.60 per cent; and $900,000 at 4.3 per cent.

Preserves Indian Culture Through Art And Writing

NEW YORK (AP) — When Hrooskahroret was a child on the Tuscarora reservation in upper New York State his father immersed him in the culture and traditions of the American Indian — the ways of the woods, the earth and the mythology surrounding the countless plants that grew near his home.

Today, Hrooskahroret — loosely translated as He Who Wears a Cloth Shirt — is 36-year-old Ted Williams, author, painter, sculptor, musician, ex-paratrooper and medicine man.

He has turned his talents to spreading the culture of his people through his art and his writing, both of which have been recently published as "The Reservation."

The book is a series of short essays and sketches describing the life of American Indians as seen through the eyes of a young boy. It also contains Williams' philosophy of life.

"If you're positive, you can do anything," he said in an interview, pausing to light the latest in an endless stream of cigarettes. "You create your own environment."

Williams was dressed in a gaudy flowered shirt and red pants. A necklace of brightly colored Indian beads held his eyeglasses. Under his shirt he wears a medicine bag that he says "heats up" to warn him of impending danger. A pair of hoop earrings under his long black hair carries turquoise good-luck charms. On the back of his shirt was printed "have a nice day."

Although he rarely practices Indian medicine for fear of legal action, Williams has numerous tales to tell of his and his father's prowess as herb doctors.

AUTHOR: Multi-talented artist, musician and now author of a book on American Indians, Ted Williams learned about the culture and traditions of his people while growing up on the Tuscarora reservation in upper New York State.

Williams left the Indian reservation at 18 to join the army, serving four years as a paratrooper, most of them in Korea. After the war, he took advantage of the GI Bill to study modern jazz at the Knapp Institute in Chicago and learned to play the trumpet. About 10 years ago, he went to work for Eastman Kodak in Rochester, N.Y., where he now lives.

Williams got started on "The Reservation" almost purely by chance. "I saw this woman that I had eyes for and I got her phone number. About a week later I got the nerve to call her and she said she was going to sign up for a creative writing course. I said, 'That's all I ever wanted to do.' That was an old Indian trick," he said, and laughed at the memory of his small lie. "The next thing I knew, I had a book and a wife," added Williams, who has been married twice and has four children.

He wrote down some of his experiences, getting a great deal of encouragement from a professor and friends, one of whom sent a few of his stories to Syracuse University Press. They responded with a contract to do the book.

Although he says he hasn't encountered any real racial discrimination, Williams feels there are popular misconceptions about the lives and characters of his people that should be cleared up. And that was one of his reasons for writing the book.

Williams is concerned about the current militancy in the American Indian Movement (AIM). "They might be accomplishing something, I kind of think they're not," he said. "Negative feelings are like negative seeds and you reap a negative harvest."

The writer-artist noted a tendency among Indians not to vote. Williams himself does not. "It's almost an edict from the chiefs," he explained. "Voting would be the first step toward the eradication of Indian status as a separate nation."

A reflection of this is the fact that the Indians will be the only group that won't actively celebrate the Bicentennial year. "They're not interested. They look upon it as they would any other form of entertainment."

Williams does not worry, on the other hand, about the possibility of the current loss of Indian culture in the melting-pot of American life. "Nothing is ever lost because if the need persists we can have anything we want," he said. "There will always be change and it is always for the best. Sometimes we have to get hit on the head with a 2-by-4 to see it, but change is inevitable."

Soccer Player Gives Good Grooming Advice

"In Europe, good grooming — like physical fitness — starts early," says New York Cosmos soccer star Mike Dillon.

"European men take things like hair care and weight control much more for granted — they aren't new fads," the native Londoner says.

matter how often I wash and blow dry it."

Twenty-three-year-old Dillon, who signed his first pro soccer contract at the age of 15 with the London Spurs, says soccer is a game that requires stamina and the ability to move quickly — and that means staying healthy.

"There's lots of pressure, too," he admits. "That's why the after-game shower is a necessary tension reliever. Then we all use lots of baby powder after the shower — we like to be cool and comfortable just like everybody else," he laughs.

Dillon's scarred legs are

By his own estimate, Dillon has about 10 more years of soccer-playing ability left. What will he do when his soccer days are over? "Well, I own a London cab which my father drives while I'm in this country," he answers. "That's another occupation where the ability to move quickly counts," he adds.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Heart Has Mind Of Its Own

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an 18-year-old guy who has a terrific problem that won't mean a thing to anybody but me. Let me start off by telling you I'm not gay, or even borderline. I'm normal in every way, an above-average student, no hangups (except this one) and my outlook on life is great. Now comes the problem:

As I sit here writing to you tears are streaming down my face. I can barely see to type. Why am I bawling? I just buried my cat, Daisy. What's so unusual about that? Well, last week I went to my grandmother's funeral. Mom was sobbing out loud, my aunts were nearly hysterical, a few of my cousins were crying, and me, I didn't even have a lump in my throat. There's got to be something wrong with a dude who can sit dry-eyed through his grandmother's funeral and cry his foolish head off when his cat dies.

heads, but a heart has a mind of its own.

Turned Tables

Dear Ann Landers: Cheers for your advice to the 40-year-old guy who was being blackmailed by a fellow employee.

Many years ago in Boston, I was the intended victim of an extortionist. After jostling me in a public place, the rat posed as a detective (showed a phony badge) and proceeded to "write me up." Of course, the whole thing would be "forgotten" if I was willing to pay up.

I led the would-be blackmailer to a bank on the pretense of withdrawing funds. While there I notified the teller of my plight. He called the police and the man was arrested on the spot.

I happen to be gay, and the blackmailer knew it, but the complaint was lodged BY, not against me. When the case was presented to the great Judge Elijah Adlow of Boston, the defense attorney persisted in questioning me about my sex life. I protested. The attorney was then interrupted by the judge who told him that if his client had been solicited by me, he should not have attempted to take the law into his own hands. The man was found guilty and sentenced to prison.

The comforting part of the case was the congratulations I received from the turn police. So few people are willing to turn to them for help for fear they will be accused of a crime themselves. I say, and with good reason — Hurrah For The Boston Police.

Dear H.: Double hooray. I can think of no city in the U.S. where it's been more difficult to be a good law enforcement of-

Dr. Lester Coleman

Some of our friends think that the ballyhoo about the swine flu vaccine is exaggerated. What is the doctor's point of view? - Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Maine

Dear Mr. and Mrs. W.: If only one life is saved by the "ballyhoo" then your friends are wrong.

Far too many people have called this intensive drive a political maneuver. This is totally unfair because epidemiologists who know about the spread of disease are completely separated from any such intrigue.

Already, thousands of people across the country have served as test subjects to evaluate the dose requirements, the efficacy and the side reactions of the new "swine flu" vaccine.

It is well known that any flu injection may cause sore arms and a mild fever in a small percentage of cases.

For years, doctors have heard the complaint, "I got an injection and then caught the flu so I'll never take it again." This is not valid and has been responsible for the fact that in 1967 and 1968 many people who chose not to be inoculated became a mortality statistic.

Unless there is a specific contraindication to its use because of allergy or hypersensitivity, the scientific value of the new vaccine must be accepted.

The plan of Public Health officials is to keep all doctors posted on every phase of this great national undertaking. If there are any political overtones it is an excellent reflection on the "political" awareness that good health is a sub-structure of our destiny.

For the past few months my fingernails have become dark yellow in color. I've tried everything to get rid of this discoloration without success. All ten nails have this color. - Mrs. R. M. Mass

Dear Mrs. M.: The first thought that occurs to me is the possibility that the nails themselves may not be discolored. Perhaps it is the bed beneath the nail — that is yellowish.

Discolorations of this sort may be due to a mild jaundice. This can be easily determined by many of the blood tests that are now available.

It is difficult to believe that a fungus infection would involve all of the fingers. Have you consulted a doctor about this or are you just trying a variety of homemade remedies?

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... For greater safety in the home, children and adults, too, will benefit by keeping sharp knives in protective sheaths.

Michigan Vegetables In Peak Supply Now

The food outlook for August reveals homemakers will have little trouble making ends meet if they choose the foods in best supply — and there are many, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Food Marketing Agent.

August is the month for peak supplies of both Michigan and other domestic-grown vegetables, so the biggest problem will be how to work them into menus before their seasons are over.

Peak supplies are now found of green beans, beets, sweet corn, cucumbers, green peppers, celery, cabbage, carrots, eggplant, summer squash, tomatoes, potatoes and onions.

Slicer cuke acreage is up one per cent this year while green pepper production is up six per cent and sweet corn up one per cent totally but up three per cent in Michigan. Most other Michigan vegetables are either at or above 1975 supplies. The spring freeze damage to fruits in southwestern Michigan stimulated additional vegetable acreage.

This is the year consumers may want to can tomatoes, for the canners' strike in California will certainly cause increases in processed tomato prices later in the year. Though the strike is now settled and canners are back to work, millions of pounds of tomatoes rotted in the fields while the strike was on, which will cause shorter supplies and higher prices later in the year.

Summer squash is in abundant supply this year, yet is little understood by many consumers. These squash, such as yellow crookneck or straight-neck, green zucchini and patty pan or scallop, are soft-shelled squash, which means even the skins may be eaten as well as the tender seeds. They may be baked, boiled, steamed, fried or mashed and used in desserts, such as cakes and breads and other tasty dishes.

Nectarines, which will conclude their season in mid-August, peaches, pears, grapes, blueberries, western plums, cantaloupes, watermelon, summer apples and bananas will be the star fruit attractions for the month.

Although Michigan's peach crop is only about half of last year's crop, due to spring freezes, they are already starting to market to add to the diminishing supplies from the South. Early Sunhaves, Red Downs and Red Havens are now in markets and will be followed by the later maturing varieties. Because of Michigan's short crop and the California canners strike, some California cling peaches may even find their way to Michigan markets this year.

Plums, pears, nectarines and grapes are from the west, but Michigan stars with blueberries, summer apples and cantaloupes. The blueberry crop suffered less frost damage than most other Michigan fruits so the crop looks good.

Summer apple varieties of Lodi, Transparent, Duchess and Starks Early are now in markets for apple pies, applesauce and other baking needs.

Consumers watching food store meat prices the past couple of weeks are already aware the beef prices are down considerably over recent weeks and many more beef cuts are being specialized, due to increased supplies of both grain-fed and grass-fed animals.

Pork supplies are also increasing, but don't look for much lower retail prices until fall when supplies are expected to increase much more.

Broiler supplies are abundant so prices will be very moderate as compared with earlier expectations. Normally prices increase in August due to heavy consumer demand for chicken on the grill. Wholesale turkey prices have dropped from last spring's level so turkeys will be available at reasonable prices.

Although egg prices went up a few cents in mid-July, a usual seasonal response, they still represent an excellent protein choice.

All in all, homemakers will have little trouble choosing moderately priced meats and protein foods if they check ads and buy specials and features this month.

Weather Forecasting Can Be Sunny Career

NEW YORK — If you're the type whose cloud-gazing turns into scientific scrutinizing, consider a career in meteorology.

While it's long been male-dominated, meteorology — or atmospheric science — now offers new opportunities for women, reports the August issue of Seventeen magazine.

Jobs include operational meteorologists (those who provide day-to-day and hourly weather data and forecasts), research, engineering meteorology (devising products that can withstand different atmospheric environments) and teaching.

Close to half the civilian meteorologists in the country work for the government, and there the supply seems to have caught up with the demand. But in private industry, such as airlines, shipping and natural gas companies, the need for meteorologists still grows.

A beginning meteorologist with a college degree starts at a salary of $9,000 to $10,000 for government work, possibly a bit higher in the private sector. After three years, most can expect their salaries to climb to $15,000 to $20,000.

But there are some roadblocks. You absolutely must be good in math and science. The biggest problem is shift work. A meteorologist (except in research or teaching) might have to work any hours, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays. Or at a lonely outpost, the only person on duty in a weather station for an eight-hour shift.

Key To GOP's Biggest Prize Held By 125

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only 15 days before the roll call is to begin in Kansas City, 125 Republican partisans clutch the key to their party's biggest prize, the presidential nomination.

In two months of intense courtship by President Ford and Ronald Reagan, the ranks of the uncommitted convention delegates have dwindled by more than 50.

Both camps claim enough delegates to grab the nomination, but neither candidate has been able to win the hearts — and votes — of the 1,330 delegates needed for a first-ballot victory, according to The Associated Press survey of delegates' legal commitments and public declarations.

Both continue to woo delegates, with strategies that range from White House dinner invitations to the stunning selection by Reagan of a liberal senator for a running mate to claims of allegiance from new blocks of delegates.

Reagan campaign manager John Sears gave out names of 12 delegates on Monday, saying they now back his candidate. He listed 10 from Pennsylvania, one from New York and one from West Virginia, as Reagan backers try to prove that his choice of Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania as a running mate is an asset, not a liability.

"We are not aware of any individual delegates we have lost from our count," Sears said.

He claimed at least six of the 12 were previously Ford supporters, but The AP survey had listed six of them for Reagan and six as uncommitted.

Sears repeated his claim that the former California governor has 1,140 votes on the first ballot. Ford's chief delegate hunter, James Baker, claims Ford now has 1,134 delegates committed to him.

The AP survey shows Ford with 1,105, Reagan with 1,029 and the remaining 125 uncommitted.

Baker followed Sears' news conference with one of his own, saying that the changes were certainly not a big surprise.

But Baker admitted under questioning that the President Ford Committee's "hard count, conservative count," as he calls it, had slipped by at least five in Pennsylvania and one in New York since the Schweiker announcement a week ago Monday.

The AP survey, based on interviews with the individual delegates, counts only those who say they will vote for Ford or Reagan on the first ballot. Delegates who are leaning toward a candidate or who have given some other, less certain indication of preference, are not counted for either candidate.

For example, The AP count listed as uncommitted all the Pennsylvania delegates who had been counted by the Ford committee as favoring the President, but who were named Monday as Reagan backers by Sears.

Mistrial Rejected; Harris Jurors Still Deliberating

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the William and Emily Harris trial, accused repeatedly by the defense of prejudice, again has refused to declare a mistrial or remove himself from the case.

Defeated in their efforts to win a mistrial, the Harrises today waited for a possible verdict as a jury entered its fourth day of deliberations.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler, attacked by defense attorneys for what they said was misconduct and bias, insisted Monday that testimony about the possible prejudice of a juror did not warrant further action.

"The motion for a mistrial is denied," he said. "The motion to disqualify this court is denied."

Brandler also rejected a defense request to have a neutral judge arbitrate the matter.

"Unless we develop new evidence, with Judge Brandler foreclosing every form of relief ... the matter is closed," said chief defense attorney Leonard Weinglass.

The jury, unaware of the courtroom controversy, deliberated for eight hours Monday on the kidnap, robbery and assault charges against the Harrises.

The charges stem from the Harrises' flight from a Los Angeles sporting goods store where a clerk allegedly caught Harris shoplifting. Patricia Hearst, a codefendant, is to be tried later on the same charges.

Brandler voiced doubt about the honesty of two women who reported irregularities in jury behavior.

The judge said he believed at least one of them had "triggered her imagination or magnified what she heard." He said he suspected she was disgruntled at not being chosen as a juror.

Brandler said he discounted the complaint of Jeannie Barton — related to him by a fellow judge — as no more important than a crank phone call.

Mrs. Barton, who was a prospective juror in the Harris case, came forward last Friday to report possible prejudice of a sitting juror.

Youth, 16, Gets Prison

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit Recorder's Court judge has sentenced a 16-year-old Detroit youth to 18-to-30 years in prison for his role in the gang rape of a 18-year-old Windsor, Ont., woman last February.

Bernard West pleaded guilty last month to first-degree sexual assault after being ordered to stand trial as an adult by a Wayne County Juvenile Court judge.

West was one of six Detroit men charged with the rape and beating of the woman, who was abducted after her car broke down on a Detroit freeway.

Air Bag Hearings Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — How far should the government go to protect motorists who refuse to protect themselves?

That is a key question to be resolved by Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. as he opens hearings today on proposals to require installation of air bags in new cars.

Coleman has promised to decide before the end of the year whether the government will require that air bags be built into new cars.

Currently, the government requires automakers to provide seat and lap belts, so-called passive restraints such as air bags, which require no driver initiative, or a combination of the two. Almost all automakers offer the seat and lap belts, but General Motors has sold about 6,000 luxury cars with optional air bags in the past two years. Coleman previously said he could decide to continue the present law while testing air bags or other versions of passive restraint systems or while requiring states to pass laws requiring use of seat belts. Or, he said, he could change the law to require all new cars have air bags or some other passive restraint system or to require automakers to offer passive restraint systems on some new car models.

Coleman acknowledged in announcing the public hearing that he not only must wrestle with problems of cost, effectiveness and possible hazards of passive restraints, but with the philosophical question of how far the government should go in protecting the public. Air bags automatically inflate when sensors on the front of the car signal a crash is occurring. A small explosive charge pushes the bag out of the dash or steering wheel and inflates it, providing a pillow to catch occupants and keep them from flying into the windshield. The bags inflate in less than one twenty-fifth of a second.

Automakers have said that educating the public to use existing seatbelt restraints would be more effective and less costly than mandatory air bag regulations.

Defector Did

It For Love?

MONTREAL (AP) — Sergei Nemtsov, the 17-year-old Soviet diver who defected during the Olympics, did it for the love of an American millionaire's daughter, the Montreal Gazette reported today.

Quoting immigration and police sources, the Gazette said Nemtsov met the girl during a diving meet in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., last year and thought he would never see her again. But a last-minute change in the Soviet Olympic team brought him to Montreal, and he seized the opportunity to renew his romance.

Korean-American Admits CIA Ruse

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Korean who is now an American citizen pleaded guilty Monday to posing as a CIA agent.

Paul Chang, 37, of Silver Spring, Md., made the unexpected plea of guilty just two days before his trial was due to open in federal court.

Chang was returned to jail pending a presentence investigation. No sentencing date was set. The charge carries penalties of up to three years in prison and a fine of $1,000.

But Chang did succeed in clearing himself of suspicions he was a North Korean spy — at least in the view of U.S. Atty. Frank Spies. Spies said after Chang's plea he considers it unlikely Chang was in the pay of North Korea.

The bizarre case began in 1974 when Chang persuaded two Korean professors at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo to accompany him into North Korea.

A federal grand jury indictment issued in May contended Chang persuaded Andrew Nahm and Chang DoYoung to join him by saying he wanted them to undertake a mission for the U.S. government.

Nahm is a member of South Korea's Board of National Reunification while DoYoung is a former South Korean military chief of staff.

Spies said the three did go to North Korea but Chang came under suspicion when Nahm contacted the CIA's director to learn why he never was debriefed about their mission. Spies said Nahm was told Chang was not with the CIA and urged to contact the FBI.

The U.S. attorney said it now appears Chang was acting largely on his own. But Spies gave no hint of Chang's motives.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Heart Has Mind Of Its Own

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an 18-year-old guy who has a terrific problem that won't mean a thing to anybody but me. Let me start off by telling you I'm not gay, or even borderline. I'm normal in every way, an above-average student, no hangups (except this one) and my outlook on life is great. Now comes the problem:

As I sit here writing to you tears are streaming down my face. I can barely see to type. Why am I bawling? I just buried my cat, Daisy. What's so unusual about that? Well, last week I went to my grandmother's funeral. Mom was sobbing out loud, my aunts were nearly hysterical, a few of my cousins were crying, and me, I didn't even have a lump in my throat. There's got to be something wrong with a dude who can sit dry-eyed through his grandmother's funeral and cry his foolish head off when his cat dies.

What's with me, anyway? I must be a little nutty. —

Crossed Wires Somewhere

Dear Wires: It's the guilt that's bugging you. You are ashamed because you were unable to weep when your grandmother died but the truth of the matter is there was no emotional attachment. That cat, Daisy — well, you really loved her. People can dictate to their

Turned Tables

Dear Ann Landers: Cheers for your advice to the 40-year-old gay who was being blackmailed by a fellow employee.

Many years ago in Boston, I was the intended victim of an extortionist. After jostling me in a public place, the rat posed as a detective (showed a phony badge) and proceeded to "write me up." Of course, the whole thing would be "forgotten" if I was willing to pay up.

I led the would-be blackmailer to a bank on the pretense of withdrawing funds. While there I notified the teller of my plight. He called the police and the man was arrested on the spot.

I happen to be gay, and the blackmailer knew it, but the complaint was lodged BY, not against me. When the case was presented to the great Judge Elijah Adlow of Boston, the defense attorney persisted in questioning me about my sex life. I protested. The attorney was then interrupted by the judge who told him that if his client had been solicited by me, he should not have attempted to take the law into his own hands. The man was found guilty and sentenced to prison.

The comforting part of the case was the congratulations I received from the turn police. So few people are willing to turn to them for help for fear they will be accused of a crime themselves. I say, and with good reason — Hooray For The Boston Police.

Dear H.: Double hooray. I can think of no city in the U.S. where it's been more difficult to be a good law enforcement of-

Dr. Lester Coleman

Some of our friends think that the ballyhoo about the swine flu vaccine is exaggerated. What is the doctor's point of view? — Mr. and Mrs. J. W., Maine

Dear Mr. and Mrs. W.: If only one life is saved by the "ballyhoo" then your friends are wrong.

Far too many people have called this intensive drive a political maneuver. This is totally unfair because epidemiologists who know about the spread of disease are completely separated from any such intrigue.

Already, thousands of people across the country have served as test subjects to evaluate the dose requirements, the efficacy and the side reactions of the new "swine flu" vaccine.

It is well known that any flu injection may cause sore arms and a mild fever in a small percentage of cases.

For years, doctors have heard the complaint, "I got an injection and then caught the flu so I'll never take it again." This is not valid and has been responsible for the fact that in 1957 and 1968 many people who chose not to be inoculated became a mortality statistic.

Unless there is a specific contraindication to its use because of allergy or hypersensitivity, the scientific value of the new vaccine must be accepted.

The plan of Public Health officials is to keep all doctors posted on every phase of this great national undertaking. If there are any political overtones it is an excellent reflection on the "political" awareness that good health is a sub-structure of our destiny.

For the past few months my fingernails have become dark yellow in color. I've tried everything to get rid of this discoloration without success. All ten nails have this color. — Mrs. R. M., Mass.

Dear Mrs. M.: The first thought that occurs to me is the possibility that the nails themselves may not be discolored. Perhaps it is the bed beneath the nail — that is yellowish.

Discolorations of this sort may be due to a mild jaundice. This can be easily determined by many of the blood tests that are now available.

It is difficult to believe that a fungus infection would involve all of the fingers. Have you consulted a doctor about this or are you just trying a variety of homemade remedies?

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... For greater safety in the home, children and adults, too, will benefit by keeping sharp knives in protective sheaths.

Want to get more use out of your waffle iron? Press it into service at the end of the dinner hour.

By adding chopped nuts or fruit (diced apple, drained crushed pineapple, fresh blueberries) to a basic waffle batter you're on the way to a surprisingly good (and good for you) dessert.

A scoop of ice cream and a drizzle of topping turns your waffle into a glamorous — and nutritious — sundae.

Michigan Vegetables In Peak Supply Now

The food outlook for August reveals homemakers will have little trouble making ends meet if they choose the foods in best supply — and there are many, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Food Marketing Agent.

August is the month for peak supplies of both Michigan and other domestic-grown vegetables, so the biggest problem will be is how to work them into menus before their seasons are over.

Peak supplies are now found of green beans, beets, sweet corn, cucumbers, green peppers, celery, cabbage, carrots, eggplant, summer squash, tomatoes, potatoes and onions.

Slicer cucumber acreage is up one per cent this year while green pepper production is up six per cent and sweet corn up one per cent totally but up three per cent in Michigan. Most other Michigan vegetables are either at or above 1975 supplies. The spring freeze damage to fruits in southwestern Michigan stimulated additional vegetable acreage.

This is the year consumers may want to can tomatoes, for the canners' strike in California will certainly cause increases in processed tomato prices later in the year. Though the strike is now settled and canners are back to work, millions of pounds of tomatoes rotted in the fields while the strike was on, which will cause shorter supplies and higher prices later in the year.

Summer squash is in abundant supply this year, yet is little understood by many consumers. These squash, such as yellow crookneck or straight-neck, green zucchini and patty pan or scallop, are soft-shelled squash, which means even the skins may be eaten as well as the tender seeds. They may be baked, boiled, steamed, fried or mashed and used in desserts, such as cakes and breads and other tasty dishes.

Nectarines, which will conclude their season in mid-August, peaches, pears, grapes, blueberries, western plums, cantaloupes, watermelon, summer apples and bananas will be the star fruit attractions for the month.

Although Michigan's peach crop is only about half of last year's crop, due to spring freezes, they are already starting to market to add to the diminishing supplies from the South. Early Sunhaves, Red Dawns and Red Havens are now in markets and will be followed by the later maturing varieties. Because of Michigan's short crop and the California canners strike, some California cling peaches may even find their way to Michigan markets this year.

Plums, pears, nectarines and grapes are from the west, but Michigan stars with blueberries, summer apples and cantaloupes. The blueberry crop suffered less frost damage than most other Michigan fruits so the crop looks good.

Summer apple varieties of Lodi, Transparent, Duchess and Starks Early are now in markets for apple pies, applesauce and other baking needs.

Consumers watching food store meat prices the past couple of weeks are already aware the beef prices are down considerably over recent weeks and many more beef cuts are being specialized, due to increased supplies of both grain-fed and grass-fed animals.

Pork supplies are also increasing, but don't look for much lower retail prices until fall when supplies are expected to increase more.

Broiler supplies are abundant so prices will be very moderate as compared with earlier expectations. Normally prices increase in August due to heavy consumer demand for chicken on the grill. Wholesale turkey prices have dropped from last spring's level so turkeys will be available at reasonable prices.

Although egg prices went up a few cents in mid-July, a usual seasonal response, they still represent an excellent protein choice.

All in all, homemakers will have little trouble choosing moderately priced meats and protein foods if they check ads and buy specials and features this month.

Weather Forecasting Can Be Sunny Career

NEW YORK — If you're the type whose cloud-gazing turns into scientific scrutinizing, consider a career in meteorology.

While it's long been male-dominated, meteorology — or atmospheric science — now offers new opportunities for women, reports the August issue of Seventeen magazine.

Jobs include operational meteorologists (those who provide day-to-day and hourly weather data and forecasts), research, engineering meteorology (devising products that can withstand different atmospheric environments) and teaching.

Close to half the civilian meteorologists in the country work for the government, and there the supply seems to have caught up with the demand. But in private industry, such as airlines, shipping and natural gas companies, the need for meteorologists still grows.

A beginning meteorologist with a college degree starts at a salary of $9,000 to $10,000 for government work, possibly a bit higher in the private sector. After three years, most can expect their salaries to climb to $15,000 to $20,000.

But there are some roadblocks. You absolutely must be good in math and science. The biggest problem is shift work. A meteorologist (except in research or teaching) might have to work any hours, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays. Or at a lonely outpost, the only person on duty in a weather station for an eight-hour shift.

Opening lead — Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South let West hold the first trick with his queen of spades after East followed with the eight. West continued with the trey and East played the king.

South had a problem. Assuming West had led from a six-card suit he could duck that second spade, take the third, play three rounds of diamonds and hope that East would have exactly three diamonds. South saw that that play would fail if spades were 5-4 and decided on another line.

He won the second spade and led back the 10. West won and could have beaten the hand by leading anything but a spade, but West was a firm believer in the principle that a trick in the hand is worth two on the table. He cashed his last two spades.

South chucked a heart and diamond while dummy shed red cards. East chucked a heart.

West led the queen of hearts. South won and played his second-high heart to squeeze East. He had to guard either diamonds or clubs and South had his ninth trick.

Coffee Heads Rising Food Bill

By HOLLY SIMS
Associated Press Writer

Coffee prices rose to record levels and pork chop costs increased sharply last month as average grocery prices jumped more than one per cent in the Michigan Associated Press Marketbasket survey.

The average total cost of the 15 items in the July Marketbasket was $15.06, up from $14.89 last month to tie the previous record set in November 1974, when sugar prices were at a record high.

The average price of a pound of coffee was $1.95, up 14 cents from June. Center-cut pork chops were up 11 cents, averaging $1.98 a pound.

A pound of chopped chuck averaged $1.11, down five cents. A dozen eggs rose four cents to 73 cents, and a pound of butter was $1.23, up six cents.

Milk dipped three cents a quart to 47 cents. Other items that cost less than in June include frankfurters, down 10 cents to $1.24 a pound, and a 49-ounce package of laundry detergent, down six cents to $1.27.

Fabric softener rose one cent to 88 cents. A 12-ounce jar of peanut butter slid one cent to 69 cents. An eight-ounce jar of tomato sauce rose one cent to 21 cents.

Two rolls of paper towels increased a penny to 80 cents. Orange juice and cookies were unchanged.

Prices rose in seven cities and declined in the other two surveyed. In Marquette, pork chops rose 60 cents to $1.99 and helped boost the cost of the marketbasket up from $14.33 to $14.94.

Gaylord reported a 67-cent overall price increase to $15.36 as pork chops rose to $2.09 and chopped chuck to $1.29.

The marketbasket was up 41 cents to $14.98 in Lansing; up 37 cents to $15.38 at St. Joseph; up seven cents to $15.29 in Detroit; up five cents to $15.29 in Pontiac; and up five cents to $14.95 in Flint.

Prices declined eight cents to $14.76 in Grand Rapids, where a sale on franks was in progress. Mount Clemens reported a 27-cent decline to $14.42.

Here are the statewide June and July averages for the 15 grocery items which comprise the AP Marketbasket survey:

1. One pound chopped chuck: June 1.16, July 1.11.
2. One pound center-cut pork chops: 1.87, 1.98.
3. Six-ounce frozen orange juice: 31 cents, unchanged.
4. One pound coffee: 1.81, 1.95.
5. Two rolls paper towels: 79, 80.
6. One dozen medium eggs: 68, 73.
7. One pound butter: 1.17, 1.23.
8. 49-oz. laundry detergent: 1.33, 1.27.
9. Fabric softener, size varies: 87, 88.
10. 12-oz. peanut butter: 70, 69.
11. Eight-ounce tomato sauce: 20, 21.
12. 14½-oz. chocolate chip cookies: 87, unchanged.
13. One quart milk: 50, 47.
14. One pound all-beef franks: 1.34, 1.24.
15. Five pounds sugar: 1.18, 1.16.

Here are the city-by-city, item-by-item prices for July, followed by the total Marketbasket price for June and July. Parentheses indicate most recently available figure when item was unavailable this month.

Yank Doctor Helps Poor In Lebanon

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Dr. Patrick Marshio deftly tied the sutures, stepped back and signaled the end of the surgery. It was one of five to 30 emergency operations performed each day at the Red Cross field hospital in Beirut.

On the table was Samar Chami, a 12-year-old Lebanese girl shot by an AK-47 automatic rifle. The bullet passed through her midsection and lodged just under the surface on the opposite side.

Marshio, a 37-year-old native of Jersey City, N.J., is the only American among the hospital's 25 to 40 staff members. Most of them are Finns, Danes and Swedes. Marshio said he came from Denmark for a two-month stint as chest surgeon because he had never been in a war situation.

"Now I'll stay as long as I can," he said.

Most patients who come to the Red Cross hospital are too poor to afford the established hospitals still struggling to keep open. Although new to the Arab world, Marshio said he feels a special "Mediterranean kinship" with his patients because of his Sicilian ancestry.

The hospital is located in the new annex to a seafront hotel where the Red Cross is based. In a large, garage-like room with bare concrete walls, blankets hung from ropes separate the working areas. A crude handwritten sign designates one space the "Operating Theatre." The only sunlight comes through narrow slits in the windowless walls.

U.S. Facing N-Dilemma

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Countries being supplied with U.S. uranium now possess enough raw nuclear material to make about 1,000 atomic bombs, according to American and foreign experts.

And these experts said Monday that even if those countries wanted to return the nuclear material to U.S. control, the United States has neither the facilities nor the space to reprocess or store it.

A senior U.S. authority familiar with the situation came up with this explanation:

"If all this spent nuclear fuel is permitted to lie around indefinitely there is an obvious danger that some of it might be diverted for military purposes, despite international checks and treaties," he said.

"If, on the other hand, the United States were to exercise its option to buy back the spent fuel, then this country would in time become a dumping ground for highly hazardous material."

tons of TNT.

Indian experts said their country has a stockpile of about 300 metric tons. And despite frequent requests, the Indians said, Washington has avoided repurchasing it.

U.S. agreements of 1963 and 1968 with India included provisions that figure in most nuclear cooperation accords Washington has negotiated with friendly powers.

Under these agreements, the United States ships low-enriched uranium (meaning nonweapons grade) for use in nuclear power stations, then has first option to buy back spent fuel India doesn't need. This means India may extract plutonium for making fuel rods needed in its Tarapur nuclear station near Bombay.

'Pot' Count Is Dangling

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — State Sen. Basil Brown has won a round in his battle against a marijuana charge, but whether the case will be dismissed has not been determined.

Police alleged a small amount of marijuana was found in Brown's car in January 1975. But District Court Judge Kenneth Hansen on Monday granted Brown's motion that those allegations be dropped as evidence.

Hansen was not available to explain the next chapter in the case, and Eaton County Prosecutor Paul Berger said his office will have to read the opinion before deciding what action will follow.

Spent nuclear fuel after reprocessing yields plutonium — an ingredient of atomic bombs.

Sources, including diplomats and scientists, estimated that more than 4,000 metric tons of spent fuel has piled up since about 1971 in Latin American, European and Asian lands, which buy low-enriched uranium from the United States.

This material would be enough to construct about 1,000 atomic bombs, the sources say. Such weapons presumably would be crude devices with the explosive capacity of the bombs that destroyed Hiroshima and Nagasaki at the end of World War II. The two bombs dropped on Japan in 1945 each had an explosive force of about 20,000

Car-Theft Suspect Escapes On Foot

The driver of a reportedly stolen car escaped on foot despite a three-mile chase by a Benton Harbor state police dog and his handler through dense underbrush around middle Grand Mere lake in Lincoln township early today. The foot chase followed a high speed auto chase by St. Joseph township police on I-94 and Grand Mere road that ended when the car crashed through thick brush down an embankment and came to rest in a swampy area and the driver fled on foot.

State police of the Benton Harbor post and Berrien sheriff's officers searched the area for several hours after the 2:40 a.m. chase. Trooper Charles Longenbarger and tracking dog Bruno followed a trail that led around and even into the lake before losing the trail near Thornton and Wishart roads near I-94.

St. Joseph township Patrolman Larry Eichelberger said the car was reported stolen in Hartford. Police also were investigating the possibility connection with a strong-armed robbery reported at Keeler. A suitcase and portable radio allegedly taken from a man at Keeler were found in the car. Hartford Police Chief Lee Spencer said the car is owned by Albert Brown, 411 South Center street, Hartford, and was stolen from a parking lot between 1:30 and 1:35 a.m. The car had been hot-wired, Spencer said. Eichelberger said speeds in the I-94 chase were in excess of 110 miles an hour and 60 to 70 on gravel Grand Mere road.

UAW Wants To End 'Bumping' Loophole

DETROIT (AP) — A top United Auto Workers official says workers who move from hourly to salaried positions should give up their seniority.

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser charged Monday a contract loophole cost 2,000 Chrysler Corp. workers their jobs last year, when supervisory personnel with more seniority were returned to the hourly ranks.

The loophole that allowed the bumping must be tightened or closed, Fraser said.

Under the current contract, hourly workers who move to non-union supervisory positions keep accumulating union seniority. A worker with two years' hourly experience and 15 years' supervisory experience, for example, could be placed back in the hourly ranks with a total of 17 years' seniority.

Fraser charged the company kept supervisors with low seniority in supervisory positions, where they were not threatened by layoffs. Those with more seniority were moved to hourly positions, pushing regular hourly workers with less seniority into layoffs.

Chrysler, like the other auto companies, has complete control over which supervisors are returned to hourly status. And there are no limits on how many such "bump-backs" the company can create.

William Bavinger, Chrysler vice president for industrial relations, said Monday, "I'm not aware of any planned effort to keep younger supervisory supervisors on and lay off older supervisors so they could (bump back). It might be that the ones we kept were doing a better job."

Activity In Mars Soil Baffling To Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking 1, the robot detective probing strange activity in the soil of Mars, should get more clues from a second handful of dirt to be dug from the rust-colored surface.

The sample will be studied by a tester that could help determine whether Martian life, or merely an unusual chemical process, is causing the activity that had scientists baffled Monday.

Viking's 10-foot mechanical arm was to reach for a handful of soil today. If successfully deposited in one of the chambers in Viking's automated experimental package, the dirt could yield some clues later this week.

The instrument — a gas chromatograph mass spectrometer — will search for molecules of organic matter which, if found in sufficient amounts and complexity, would strongly suggest living organisms are present.

A hastily organized special scientific team still straddled the fence Monday on the puzzling gas emitted by a dirt sample already inside the minilaboratory.

Soon after a liquid nutrient was fed to the bit of soil last week, gas containing a radioactive tracer in the nutrient began pouring out at a startling rate. Dr. Gil Levin, who heads the team monitoring the experiment, said Monday the gas generation was no longer accelerating and had reached a plateau.

But neither earth organisms nor non-living chemical processes known to scientists here could explain the rate at which gas was emitted by the soil sample, said Levin.

"Biological responses (in experiments on earth) that started this rapidly have generally continued to evolve gas for a longer period of time," said Levin.

"But the shape of the curve (information plotted on a graph) doesn't fit the shape of nonbiologic responses we have seen, either."

"So we're in between."

Since the scientists never have seen anything like the tantalizing reports Viking is sending back, Levin said a special team had been formed to search for an explanation.

Organized by chief Viking scientist Dr. Gerald Soffen, the team is comprised of organic chemists, physicists, physical chemists, biologists and biochemists.

"They have formed a tentative hypothesis that some unique photochemistry (reaction of sunlight on the soil) is occurring on Mars that is causing the surface to produce the kinds of responses we are seeing," said Levin.

Levin would not say what the odds were that the mysterious process was being caused by living organisms.

But Soffen sounded a note of caution, saying, "It's very easy to misread this as life signs when actually it may be a unique chemistry."

Levin said another shot of nutrient, a mixture of amino acids and carbohydrates, would be fed to the soil sample on Friday.

Defector Did It For Love?

MONTREAL (AP) — Sergei Nemtsanov, the 17-year-old Soviet diver who defected during the Olympics, did it for the love of an American millionaire's daughter, the Montreal Gazette reported today.

Quoting immigration and police sources, the Gazette said Nemtsanov met the girl during a diving meet in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., last year and thought he would never see her again. But a last-minute change in the Soviet Olympic team brought him to Montreal, and he seized the opportunity to renew his romance.

Korean-American Admits CIA Ruse

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Korean who is now an American citizen pleaded guilty Monday to posing as a CIA agent.

Paul Chang, 37, of Silver Spring, Md., made the unexpected plea of guilty just two days before his trial was due to open in federal court.

Chang was returned to jail pending a presentence investigation. No sentencing date was set. The charge carries penalties of up to three years in prison and a fine of $1,000.

But Chang did succeed in clearing himself of suspicions he was a North Korean spy — at least in the view of U.S. Atty. Frank Spies. Spies said after Chang's plea he considers it unlikely Chang was in the pay of North Korea.

The bizarre case began in 1974 when Chang persuaded two Korean professors at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo to accompany him into North Korea.

A federal grand jury indictment issued in May contended Chang persuaded Andrew Nahm and Chang DoYoung to join him by saying he wanted them to undertake a mission for the U.S. government.

Nahm is a member of South Korea's Board of National Reunification while Do-Young is a former South Korean military chief of staff.

Spies said the three did go to North Korea but Chang came under suspicion when Nahm contacted the CIA's director to learn why he never was debriefed about their mission.

Spies said Nahm was told Chang was not with the CIA and urged to contact the FBI.

The U.S. attorney said it now appears Chang was acting largely on his own. But Spies gave no hint of Chang's motives.

Key To GOP's Biggest Prize Held By 125

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only 15 days before the roll call is to begin in Kansas City, 125 Republican partisans clutch the key to their party's biggest prize, the presidential nomination.

In two months of intense courtship by President Ford and Ronald Reagan, the ranks of the uncommitted convention delegates have dwindled by more than 50.

Both camps claim enough delegates to grab the nomination, but neither candidate has been able to win the hearts — and votes — of the 1,130 delegates needed for a first-ballot victory, according to The Associated Press survey of delegates' legal commitments and public declarations.

Both continue to woo delegates, with strategies that range from White House dinner invitations to the stunning selection by Reagan of a liberal senator for a running mate to claims of allegiance from new blocks of delegates.

Reagan campaign manager John Sears gave out names of 12 delegates on Monday, saying they now back his candidate. He listed 10 from Pennsylvania, one from New York and one from West Virginia, as Reagan backers try to prove that his choice of Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania as a running mate is an asset, not a liability.

"We are not aware of any individual delegates we have lost from our count," Sears said.

He claimed at least six of the 12 were previously Ford supporters, but The AP survey had listed six of them for Reagan and six as uncommitted.

Sears repeated his claim that the former California governor has 1,140 votes on the first ballot. Ford's chief delegate hunter, James Baker, claims Ford now has 1,134 delegates committed to him.

The AP survey shows Ford with 1,105, Reagan with 1,029 and the remaining 125 uncommitted.

Baker followed Sears' news conference with one of his own, saying that the changes were certainly not a big surprise.

But Baker admitted under questioning that the President Ford Committee's "hard count, conservative count," as he calls it, had slipped by at least five

Air Bag Hearings Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — How far should the government go to protect motorists who refuse to protect themselves?

That is a key question to be resolved by Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. as he opens hearings today on proposals to require installation of air bags in new cars.

Coleman has promised to decide before the end of the year whether the government will require that air bags be built into new cars.

Currently, the government requires automakers to provide seat and lap belts, so-called passive restraints such as air bags, which require no driver initiative, or a combination of the two. Almost all automakers offer the seat and lap belts, but General Motors has sold about 6,000 luxury cars with optional air bags in the past two years. Coleman previously said he could decide to continue the present law while testing air bags or other versions of passive restraint systems or while requiring states to pass laws requiring use of seat belts. Or, he said, he could change the law to require all new cars have air bags or some other passive restraint system or to require automakers to offer passive restraint systems on some new car models.

Coleman acknowledged in announcing the public hearing that he not only must wrestle with problems of cost, effectiveness and possible hazards of passive restraints, but with the philosophical question of how far the government should go in protecting the public. Air bags automatically inflate when sensors on the front of the car signal a crash is occurring. A small explosive charge pushes the bag out of the dash or steering wheel and inflates it, providing a pillow to catch occupants and keep them from flying into the windshield. The bags inflate in less than one twenty-fifth of a second.

Automakers have said that educating the public to use existing seatbelt restraints would be more effective and less costly than mandatory air bag regulations.

Youth, 16, Gets Prison

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit Recorder's Court judge has sentenced a 16-year-old Detroit youth to 10-to-30 years in prison for his role in the gang rape of a 19-year-old Windsor, Ont., woman last February.

Bernard West pleaded guilty last month to first-degree sexual assault after being ordered to stand trial as an adult by a Wayne County Juvenile Court judge.

West was one of six Detroit men charged with the rape and beating of the woman, who was abducted after her car broke down on a Detroit freeway.

EX-SOUTH HAVEN MAYOR Selective Enforcement Blasted

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The alleged selective enforcement of city ordinances drew criticism from former South Haven mayor Elizabeth Davis during a city council meeting last night.

Mrs. Davis said she was ordered to remove a sign endorsing a political candidate from the front lawn of her home by the police last Friday. The order, signed by Code Enforcement Officer Donald Zorzel, threatened Mrs. Davis with a fine of up to $200 and/or as many as 90 days in the county jail. Mrs. Davis during her recently completed two-year term as mayor was a frequent critic over the lack of enforcement of city ordinances in the area of unkept property.

Labeling city employees who had dealt with her on the sign issue as "arbitrary and capricious", Mrs. Davis called for the uniform enforcement and administration of the law. City officials last week announced a crackdown on property owners who displayed signs endorsing political candidates on their front lawns, contending the signs violated the zoning ordinance. Mrs. Davis, according to city officials, repeatedly replaced signs on her lawn after city officials removed them.

Donna Cooke Requests Probe Of Charges In BH

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer
Donna Cooke, legislative coordinator for the Benton Harbor mayor-commission office, has asked City Atty. K. Morris Gavin to investigate a series of charges she has leveled against city officials.

Mrs. Cooke's charges, contained in a letter to Atty. Gavin, include claims that Melvin Farmer Jr. is serving as deputy city manager in violation of the city charter, that Commission Arnold Bolin is involved in nepotism because his son works for Rampart Ambulance Service, and that City Manager James Peeples Jr. is in conflict of interest because he is serving as both city manager and finance director.

Responding to the charges last night, Farmer said Mrs. Cooke is "all wrong." Bolin called the charges "silly," and Peeples said he would not comment on the charges. Gavin said last night that he will review the charges and if any are found to be valid, will advise Mrs. Cooke that she must seek legal action against city officials through the Berrien county prosecutor or state attorney general.

Mrs. Cooke said Farmer is in violation of the city charter because the charter says the city commission shall name a department head as deputy city manager.

Farmer said last night that the city commission hired him as deputy city manager in August, 1973, when he was director of the Benton Harbor-Benton township Model Cities program. He said since that time, he has also been director of the city's human resources department and the city's personnel department.

Mrs. Cooke charged Bolin was involved in nepotism because his son, Bruce, works for Rampart ambulance service and Rampart, a private company, was recently allowed to occupy the city's southside fire station.

Bolin said last night that his son is an adult and seeks his own employment and the city's decision to allow Rampart to occupy the southside fire station was the decision of the city manager and not the city commission.

Mrs. Cooke also charged that Peeples was in conflict of interest while serving in the dual capacity of city manager and director of finance and that he has allowed purchases to be made without proper approval from the city commission.

The city commission has not been able to obtain a quorum and conduct legal business since the May 18 recall of four members of the commission.

Mrs. Cooke is currently collecting about $245 per week

Decatur Village Creating Parking Ticket Bureau

DECATUR — An ordinance establishing a parking violations bureau for Decatur was approved by the village council last night.

Grosvenor said the fines range from $1 for overtime parking to $5 for violations including obstructing traffic or parking in front of an emergency exit.

In other areas, the council set Sept. 8 as the date to open bids on chain link fencing for Lake of the Woods park. The council in July proposed the six-foot-high fence as a means to curtail continuing vandalism.

The council also voted to contact Michigan Power company about putting up street lights at the village parking lot at South Phelps and Sherwood streets and at North Phelps and Elmwood drive, gave village police officers permission to attend East Lansing and Kalamazoo seminars on police-youth relations and drug and alcohol abuse; and hired Mrs. Theodore Lapkas for $225 to appraise three parcels of property the village wants to purchase with federal funds.

The council also declared Saturday, Aug. 7, as Edgar Bergen day, in honor of the internationally known comic and ventriloquist who spent 11 years of his youth in the village.

Bergen's scheduled appearance is part of the village's observance of the nation's Bicentennial anniversary.

Church Street Bridge Opening Soon In Baroda

BARODA — The Baroda village council was told last night the Church street bridge is expected to be opened to traffic no later than early next week.

Jay Howard of the engineering firm of R. W. Petrie and Associates, St. Joseph, reported paving of the bridge is planned for Friday or early next week, after which the bridge will open to traffic.

Church street has been closed to through traffic since June 20, 1975, when the old bridge over Hickory creek collapsed after a truck carrying about 102,000 pounds of steel crossed over it. In a related matter, council authorized President Jerry Philey to begin paperwork for applying for federal funds to build a new Lake street bridge.

The current bridge has been described as in critical condition by village officials. About 72.6 per cent of the new Church street bridge is being paid by a federal grant from the aid to secondary streets program.

Philey told the council that applying for the grant does not mean the council will have to accept it if it proves more beneficial to the village to pay for the bridge with local funds.

In other business, Trustee Larry Nye reported the Berrien county road commission was expected to paint no-passing lines on Cleveland avenue from Church street to Russell road, or about a third of the way the council wanted. Council had requested the no-passing zone be pushed from the northern to southern boundaries of the village in an attempt to slow down traffic on that section of the road.

Nye said a commission official told him the entire section did not merit a no-passing zone because of a lack of entrances onto the road. Because the road is maintained by the county, no changes can be made without the commission's approval.

Trustee Howard Gaul reported

ed a cost increase for water taps will take effect immediately because of the rise in costs for materials. The increases will be from $160 to $250 for three-quarter inch lines and $170 to $285 for one inch lines. An additional charge of $15 will be made for outside meters which will be required on all new hookups.

Coffee Heads Rising Food Bill

By HOLLY SIMS
Associated Press Writer
Coffee prices rose to record levels and pork chop costs increased sharply last month as average grocery prices jumped more than one per cent in the Michigan Associated Press Marketbasket survey.
The average total cost of the 15 items in the July Marketbasket was $13.06, up from $14.89 last month to tie the previous record set in November 1974, when sugar prices were at a record high.

The average price of a pound of coffee was $1.95, up 14 cents from June. Center-cut pork chops were up 11 cents, averaging $1.98 a pound.
A pound of chopped chuck averaged $1.11, down five cents.
A dozen eggs rose four cents to 73 cents, and a pound of butter was $1.23, up six cents.
Milk dipped three cents a quart to 47 cents. Other items that cost less than in June include frankfurters, down 10 cents to $1.24 a pound, and a 49-ounce package of laundry detergent, down six cents at $1.27.
Fabric softener rose one cent to 88 cents. A 12-ounce jar of peanut butter slid one cent to 69 cents. An eight-ounce jar of tomato sauce rose one cent to 21 cents.
Two rolls of paper towels increased a penny to 80 cents. Orange juice and cookies were unchanged.
Prices rose in seven cities and declined in the other two surveyed. In Marquette, pork chops rose 60 cents to $1.99 and helped boost the cost of the marketbasket up from $14.33 to $14.94.

Gaylord reported a 67-cent overall price increase to $15.56 as pork chops rose to $2.09 and chopped chuck to $1.39.
The marketbasket was up 41 cents to $14.98 in Lansing; up 37 cents to $15.38 at St. Joseph; up seven cents to $15.29 in Detroit; up five cents to $15.29 in Pontiac; and up five cents to $14.95 in Flint.

Yank Doctor Helps Poor In Lebanon

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Dr. Patrick Marshio deftly tied the sutures, stepped back and signaled the end of the surgery. It was one of five to 30 emergency operations performed each day at the Red Cross field hospital in Beirut.

On the table was Samar Chami, a 12-year-old Lebanese girl shot by an AK47 automatic rifle. The bullet passed through her midsection and lodged just under the surface on the opposite side.

Marshio, a 37-year-old native of Jersey City, N.J., is the only American among the hospital's 35 to 40 staff members. Most of them are Finns, Danes and Swedes. Marshio said he came from Denmark for a two-month stint as chest surgeon because he had never been in a war situation.

"Now I'll stay as long as I can," he said.
Most patients who come to the Red Cross hospital are too poor to afford the established hospitals still struggling to keep open. Although new to the Arab world, Marshio said he feels a special "Mediterranean kinship" with his patients because of his Sicilian ancestry.
The hospital is located in the new annex to a seafront hotel where the Red Cross is based. In a large, garage-like room with bare concrete walls, blankets hung from ropes separate the working areas. A crude handwritten sign designates one space the "Operating Theatre." The only sunlight comes through narrow slits in the windowless walls.

U.S. Facing N-Dilemma

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Countries being supplied with U.S. uranium now possess enough raw nuclear material to make about 1,000 atomic bombs, according to American and foreign experts.

And these experts said Monday that even if those countries wanted to return the nuclear material to U.S. control, the United States has neither the facilities nor the space to reprocess or store it.

A senior U.S. authority familiar with the situation came up with this explanation:
"If all this spent nuclear fuel is permitted to lie around indefinitely there is an obvious danger that some of it might be diverted for military purposes, despite international checks and treaties," he said.
"If, on the other hand, the United States were to exercise its option to buy back the spent fuel, then this country would in time become a dumping ground for highly hazardous material."

Spent nuclear fuel after reprocessing yields plutonium — an ingredient of atomic bombs.

Sources, including diplomats and scientists, estimated that more than 4,000 metric tons of spent fuel has piled up since about 1971 in Latin American, European and Asian lands, which buy low-enriched uranium from the United States.

This material would be enough to construct about 1,000 atomic bombs, the sources say. Such weapons presumably would be crude devices with the explosive capacity of the bombs that destroyed Hiroshima and Nagasaki at the end of World War II. The two bombs dropped on Japan in 1945 each had an explosive force of about 20,000 tons of TNT.

Indian experts said their country has a stockpile of about 200 metric tons. And despite frequent requests, the Indians said, Washington has avoided repurchasing it.

U.S. agreements of 1963 and 1966 with India included provisions that figure in most nuclear cooperation accords Washington has negotiated with friendly powers.

Under these agreements, the United States ships low-enriched uranium (meaning nonweapons grade) for use in nuclear power stations, then has first option to buy back spent fuel India doesn't need. This means India may extract plutonium for making fuel rods needed in its Tarapur nuclear station near Bombay.

'Pot' Count Is Dangling

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — State Sen. Basil Brown has won a round in his battle against a marijuana charge, but whether the case will be dismissed has not been determined.

Police alleged a small amount of marijuana was found in Brown's car in January 1975. But District Court Judge Kenneth Hansen on Monday granted Brown's motion that those allegations be dropped as evidence.

Hansen was not available to explain the next chapter in the case, and Eaton County Prosecutor Paul Berger said his office will have to read the opinion before deciding what action will follow.

UAW Wants To End 'Bumping' Loophole

DETROIT (AP) — A top United Auto Workers official says workers who move from hourly to salaried positions should give up their seniority.

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser charged Monday a contract loophole cost 2,000 Chrysler Corp. workers their jobs last year, when supervisory personnel with more seniority were returned to the hourly ranks.

The loophole that allowed the bumping must be tightened or closed, Fraser said.

Under the current contract, hourly workers who move to non-union supervisory positions keep accumulating union seniority. A worker with two years' hourly experience and 15 years' supervisory experience, for example, could be placed back in the hourly ranks with a total of 17 years' seniority.

Fraser charged the company kept supervisors with low seniority in supervisory positions, where they were not threatened by layoffs. Those with more seniority were moved to hourly positions, pushing regular hourly workers with less seniority into layoffs.

Chrysler, like the other auto companies, has complete control over which supervisors are returned to hourly status. And there are no limits on how many such "bump-backs" the company can create.

Putting On The Squeeleh

DETROIT (AP) — An enforced street curfew and increased downtown patrols will be part of the Detroit Police Department's efforts to squelch the city's rising juvenile crime rate. The department said Monday it will boost its downtown patrol force by 40 officers of the 224 who were recalled from layoff. Sgt. Fred Williams said the move was prompted by recent incidents including the daytime robbery of a downtown jewelry store. Meanwhile, increasing violence by roaming youth gangs has prompted Mayor Coleman Young to call for renewed enforcement of the city's curfew ordinance.

Car-Theft Suspect Escapes On Foot

The driver of a reportedly stolen car escaped on foot despite a three-mile chase by a Benton Harbor state police dog and his handler through dense underbrush around middle Grand Mere lake in Lincoln township early today. The foot chase followed a high speed auto chase by St. Joseph township police on I-94 and Grand Mere road that ended when the car crashed through thick brush down an embankment and came to rest in a swampy area and the driver fled on foot.

State police of the Benton Harbor post and Berrien sheriff's officers searched the area for several hours after the 2:40 a.m. chase. Trooper Charles Longenbarger and tracking dog Bruno followed a trail that led around and even into the lake before losing the trail near Thornton and Wishart roads near I-94.

St. Joseph township Patrolman Larry Eichelberger said the car was reported stolen in Hartford. Police also were investigating the possibility connection with a strong-armed robbery reported at Keeler. A suitcase and portable radio allegedly taken from a man at Keeler were found in the car. Hartford Police Chief Lee Spencer said the car is owned by Albert Brown, 411 South Center street, Hartford, and was stolen from a parking lot between 1:20 and 1:35 a.m. The car had been hot-wired, Spencer said. Eichelberger said speeds in the I-94 chase were in excess of 110 miles an hour and 60 to 70 on gravel Grand Mere road.

ELIZABETH DAVIS

EX-SOUTH HAVEN MAYOR Selective Enforcement Blasted

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The alleged selective enforcement of city ordinances drew criticism from former South Haven mayor Elizabeth Davis during a city council meeting last night.

Mrs. Davis said she was ordered to remove a sign endorsing a political candidate from the front lawn of her home by the police last Friday. The order, signed by Code Enforcement Officer Donald Zordel, threatened Mrs. Davis with a fine of up to $200 and/or as many as 90 days in the county jail.

Mrs. Davis during her recently completed two-year term as mayor was a frequent critic over the lack of enforcement of city ordinances in the area of unkept property.

Labeling city employees who had dealt with her on the sign issue as "arbitrary and capricious", Mrs. Davis called for the uniform enforcement and administration of the law.

City officials last week announced a crackdown on property owners who displayed signs endorsing political candidates on their front lawns, contending the signs violated the zoning ordinance.

Mrs. Davis, according to city officials, repeatedly replaced signs on her lawn after city officials removed them.

The former mayor said she wished the city would be as aggressive in enforcing other laws. As an example, she said she has been complaining for nearly two years about a neighbor who is using residential property for commercial purposes, but that nothing was being done.

"The code enforcement officer told me that this party was hard to get along with," said Mrs. Davis. "Does that mean that you are only going to cite people who are easy to get along with?"

Aldermen sided with Mrs. Davis, saying city officials had probably leaned too hard on the former mayor.

"If we are going to enforce one ordinance, then we better enforce them all," said second ward alderman Norvan Books, second ward alderman. "We can't go around sending threatening letters to good citizens."

In other matters, council authorized obtaining easements for proposed water and sewer line extensions to the Van Buren Heights subdivision on the city's north side. The city will also investigate the possibility of seeking a federal grant for the work which is estimated to cost $153,000.

The council approved submitting a request to the State Waterways commission to share the cost for constructing 20 additional slips at the municipal marina. Cost of the project will be $79,160.

Chamber of Commerce President E. Major Schutt urged the council to develop a financing method that would allow construction to be completed in time for the 1977 boating season. He suggested that the city borrow the money from the board of public utilities reserve fund.

Council approved water taps for homes owned by Oran Mitchell and Steve Szarkowski on North Shore drive in Casco township.

A request from the South Haven board of education that Michigan avenue between Hubbard and Bailey streets near the Ratcliffe athletic field be vacated was referred to the planning commission.

The school board is proposing major improvements at the field in a Sept. 11 bond issue election. The enlargement of the track would cut into Michigan avenue, according to school officials.

Councilmen suggested that the school board consider relocating the athletic field to property near the high school instead of improving Ratcliffe field, noting that the complex is located in a residential neighborhood and frequently creates traffic problems during athletic contests.

Council voted 4-2 to allow the school system to use city hall for its Sept. 11 election. Aldermen opposed noted that the election will be on a Saturday when city hall would normally be closed. In favor of the request were al-

Donna Cooke Requests Probe Of Charges In BH

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Donna Cooke, legislative coordinator for the Benton Harbor mayor-commission office, has asked City Atty. K. Morris Gavin to investigate a series of charges she has leveled against city officials.

Mrs. Cooke's charges, contained in a letter to Atty. Gavin, include claims that Melvin Farmer Jr. is serving as deputy city manager in violation of the city charter, that Commission Arnold Bolin is involved in nepotism because his son works for Rampart Ambulance Service, and that City Manager James Peoples Jr. is in conflict of interest because he is serving as both city manager and finance director.

Responding to the charges last night, Farmer said Mrs. Cooke is "all wrong." Bolin called the charges "silly," and Peoples said he would not comment on the charges.

Gavin said last night that he will review the charges and if any are found to be valid, will advise Mrs. Cooke that she must seek legal action against city officials through the Berrien county prosecutor or state attorney general.

Mrs. Cooke said Farmer is in violation of the city charter because the charter says the city commission shall name a department head as deputy city manager.

Farmer said last night that the city commission hired him as deputy city manager in August, 1973, when he was director of the Benton Harbor-Benton township Model Cities program. He said since that time, he has also been director of the city's human resources department and the city's personnel department.

Mrs. Cooke charged Bolin was involved in nepotism because his son, Bruce, works for Rampart ambulance service and Rampart, a private company, was recently allowed to occupy the city's southside fire station.

Bolin said last night that his son is an adult and seeks his own employment and the city's decision to allow Rampart to occupy the southside fire station was the decision of the city manager and not the city commission.

Mrs. Cooke also charged that Peoples was in conflict of interest while serving in the dual capacity of city manager and director of finance and that he has allowed purchases to be made without proper approval from the city commission.

The city commission has not been able to obtain a quorum and conduct legal business since the May 18 recall of four members of the commission.

Mrs. Cooke is currently collecting about $245 per week in "compensatory payments" for more than 1,250 hours she claims she accumulated in overtime, sick pay and vacation time during the three years she worked for the mayor-commission office.

Peoples said last week that to his knowledge she has not worked at city hall since the recall election.

Decatur Village Creating Parking Ticket Bureau

DECATUR — An ordinance establishing a parking violations bureau for Decatur was approved by the village council last night.

Acting on the recommendation of Police Chief Byron Ives, the council adopted the ordinance that will become effective Aug. 30.

Under provisions of the ordinance, those issued a ticket for violating a parking ordinance may come to the bureau at the village hall and plead guilty and pay a fine. In the past, all those issued tickets for parking violations had to appear in Van Buren district court in Paw Paw, according to Warren Grosvenor, village attorney.

People wishing to plead innocent to a charge would have to go to district court as in the past.

Grosvenor said the fines range from $1 for overtime parking to $5 for violations including obstructing traffic or parking in front of an emergency exit.

In other areas, the council set Sept. 8 as the date to open bids on chain link fencing for Lake of the Woods park. The council in July proposed the six-foot-high fence as a means to combat continuing vandalism.

The council also voted to contact Michigan Power company about putting up street lights at the village parking lot at South Phelps and Sherwood streets and at North Phelps and Elmwood drive; gave village police officers permission to attend East Lansing and Kalamazoo seminars on police-youth relations and drug and alcohol abuse; and hired Mrs. Theodore Lapekas for $225 to appraise three parcels of property the village wants to purchase with federal funds.

The council also declared Saturday, Aug. 7, as Edgar Bergen day, in honor of the internationally known comic and ventriloquist who spent 11 years of his youth in the village.

Bergen's scheduled appearance is part of the village's observance of the nation's Bicentennial anniversary.

Church Street Bridge Opening Soon In Baroda

BARODA — The Baroda village council was told last night the Church street bridge is expected to be opened to traffic no later than early next week.

Jay Howard of the engineering firm of R. W. Petrie and Associates, St. Joseph, reported paving of the bridge is planned for Friday or early next week, after which the bridge will open to traffic.

Church street has been closed to through traffic since June 20, 1975, when the old bridge over Hickory creek collapsed after a truck carrying about 102,000 pounds of steel crossed over it.

In a related matter, council authorized President Jerry Pliley to begin paperwork for applying for federal funds to build a new Lake street bridge. The current bridge has been described as in critical condition by village officials. About 72.6 per cent of the new Church street bridge is being paid by a federal grant from the aid to secondary streets program.

Pliley told the council that applying for the grant does not mean the council will have to accept it if it proves more beneficial to the village to pay for the bridge with local funds.

In other business, Trustee Larry Nye reported the Berrien county road commission was expected to paint no-passing lines on Cleveland avenue from Church street to Russell road, or about a third of the way the council wanted. Council had requested the no-passing zone be posted from the northern to southern boundaries of the village in an attempt to slow down traffic on that section of the road.

Nye said a commission official told him the entire section did not merit a no-passing zone because of a lack of entrances onto the road. Because the road is maintained by the county, no changes can be made without the commission's approval.

CYCLIST CRITICALLY INJURED: David Lucker, 21, route 1, box 210, Red Arrow highway, Hartford, is treated by Rampart ambulance attendants after this motorcycle he was riding collided with a car trailing a boat about 6:15 p.m. Monday. Collision occurred on Red Arrow highway south of I-196, Benton township police said. Driver of car, Richard Lyons, 32, Chicago, was unhurt and ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. Two passengers in Lyons' auto were released after treatment at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, where Lucker was reported in "critical" condition today with two broken wrists and a broken hip, police said. The passengers were identified as Rose Lyons, 65, Chicago, Lyons' mother, and Peggy Koonce, 20, Palos Hills, Ill. (Staff photo)

Proposed Complex Gets Liquor Okay In SJ Township

The St. Joseph township board of trustees last night voted 7 to 0 to approve a special use permit for the sale of liquor in a proposed $1 million restaurant-office building.

However, the board did not take any action on the issuance of a building permit for the restaurant-office complex. It is slated for construction on Hilltop road next to Ball Rubber and Plastics and opposite The Heath Co. A liquor license from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission is also required.

Hilltop Development Co., developer and owner of the proposed building, was given a year to apply for the building permit by the board. However, Hilltop Development has said it plans to obtain a building permit and start construction much sooner.

Nathan Downey, a Benton Harbor realtor and president of Hilltop Development, said about 3,000 square feet of the planned 14,200 square feet in office space has already been rented. Negotiations for a franchise with two or three restaurant firms are also in progress, Downey added, but he would not disclose which firms were involved.

Township Supervisor Orval L. Benson said the board's action merely indicates it believes the proposed location is a suitable place for the sale of alcoholic beverages. The township board must also agree to issue a liquor license, he added.

Township planning commission members recommended the approval of the special use permit last month.

Trustee Robert H. DeVries Sr. said before he would vote to grant a liquor license "I want to see two-thirds of that building completed at the cost it was estimated to be."

The board also voted to send back to the planning commission a recommendation that 12 lots be incorporated into Berrien Hills Country club property under the club's special use district zoning.

The club plans to build tennis courts on the property. Township Atty. John Crow said the planning commission should make "a clear cut decision" on whether it is or isn't recommending approval of tennis courts.

The planning commission July 27 recommended the lots be incorporated into the club's property. The board of trustees wants to know if the planners believe that means tennis courts are permitted.

Juvenile Official Dislikes Judge Taylor's Criticism

Charles J. Kehoe, Berrien county director of juvenile court services, said Monday that clarification was needed on the comments made by District Court Judge Ronald J. Taylor in the July 30 edition of The Herald-Palladium.

"I am not happy," Kehoe said, "with his statement that the present court system was not doing a good job in deterring crime. That is not true."

Kehoe also said some of those at a meeting last Thursday appeared to have had "political motives." Among those present were Taylor, a candidate for nomination to a circuit judgeship, and Michael Govatos, a candidate for the Benton Harbor city commission, in today's election.

One of Kehoe's bosses, Probate and Juvenile Judge Zoe Burkholz, also is a candidate for the circuit judgeship.

"At the meeting called by Mike Govatos," Kehoe said, "the merits of the youth service bureau and community liaison program were discussed as examples of successful programs. In a follow-up study of every case referred to the Bureau in its first (1973-1975) two years of operation, it was found that over 90 per cent of the youths who were referred to the bureau have not subsequently been petitioned to juvenile court."

"This year, at the Governor's Conference on Crime, the Berrien county juvenile court program and its youth service bureau were recognized as the most successful crime prevention programs of this type in Michigan," Kehoe added.

"I am happy that he favors some type of non-judicial route," said Kehoe. "The juvenile court, numerous police agencies, county board and citizens council thought so four years ago and did something about it. The youth service bureau is a court administered program."

"The community liaison program which was developed by Benton Harbor Police Chief Andrew Rodez is another example of a successful program operating to keep kids out of court but accountable for their behavior. That program was the part of the youth service bureau grant sponsored by the City of Benton Harbor," Kehoe said.

"We have Benton Harbor people involved in these programs, on staff and as members of advisory committees. That helps make the program work," he said. AD-DING "in our court we practice community involvement."

As for restitution, Kehoe stated that "the court and youth service Bureau use restitution whenever possible. Our judges regularly order young people and their parents to make restitution." He added "that victims however, are understandably reluctant to become involved in young people working off their restitution because of possible liability if a youth is

Bainbridge Board Vacancy Is Filled

The Bainbridge township board last night appointed Robert C. Spies to fill a board vacancy caused by the death of Trustee Edward Lull in late June.

Spies, 45, 215 South Park, Benton Harbor, owner of Modern Sanitation, has been a member of the township zoning board and planning commission for nine years.

He and his wife, Evelyn, have three children.

Spies' appointment will run through November when the term was to have expired. He is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the new term in today's primary.

In other areas, Spies was appointed as the board's representative to the planning commission, after he relinquished the regular planning commission appointment he held for nine years. In his place as a non-board member of the planning commission, the board named Ronald J. Rjes.

Re-appointed to the commission were Carlyle Eber and Harold Benedict.

The board appointed Eber, Treasurer James Lull, and George Shane as members of the township board of appeals.

The board approved renewing an agreement with the North Berrien Sanitation landfill authority from July 16, 1976 to June 30, 1977, at a cost of $120 per month.

ROBERT C. SPIES
Named to board

Supervisor Leonard Smith Jr., reported the township attorney has been requested to determine if the township can pay for paving Bass Island Park drive, with the property owners repaying the township through a one-year special assessment. The road is privately owned.

A petition, containing 22 of 26 signatures of property owners, has been circulated agreeing to the special assessment if the action is legal.

The board approved pay hikes to election workers, from $2.20 per hour to $2.25, with the election chairman compensation increased from $2.25 per hour to $2.50.

Man Says He Was Beaten, Robbed

A Benton Harbor man told city police Monday he was beaten and robbed by two men in a car then dumped out in the 400 block of North Hull avenue.

Paul Melford, 115 Water street, was released after treatment for cuts and bruises at Mercy hospital after the incident that occurred about 9:20 p.m.

He told police two men gave him a ride on the pretext of taking him to a friend's house, but after driving around they beat him and took his wallet containing $40 before pushing out of his car.

A warrant alleges the incident occurred last month in or near Rocky Gap park, Benton township.

A 1975 Chevrolet was among three thefts reported Monday to St. Joseph police and Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Dale Scott, box 7200 Hagar Shore road, Coloma, told city police the 1975 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was stolen from the rear of Lakeview Estates apartments, 2700 Lake Shore drive. Scott reported the car missing about 11:30 p.m.

Also reported stolen to city police was a $179 CB radio from the car of Jerry Riedner, 4454 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, parked at Silver beach.

Berrien deputies said a swimming pool heater and outdoor light, all valued at $425, were reported stolen from the Linda Jeschke residence, route 1, Pucker street, Berrien township.

As for restitution, Kehoe stated that "the court and youth service Bureau use restitution whenever possible. Our judges regularly order young people and their parents to make restitution." He added "that victims however, are understandably reluctant to become involved in young people working off their restitution because of possible liability if a youth is

Vandals Plague Pullman

PULLMAN — About 60 people attended the Lee township meeting last night asking for more police protection to counter what were described as increases in vandalism and break-ins in the Pullman area.

Melvin Riston, township clerk, said the board took no formal action on the request, but a five-member committee of volunteers was appointed to organize a citizens study group.

Once organized, the study group will investigate ways to beef up police patrols in the area, Riston said. Some of the methods to be looked into include paying the Allegan sheriff's department for extra patrol services, hiring township officers, and seeking a property tax levy to pay for the protection.

Serving on the volunteer committee are Kenneth Falkenstein, Mrs. Paul Hapke, Howard Clemens, James Shelton and Thomas Hawkins.

Also present at the meeting were Allegan Sheriff Robert Whitcomb and Vernon Sill, county commissioner for the district which includes Pullman.

Both said they would help the study group prepare recommendations for presentation to the township board.

Peoples May Call BH Meeting Soon

Benton Harbor City Manager James Peoples Jr. said last night he may call a special city commission meeting as soon as results of today's election to fill recalled commission seats are certified. His statement came after city commissioners last night adjourned without taking action for the 13th time since the May 18 recall election. Absent last night was Commissioner Helen Ford, who is also on the ballot today on a recall proposition of her seat.

Asked if the two-and-a-half month halt in city commission meetings had created problems in running the city, Peoples said, "I'm really surprised that we were able to hold together under the weight of all the inaction. I hope there has been no damage that's irreversible." Attending the adjourned meeting last night were Commissioners Arnold Bolin, Edmund Eaman, Alfred Williams and Charles Yarbrough.

Nurse's Death Blamed On Fall

A nurse found unconscious in the hallway of Unity hospital, Buchanan Saturday, died Monday at Pawating hospital, Niles, Berrien sheriff's officers said. Judith Wenger, 28, of 603B West Fourth street, Buchanan, was pronounced dead at 3:10 p.m. Dr. Richard Lininger, assistant Berrien medical examiner, said death was caused by a massive skull fracture. He said an autopsy showed the wound was not caused by a sharp instrument, but that it could have been caused by a "hard fall."

Don Jewell, chief Berrien sheriff's deputy, said after investigation "it appears at this time Miss Wenger fell backwards striking her head on the cement floor."

Jewell also said Miss Wenger was licensed to dispense drugs, and according to controlled substance records at the hospital had withdrawn 100 milligrams of Demerol from the narcotics cabinet on four days, July 27 through 30. Records showed 50 milligrams had been dispensed to patients, and the other 50 were recorded as "wasted," Jewell said. Demerol is used as a sedative.

Jewell said Miss Wenger reportedly had been ill, but was working a double shift, filling in for another nurse who called in sick. Miss Wenger was found about 4:25 a.m. Saturday, July 31, on the second floor of the hospital.

She was a licensed practical nurse. Jewell said the county prosecutor's office has been contacted for a formal ruling on the death.

Miss Wenger was born Nov. 30, 1947, in Benton Harbor. She graduated from Niles high school in 1967 and Lake Michigan College in 1968.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wenger Sr.; Niles; three brothers, William Jr., Niles, James, South Bend, and Ronald, Niles; four sisters, Mrs. Donald Padgett, South Bend, Miss Jean Wenger, Miss Susan Wenger, both of Niles and Miss Kay Wenger, Big Rapids and her grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Kosbar, Benton Harbor.

A funeral mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Thursday in St. Mary's Catholic church, of which she was a member. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, Niles.

Friends may call at Halbritter funeral home, Niles, after 7 this evening. Prayers for the dead will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, in the funeral chapel.

Miss Bass frantically hailed a security guard before 1 a.m. outside the Davis house. She was quoted as saying that a man had shot her boyfriend and three other persons and tried to kill her. A family friend later said Miss Bass and Gavrel were fired on as they returned to the house in a car.

Miss Bass said a gunman emerged from the house as she and Gavrel approached in a car, and they thought he was a burglar until he started shooting at them. He hit Gavrel, she said, and tried to shoot her, giving chase as she fled on foot.

"I've known him for years and then I saw the look on his face as he chased me, trying to shoot me," Miss Bass told police. "I've never been so freaked out in my life! Can you imagine someone shooting your boyfriend? I ran down the field barefoot."

Supt. David Lechner said the bonding proposal would not require any increase in the district's current property tax rate, the lowest in the state of any school district.

Killer Disease Still Unknown

man said the number of dead and sick in the outbreak will not be known until a statewide hospital-by-hospital survey is finished.

"It may take some time to find all the victims," he said. "Deaths from it may have been listed as something else. I don't think we've gotten all the deaths yet. I'm sure we'll find more."

One of the victims was Elmer Hafer, 57, formerly a guard at the federal prison in Lewisburg. He died Friday night.

"His fever started Sunday night, July 26. He started to get chills on Monday, and by Wednesday it had gone up to 105. He went into the hospital on Wednesday," said Anna Hafer, his widow.

"He had never been sick a day in his life," she said.

All the deaths were in Pennsylvania, with the exception of one Philadelphia man who died in North Carolina during a post-convention trip to Florida.

"In the few households we have contacted, we have found no secondary spread to family members," said Dr. William Parkin, chief of the state Health Department's epidemiology section. "That may be the exception rather than the rule as we get more information."

"I can't say there will be transmissions from American Legionnaires to people they are in contact with. We have not had any cases like that yet."

The convention was headquartered at one of Philadelphia's largest hotels although delegates stayed in at least six different hotels. There were fears of food poisoning, but that was ruled out. The symptoms were not similar to those of food poisoning.

"We haven't been able to pin down yet whether the men who died were together. Some probably met at the sessions of the convention itself, but we don't know whether any of them spent any outside time together," said Joseph Adams, commander of the state American Legion.

Legion officials and state health officers urged any persons with the symptoms of the disease to contact a hospital.

"We're worried about the people who may be carrying around this disease and not know it," said Adams.

He said he was particularly worried about "the people who have a temperature or a headache and just take a couple of aspirin and don't do anything about it. Those are the people we want to get to a hospital."

Richard Dolan, 42, was the only survivor of a threesome from the central Pennsylvania community of Williamstown that attended the convention. His cousin, James Dolan, 39, and John Ralph, 41, both died.

Like the other two men, Richard Dolan became ill after the convention. However, he

Lake Township Closing Landfill

BRIDGMAN — The Lake township board last night decided to seek bids from private trash hauling firms to operate a door-to-door pick up service in the township.

The action follows an order from the state department of Natural Resources to close the township's 50-year-old landfill.

Wade Shuler, township supervisor, said the order does not set a specific date for the landfill to be closed, but instead states the operation should be shut down as soon as possible.

The DNR told the board in a letter that the landfill could pollute state waterways because it has a wet, sandy bottom that could allow seepage of material into the water.

Shuler said the board hopes to open bids for the service within the next two months.

The township supervisor said the board has been aware of potential problems at the landfill for the last two years. He said the operation, located off of Red Arrow highway behind the Graceland cemetery, has been issued a conditional license for the last two years by the DNR because of the wet bottom.

At this time, Shuler said the board hopes to offer the door-to-door service to township residents at no cost.

The landfill will remain in operation until township residents are notified by the board, Shuler said. He said the

Juvenile Official Dislikes Judge Taylor's Criticism

Charles J. Kehoe, Berrien county director of juvenile court services, said Monday that clarification was needed on the comments made by District Court Judge Ronald J. Taylor in the July 30 edition of The Herald-Palladium.

Kehoe also said some of those at a meeting last Thursday appeared to have had "political motives." Among those present

POLICE ROUNDUP

Man Says He Was Beaten, Robbed

A Benton Harbor man told city police Monday he was beaten and robbed by two men in a car then dumped out in the 400 block of North Hull avenue.

Paul Melford, 115 Water street, was released after treatment for cuts and bruises at Mercy hospital after the incident that occurred about 9:20 p.m.

He told police two men gave him a ride on the pretext of taking him to a friend's house, but after driving around they beat him and took his wallet containing $40 before pushing out of their car.

A St. Joseph man was arrested Monday by state police of the Benton Harbor post on a warrant charging third degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly attempted rape) involving a 13-year-old Jackson, Mich., girl.

Booked at the Berrien County jail was James Joseph Young, 37, of 810 Lions Park drive. The warrant alleges the incident occurred last month in or near Rocky Gap park, Benton township.

A 1975 Chevrolet was among three thefts reported Monday to St. Joseph police and Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Dale Scott, box 7200 Hagar Shore road, Coloma, told city police the 1975 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was stolen from the rear of Lakeview Estates apartments, 2700 Lake Shore drive. Scott reported the car missing about 11:30 p.m.

Also reported stolen to city police was a $179 CB radio from the car of Jerry Riedner, 4454 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, parked at Silver beach.

Berrien deputies said a swimming pool heater and outdoor light, all valued at $425, were reported stolen from the Linda Jeschke residence, route 1, Pucker street, Berrien township.

Peoples May Call BH Meeting Soon

Benton Harbor City Manager James Peoples Jr. said last night he may call a special city commission meeting as soon as results of today's election to fill recalled commission seats are certified. His statement came after city commissioners last night adjourned without taking action for the 13th time since the May 18 recall election. Absent last night was Commissioner Helen Ford, who is also on the ballot today on a recall proposition of her seat.

The election today fills seats vacated in the May recall election of former Mayor Charles Joseph and three city commissioners and ends a two-and-a-half month void where city commissioners could not conduct business because they could not obtain a legal quorum of all five remaining commissioners.

Peoples said he may call a meeting Thursday or Friday depending on how long it takes the board of canvassers to certify results of today's election.

Asked if the two-and-a-half month halt in city commission meetings had created problems in running the city, Peoples said, "I'm really surprised that we were able to hold together under the weight of all the inaction. I hope there has been no damage that's irreversible." Attending the adjourned meeting last night were Commissioners Arnold Bolin, Edmund Eaman, Alfred Williams and Charles Yarbrough.

Proposed Complex Gets Liquor Okay In SJ Township

The St. Joseph township board of trustees last night voted 7 to 0 to approve a special use permit for the sale of liquor in a proposed $1 million restaurant-office building.

However the board did not take any action on the issuance of a building permit for the restaurant-office complex. It is slated for construction on Hilltop road next to Ball Rubber and Plastics and opposite The Heath Co. A liquor license from the Michigan Liquor Control commission is also required.

Hilltop Development Co., developer and owner of the proposed building, was given a year to apply for the building permit by the board. However, Hilltop Development has said it plans to obtain a building permit and start construction much sooner.

Nathan Downey, a Benton Harbor realtor and president of Hilltop Development, said about 5,000 square feet of the planned 14,200 square feet in office space has already been rented. Negotiations for a franchise with two or three restaurant firms are also in progress, Downey added, but he would not disclose which firms were involved.

Township Supervisor Orval L. Benson said the board's action merely indicates it believes the proposed location is a suitable place for the sale of alcoholic beverages. The township board must also agree to issue a liquor license, he added.

Township planning commission members recommended the approval of the special use permit last month.

Trustee Robert H. DeVries Sr. said before he would vote to grant a liquor license "I want to see two-thirds of that building completed at the cost it was estimated to be."

The board also voted to send back to the planning commission a recommendation that 12 lots be incorporated into Berrien Hills Country club property under the club's special use district zoning.

The club plans to build tennis courts on the property. Township Atty. John Crow said the planning commission should make "a clear cut decision" on whether it is or isn't recommending approval of tennis courts.

The planning commission July 27 recommended the lots be incorporated into the club's property. The board of trustees wants to know if the planners believe that means tennis courts are permitted.

Supervisor Orval Benson said of tennis courts, "it's generally accepted throughout the country they are part of a country club's facilities." But he added the zoning ordinance is silent on the matter.

The board also agreed with the planning commission's recommendation not to recommend a zoning change and special use permit for a proposed 20 unit apartment building at Niles avenue and Lydia drive. The apartments had been proposed by contractor Ralph Post.

Benson also announced bids for the new township hall will be opened at 2 p.m. Sept. 2. No action will be taken on awarding the bids until residents have their chance to speak at a regularly scheduled board meeting Sept. 7, he added. The new township hall is to be built on 10 acres of municipally owned land off Washington avenue near Nelson Road.

Benson said Clerk Bill Payne Smith is working on plans for financing construction of the new township hall and would make his report to residents during the Sept. 7 meeting. But he added construction costs would not be financed with an increase in taxes. Building estimates range from $288,700 to $490,000.

The board also agreed by a 7 to 0 vote to appropriate up to

Bainbridge Board Vacancy Is Filled

The Bainbridge township board last night appointed Robert C. Spies to fill a board vacancy caused by the death of Trustee Edward Lull in late June.

Spies, 45, 215 South Park, Benton Harbor, owner of Modern Sanitation, has been a member of the township zoning board and planning commission for nine years.

He and his wife, Evelyn, have three children.

Spies' appointment will run through November when the term was to have expired. He is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the new term in today's primary.

In other areas, Spies was appointed as the board's representative to the planning commission, after he relinquished the regular planning commission appointment he held for nine years. In his place as a non-board member of the planning commission, the board named Ronald J. Bjes.

Re-appointed to the commission were Carlyle Eber and Harold Benedict.

The board appointed Eber, Treasurer James Lull, and George Shane as members of the township board of appeals.

The board approved renewing an agreement with the North Berrien Sanitation landfill authority from July 16, 1976 to June 30, 1977, at a cost of $120 per month.

Supervisor Leonard Smith Jr., reported the township attorney has been requested to determine if the township can pay for paving Bass Island Park drive, with the property owners repaying the township through a one-year special assessment. The road is privately owned.

A petition, containing 22 of 26 signatures of property owners, has been circulated agreeing to the special assessment if the action is legal.

Delinquent Dad Jailed For Arrearage Of $3,451

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A South Haven man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to four months in jail for making no child support payments in almost three years.

Edward Patrick, special investigator with the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported on cases before Judge William S. White:

Donald Crosby, of South Haven, was held in contempt of court and placed on two years probation, with the first four months in jail, for $3,451 arrears for one child not on ADC. Crosby was also ordered to pay $12 weekly support and $3 each week on the arrearage when he is released from jail. Payment of the arrearage would take 22 years at that rate. Patrick noted Crosby made his last support payment in October, 1973.

Terry Baxter, of 1330 Marion, Niles, was held in contempt and placed on one year probation for $255 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work within 30 days or he'll spend 30 days in jail. He was also ordered to pay $7 support and $3 towards the arrears each week.

Andrew Asmus, of Dowagiac, was also threatened with 30 days in jail if he is not employed within 30 days after the judge held him in contempt and placed him on one year probation for $277 arrears for one child not on ADC. Asmus was told to pay $10 support and $3 on the arrearage each week. Patrick said Asmus has not made a payment in 13 months.

McCullen Williams, of 926 East Main street, Benton Harbor, was held in contempt and placed on six months probation for $260 arrears for two ADC children. Williams yesterday paid $50 towards the arrearage, and was ordered by White to pay another $50 by Friday and have the rest of the arrearage paid off in 60 days or Williams is to be cited back to court.

Burl K. Boyer, of 1339 Marion, Niles, was placed on two years probation after being held in contempt for $2,804 arrears for three children not on ADC, and was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $33 weekly support and $10 each week on the arrearage. Patrick noted Boyer has made only one support payment this year.

Race Track Vote Pushed

THREE OAKS — Representatives from two governmental bodies in Three Oaks township and the Three Oaks Chamber of Commerce have proposed a "Get Out the Vote" campaign in connection with the race track zoning issue to be on a Sept. 7 special election ballot.

The governmental bodies are the Three Oaks township board and the Three Oaks township zoning board.

The campaign is to be explained at a meeting Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Three Oaks township hall. At stake in the balloting is $10 million to $15 million center for both harness and thoroughbred racing.

The drive to get eligible voters to cast ballots on the issue was outlined at the Three Oaks township board meeting last night.

Township Supervisor Alfred Heltenga said there are about 600 people eligible to vote in the election.

The election would determine whether township board action rezoning a site for the proposed development should be upheld or overturned.

The board on May 24 rezoned the 480-acre site southwest of Three Oaks village from residential to planned development use.

Rezoning was needed to permit further planning for the proposed center.

The special election was scheduled after the township board received petitions calling for a referendum.

Even if the rezoning is approved in the special election, race track investors still have to get a license for operations from the state.

In other action last night, the board voted to continue, under protest, to have its tax rolls printed out by a Berrien county computer service.

Errors in the 1975 tax roll delayed tax collections. The board discussed meeting with other townships using the service to discuss the program.

The board read a letter stating that the Three Oaks ambulance made nine runs between June 25 and July 23.

Road Damage Irks Residents

BUCHANAN — A group of Chamberlain road residents last night complained to the Buchanan township board that multi-axle gravel trucks are tearing up the pavement on the road between Red Bud Trail South and Rynearson road.

Supervisor Kenneth Jones told the delegation that Chamberlain road is a secondary road and the township has no jurisdiction over it. He said the township board was concerned over the matter and would be contacting the Berrien county road commission about it.

Chamberlain road divides Buchanan township and Bertrand township. A gravel pit, owned by Richard Hurd, Bertrand township, and Ray Hurd, South Bend, is located on the east side of Chamberlain road in Bertrand township. During the past two months gravel trucks have been hauling gravel from the pit, according to residents.

In other areas, Jones instructed Mrs. Donna Newsom, township clerk, to have township attorneys file a formal complaint against Fred Hankins of East River road, for alleged violation of a township zoning ordinance and alleged construction of out-buildings without a permit.

In response to complaints from residents in the area around the Red Bud Recreation Area, concerning what the residents termed "unbearable" noise from small racing cars and a dust problem, Jones said he would talk with Gene Ritchie, Red Bud owner, to see what could be done to help alleviate the problems.

The board gave permission to the township fire department to fill swimming pools for township residents, providing water is not taken from the township hall's well.

Mrs. Ruth Rose, township treasurer, was appointed as township representative to a citizen's advisory committee to work with the county parks and recreation commission on the acquisition and development of the township's old sanitary landfill property off Clear Lake road.

It was announced that the last day for Buchanan township residents to register to vote in River Valley school district's special election Sept. 7, is Aug. 8, at the township hall.

NEW SMC OFFICIAL: Dr. Russell Owen, president of Southwestern Michigan college, right, talks with Dr. William Haidler, assistant to president for technical programs and associate dean of applied science at college, left. Haidler, 50, was named to new position by SMC board in March and began job, at $21,000 per year, yesterday. His duties will include advising college on curriculum, teaching, coordinating secondary career education with community college instruction and acting as liaison between college and area industry. Pair Held On $250,000 Bonds

Two Illinois men were jailed under bonds of $250,000 each when they demanded examinations Monday in Berrien Fifth

District court on charges of delivery of heroin.

Clarence Shed, 27, Maywood, Ill., and Willie Lee Bell, 28, Chicago, were arrested Sunday in the parking lot of a truck stop at Sawyer. They were charged with selling 1 1/2 ounces of heroin with an estimated street value of $8,000 to a police undercover officer.

Berrien Metro narcotics officers said Shed and Bell were arrested after information was received in a state police raid Saturday on a house in Benton Harbor where eight people were arrested.

The eight were arraigned yesterday on charges ranging from delivery of heroin to being inmates of a disorderly house.

Mack Sesson Jr., 29, of 631 Broadway, Benton Harbor, demanded examination on delivery of heroin. Bond was set at $50,000.

Lawrence C. Ewell, 31, Benton Harbor, and Stephen Ready Brewer, 28, of 766 South Crystal avenue, demanded examinations on a charge of possession with the intent to deliver heroin. Bonds were set at $50,000 each.

Fred M. Wallace, 29, of 363 Walnut avenue, Benton township, demanded examination on a charge of possession of heroin. His bond was set at $25,000.

Frankie Lane Barber, 22, of 254 Jefferson street, and Freddie Johnson, 30, of Lavette street, stood mute and an innocent plea was entered on a charge of being an inmate of a disorderly house. Barber was freed on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond. Bond for Johnson was set at $2,000.

Marlisa Cynthia Tucker, 17, of 785 Wauconda avenue, was sentenced to three days in jail and fine and costs of $50 for disorderly person, loitering, at a house where an illegal occupation or business, the sale of heroin, was going on.

Brandon Lowell Cates, 23, of 2800 US-33 North, apartment 4-

A Benton township, stood mute and an innocent plea was entered on a charge of disorderly person, illegal occupation.

Bond was set at $2,000.

Barber, Tucker, Johnson and Cates were originally booked on charges of violating the controlled substance act (possession) of heroin, but those charges were not authorized by the prosecutor's office.

Cleared Patrolman Reinstated In Niles

NILES — A Niles police officer cleared of charges leveled against him in April by the Berrien county citizens' grand jury has been reinstated to the force.

Gary Koller, Niles police patrolman suspended from the department following his indictment by the grand jury, returned to the job as of Monday, according to Raymond Rudman, Niles police chief.

Koller, 23, was cleared June 10 of charges of committing perjury 10 times before the grand jury on March 11. The charges were dismissed by Ronald Taylor, Berrien Fifth District court judge.

Rudman said he was authorized by the city's board of public safety to reinstate Koller, but was not authorized to pay Koller wages he did not receive while suspended from the department.

Atty. Richard Beers Lindenfeld, St. Joseph, who represented Koller, said the safety board has not acted on Koller's claim for back pay and that the claim would go to arbitration.

John Steele Given Plaque By Coloma Township Board

COLOMA — A longtime township resident was presented with a plaque by the Coloma township board last night for his 18 years of service on various township boards. Receiving the recognition was John Steele, who resigned last June from the posts citing health reasons. Steele served on the township board of appeals, zoning board, planning commission, board of review, Paw Paw Lake Planning commission, and the Joint Paw Paw Lake Sewage Operating board. Supervisor Ewald Eckblom presented the plaque to Steele and thanked him for his long years of service to the township.

In other areas, during a brief meeting, Eckblom said the township attorney will be requested to determine which areas around Paw Paw lake are for use by the public.

According to Eckblom, several questions have been asked by township residents as to which areas around the lake may be used by the public. Eckblom indicated some areas, although thought to be private, have been dedicated to the township by land developers as public beach. The review by the attorney, said Eckblom, will determine which areas are open.

Nurse's Death Blamed On Fall

A nurse found unconscious in the hallway of Unity hospital, Buchanan Saturday, died Monday at Pawating hospital, Niles, Berrien sheriff's officers said. Judith Wenger, 28, of 603B West Fourth street, Buchanan, was pronounced dead at 3:10 p.m. Dr. Richard Lininger, assistant Berrien medical examiner, said death was caused by a massive skull fracture. He said an autopsy showed the wound was not caused by a sharp instrument, but that it could have been caused by a "hard fall."

Don Jewell, chief Berrien sheriff's deputy, said after investigation "it appears at this time Miss Wenger fell backwards striking her head on the

cement floor."

Jewell also said Miss Wenger was licensed to dispense drugs, and according to controlled substance records at the hospital had withdrawn 100 milligrams of Demerol from the narcotics cabinet on four days, July 27 through 30. Records showed 50 milligrams had been dispensed to patients, and the other 50 were recorded as "wasted," Jewell said. Demerol is used as a sedative.

Jewell said Miss Wenger reportedly had been ill, but was working a double shift, filling in for another nurse who called in sick. Miss Wenger was found about 4:25 a.m. Saturday, July 31, on the second floor of the hospital.

She was a licensed practical nurse.

Jewell said the county prosecutor's office has been contacted for a formal ruling on the death.

Miss Wenger was born Nov. 30, 1947, in Benton Harbor. She graduated from Niles high school in 1967 and Lake Michigan College in 1968.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wenger Sr., Niles; three brothers, William Jr., Niles, James, South Bend, and Ronald, Niles; four sisters, Mrs. Donald Padgett, South Bend, Miss Jean Wenger, Miss Susan Wenger, both of Niles and Miss Kay Wenger, Big Rapids and her grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Kosbar, Benton Harbor.

A funeral mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Thursday in St. Mary's Catholic church, of which she was a member. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, Niles.

Friends may call at Halbritter funeral home, Niles, after 7 this evening. Prayers for the Dead will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, in the funeral chapel.

Former Supreme Court Justice Thomas Brennan's campaign is the least well financed among the Republicans. He collected less than $35,000.

Congressional primaries also will be held in all 19 Michigan districts. The retirements of Riegle, O'Hara, Esch and Republican Rep. Edward Hutchinson have cleared the way for at least four new faces.

The commission also granted Robert Westfield a one-year permit to trap for muskrats at the city lagoon.

Miss Bass frantically hailed a security guard before 1 a.m. outside the Davis house. She was quoted as saying that a man had shot her boyfriend and three other persons and tried to kill her. A family friend later said Miss Bass and Gavrel were fired on as they returned to the house in a car.

Miss Bass said a gunman emerged from the house as she and Gavrel approached in a car, and they thought he was a burglar until he started shooting at them. He hit Gavrel, she said, and tried to shoot her, giving chase as she fled on foot.

"I've known him for years and then I saw the look on his face as he chased me, trying to shoot me," Miss Bass told police. "I've never been so freaked out in my life! Can you imagine someone shooting your boyfriend? I ran down the field barefoot."

Killer Disease Still Unknown

man said the number of dead and sick in the outbreak will not be known until a statewide hospital-by-hospital survey is finished.

"It may take some time to find all the victims," he said. "Deaths from it may have been listed as something else. I don't think we've gotten all the deaths yet. I'm sure we'll find more."

One of the victims was Elmer Hafer, 57, formerly a guard at the federal prison in Lewisburg. He died Sunday night.

"His fever started Sunday night, July 25. He started to get chills on Monday, and by Wednesday it had gone up to 105. He went into the hospital on Wednesday," said Anna Hafer, his widow.

"He had never been sick a day in his life," she said. All the deaths were in Pennsylvania, with the exception of one Philadelphia man who died in North Carolina during a post-convention trip to Florida.

"In the few households we have contacted, we have found no secondary spread to family members," said Dr. William Parkin, chief of the state health Department's epidemiology section. "That may be the exception rather than the rule as we get more information."

"I can't say there will be transmissions from American Legionnaires to people they are in contact with. We have not had any cases like that yet."

The convention was headquartered at one of Philadelphia's largest hotels although delegates stayed in at least six different hotels. There were fears of food poisoning, but that was ruled out. The symptoms were not similar to those of food poisoning.

"We haven't been able to pin down yet whether the men who died were together. Some probably met at the sessions of the convention itself, but we don't know whether any of them spent any outside time together," said Joseph Adams, commander of the state American Legion.

Legion officials and state health officers urged any persons with the symptoms of the disease to contact a hospital.

"We're worried about the people who may be carrying around this disease and not know it," said Adams.

He said he was particularly worried about "the people who have a temperature or a headache and just take a couple of aspirin and don't do anything about it. Those are the people we want to get to a hospital."

Richard Dolan, 42, was the only survivor of a threesome from the central Pennsylvania community of Williamstown that attended the convention. His cousin, James Dolan, 39, and John Ralph, 41, both died.

Like the other two men, Richard Dolan became ill after the convention. However, he said he suffers from a chronic condition and was taking antibiotics while he was in Philadelphia.

"This whole thing is so confusing," said Dolan. "My first cousin and one of my best friends are dead."

The oldest victim was William Baird, 82, of Bloomsburg, who died Friday night. Baird's death apparently came with less prolonged symptoms. His son said he had eaten at a restaurant Friday evening before becoming ill.

Charles Chamberlain, 48, of Chambersburg was one of the first to die. He became sick July 25, went into the hospital last Wednesday, and died Friday.

"I think Daddy was one of the first to get sick and we had no way to connect him to the others at the convention," said his daughter in a telephone conversation. He was in good health before the convention.

Four States Conducting Primary Elections Today

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Voters in Missouri, Michigan, Kansas and Idaho went to the polls for midsummer primaries today, with party nominations for seats in the House and Senate hanging in the balance.

Two Senate seats are being vacated by retirements. In Missouri, four Democrats are in the race for the seat held by Sen. Stuart Symington, 75, who is retiring after 24 years in the Senate.

In Michigan, both Democrats and Republicans are vying for the seat surrendered by Sen. Philip Hart, 63, who is retiring after three terms in the Senate.

There were no statewide contests in Idaho or Kansas, and there has been little excitement caused by races in either state.

The race for Symington's seat includes another Symington — his son, Rep. James Symington. Others include Rep. Jerry Litton; former Gov. Warren K. Hearnes; and Kansas City

Lake Township Closing Landfill

BRIDGMAN — The Lake township board last night decided to seek bids from private trash hauling firms to operate a door-to-door pick up service in the township.

The action follows an order from the state department of Natural Resources to close the township's 50-year-old landfill.

Wade Shuler, township supervisor, said the order does not set a specific date for the landfill to be closed, but instead states the operation should be shut down as soon as possible.

The DNR told the board in a letter that the landfill could pollute state waterways because it has a wet, sandy bottom that could allow seepage of material into the water.

Shuler said the board hopes to open bids for the service within the next two months.

The township supervisor said the board has been aware of potential problems at the landfill for the last two years. He said the operation, located off of Red Arrow highway behind the Graceland cemetery, has been issued a conditional license for the last two years by the DNR because of the wet bottom.

At this time, Shuler said the board hopes to offer the door-to-door service to township residents at no cost.

The landfill will remain in operation until township residents are notified by the board, Shuler said. He said the landfill will be open on Saturdays for township residents, who can dispose of refuse at the site free of charge.

She sustained a laceration to the scalp, according to hospital officials. The ambulance service reported Marion Patrick said she was coming out of Wilbur's Ice Cream Shoppe, 609 Broad street, after buying an ice cream cone when she missed a step in front of the store and fell. The accident occurred about 8:30 p.m.

circumstances completely overwhelmed him, he's up there."

The more than 50 bodies that had been recovered were brought to makeshift morgues, where the grim task of identification had barely begun. At least 20 other bodies had been spotted in the canyon but had not been recovered.

Only a few of the dead had been identified by nightfall. They included four members of a national Crusade for Christ retreat at Estes Park. Thirty members of the group had been rescued. Three more were still listed as missing.

The National Weather Service in Denver said a combination of conditions produced the thunderstorms that poured 10 inches of rain into Big Thompson Canyon last Saturday and also triggered recent heavy rains throughout eastern Colorado.

Meteorologists said a large high-pressure system over the Dakotas brought warm, moist air from the east that combined with a high pressure ridge over the upper atmosphere to produce "fairly well-developed thunderstorms moving quite slowly." Although the weather improved over Big Thompson Canyon on Monday, officials were worried about two other areas of the state also hard hit by thunderstorms.

Officials ordered the evacuation of about 1,000 residents of the Poudre Canyon, northwest of Loveland, and flash flood warnings were issued for parts of southeast Colorado, where some minor flooding was reported along the Greenhorn and Fountain rivers.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan traffic accidents in July claimed 169 lives, 26 fewer than in July 1975, State Police figures show.

The total includes 19 traffic fatalities over the July 4 holiday weekend.

July deaths brought the number of Michigan traffic fatalities for 1976 to 922, about six per cent higher than the total for the same period last year.

Millionaire Heir Held In Two Shooting Deaths

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Two persons were shot to death and two others seriously wounded today at the mansion of an heir to an oil business fortune. The millionaire heir was being held by police.

Those killed at the home of millionaire Thomas Cullen Davis were identified as his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Davis, and Stan Farr, a former Texas Christian University basketball star. The wounded included Davis' wife, who was in the process of divorcing him, authorities said.

Officers said they found Davis' car at the home of a friend about two hours after the shootings and called on him by loudspeaker to give up. He surrendered after a few minutes and was held without charge.

Hospital attendants listed the wounded as Priscilla Davis, 35, Davis' wife, who was shot in the abdomen, and Gus "Bubba" Gavrel, 21, who was hit in the left side of the chest.

Associates told police that Priscilla Davis, mother of Andrea, has been in the process of divorcing Cullen Davis. He is president of Stratoflex, Inc., and heir to a fortune built by his father, Ken Davis, in an oil supply business named Ken Davis Industries.

According to police, Mrs. Davis, her daughter, and Farr, who had been living at the Davis mansion, were shot inside the house. Gavrel was shot outside as he returned with a woman friend, Bev Bass, who had been a guest of Mrs. Davis' 18-year-old daughter, Dee.

Police said that Mrs. Davis had run bleeding and scantily clad to a nearby home and pleaded for help from the owner, Clifford Jones, a retired businessman. Jones said that Mrs. Davis cried out that a man was "killing everybody."

Ambulance drivers Daniel Bruner and Thomas Southall said Mrs. Davis told them that she fled after a gunman, apparently Davis, "put on a black wig and started shooting all my kids — he went wild!"

Bruner recounted the wounded woman as saying her attacker tried to force everyone into the basement of the mansion, which is estimated to be worth $6 million with its extensive grounds.

Miss Bass frantically hailed a security guard before 1 a.m. outside the Davis house. She was quoted as saying that a man had shot her boyfriend and three other persons and tried to kill her. A family friend later said Miss Bass and Gavrel were fired on as they returned to the house in a car.

Miss Bass said a gunman emerged from the house as she and Gavrel approached in a car, and they thought he was a burglar until he started shooting at them. He hit Gavrel, she said, and tried to shoot her, giving chase as she fled on foot.

"I've known him for years and then I saw the look on his face as he chased me, trying to shoot me," Miss Bass told police. "I've never been so freaked out in my life! Can you imagine someone shooting your boyfriend? I ran down the field barefoot."

nounced as Aug. 16. Supt. David Lechner said the bonding proposal would not require any increase in the district's current property tax rate, the lowest in the state of any school district.

Delinquent Dad Jailed For Arrearage Of $3,451

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A South Haven man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to four months in jail for making no child support payments in almost three years.

Edward Pastrick, special investigator with the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported on cases before Judge William S. White:

Donald Crosby, of South Haven, was held in contempt of court and placed on two years probation, with the first four months in jail, for $3,451 arrears for one child not on ADC. Crosby was also ordered to pay $12 weekly support and $3 each week on the arrearage when he's released from jail. Payment of the arrearage would take 22 years at that rate. Pastrick noted Crosby made his last support payment in October, 1973.

Terry Baxter, of 1330 Marion, Niles, was held in contempt and placed on one year probation for $255 arrears for one child on ADC, and told to find work within 30 days or he'll spend 30 days in jail. He was also ordered to pay $7 support and $3 towards the arrears each week.

Andrew Asmus, of Dowagiac, was also threatened with 30 days in jail if he is not employed within 30 days after the judge held him in contempt and placed him on one year probation for $277 arrears for one child not on ADC. Asmus was told to pay $10 support and $3 on the arrearage each week. Pastrick said Asmus has not made a payment in 18 months.

McCullen Williams, of 826 East Main street, Benton Harbor, was held in contempt and placed on six months probation for $260 arrears for two ADC children. Williams yesterday paid $50 towards the arrearage, and was ordered by White to pay another $50 by Friday and have the rest of the arrearage paid off in 60 days or Williams is to be cited back to court.

Burl K. Boyer, of 1339 Marion, Niles, was placed on two years probation after being held in contempt for $2,804 arrears for three children not on ADC, and was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $33 weekly support and $10 each week on the arrearage. Pastrick noted Boyer has made only one support payment this year.

Race Track Vote Pushed

THREE OAKS — Representatives from two governmental bodies in Three Oaks township and the Three Oaks Chamber of Commerce have proposed a "Get Out the Vote" campaign in connection with the race track zoning issue to be on a Sept. 7 special election ballot.

The governmental bodies are the Three Oaks township board and the Three Oaks township zoning board.

The campaign is to be explained at a meeting Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Three Oaks township hall. At stake in the balloting is $10 million to $15 million center for both harness and thoroughbred racing.

The drive to get eligible voters to cast ballots on the issue was outlined at the Three Oaks township board meeting last night.

Township Supervisor Alfred Hellenga said there are about 600 people eligible to vote in the election.

The election would determine whether township board action rezoning a site for the proposed development should be upheld or overturned.

The board on May 24 rezoned the 480-acre site southwest of Three Oaks village from residential to planned development use.

Rezoning was needed to permit further planning for the proposed center.

The special election was scheduled after the township board received petitions calling for a referendum.

Even if the rezoning is approved in the special election, race track investors still have to get a license for operations from the state.

In other action last night, the board voted to continue, under protest, to have its tax rolls printed out by a Berrien county computer service.

Errors in the 1975 tax roll delayed tax collections. The board discussed meeting with other townships using the service to discuss the program.

Road Damage Irks Residents

BUCHANAN — A group of Chamberlain road residents last night complained to the Buchanan township board that multi-axle gravel trucks are tearing up the pavement on the road between Red Bud Trail South and Rynearson road.

Supervisor Kenneth Jones told the delegation that Chamberlain road is a secondary road and the township has no jurisdiction over it. He said the township board was concerned over the matter and would be contacting the Berrien county road commission about it.

Chamberlain road divides Buchanan township and Bertrand township. A gravel pit, owned by Richard Hurd, Bertrand township, and Ray Hurd, South Bend, is located on the east side of Chamberlain road in Bertrand township. During the past two months gravel trucks have been hauling gravel from the pit, according to residents.

In other areas, Jones instructed Mrs. Donna Newsom, township clerk, to have township attorneys file a formal complaint against Fred Hanks of East River road, for alleged violation of a township zoning ordinance and alleged construction of out-buildings without a permit.

In response to complaints from residents in the area around the Red Bud Recreation Area, concerning what the residents termed "unbearable" noise from small racing cars and a dust problem, Jones said he would talk with Gene Richie, Red Bud owner, to see what could be done to help alleviate the problems.

The board gave permission to the township fire department to fill swimming pools for township residents, providing water is not taken from the township hall's well.

Mrs. Ruth Rose, township treasurer, was appointed as township representative to a citizen's advisory committee to work with the county parks and recreation commission on the acquisition and development of the township's old sanitary landfill property off Clear Lake road.

It was announced that the last day for Buchanan township residents to register to vote in River Valley school district's special election Sept. 7, is Aug. 9, at the township hall.

Pair Held On $250,000 Bonds

Two Illinois men were jailed under bonds of $250,000 each when they demanded examinations Monday in Berrien Fifth

District court on charges of delivery of heroin.

Clarence Shed, 27, Maywood, Ill., and Willie Lee Bell, 28, Chicago, were arrested Sunday in the parking lot of a truck stop at Sawyer. They were charged with selling 1½ ounces of heroin with an estimated street value of $8,000 to a police undercover officer.

Berrien Metro narcotics officers said Shed and Bell were arrested after information was received in a state police raid Saturday on a house in Benton Harbor where eight people were arrested.

The eight were arraigned yesterday on charges ranging from delivery of heroin to being inmates of a disorderly house.

Mack Sesson Jr., 29, of 631 Broadway, Benton Harbor, demanded examination on delivery of heroin. Bond was set at $50,000.

Lawrence C. Ewell, 31, Benton Harbor, and Stephen Ready Brewer, 26, of 766 South Crystal avenue, demanded examinations on a charge of possession with the intent to deliver heroin. Bonds were set at $50,000 each.

Fred M. Wallace, 29, of 363 Walnut avenue, Benton township, demanded examination on a charge of possession of heroin. His bond was set at $25,000.

Frankie Lane Barber, 22, of 254 Jefferson street, and Freddie Johnson, 30, of Lavette street, stood mute and an innocent plea was entered on a charge of being an inmate of a disorderly house. Barber was freed on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond. Bond for Johnson was set at $2,000.

Martisa Cynthia Tucker, 17, of 785 Waucauda avenue, was sentenced to three days in jail and fine and costs of $50 for disorderly person, loitering, at a house where an illegal occupation or business, the sale of heroin, was going on.

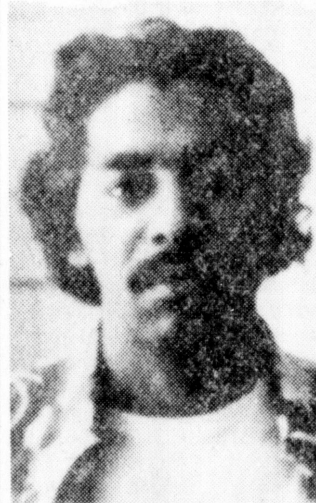

Brandon Lowell Cates, 23, of 2800 US-33 North, apartment 4-

A. Benton township, stood mute and an innocent plea was entered on a charge of disorderly person, illegal occupation.

Bond was set at $2,000.

Barber, Tucker, Johnson and Cates were originally booked on charges of violating the controlled substance act (possession) of heroin, but those charges were not authorized by the prosecutor's office.

GARY KOLLER
Policeman reinstated

Cleared Patrolman Reinstated In Niles

NILES — A Niles police officer cleared of charges leveled against him in April by the Berrien county citizens' grand jury has been reinstated to the force.

Gary Koller, Niles police patrolman suspended from the department following his indictment by the grand jury, returned to the job as of Monday, according to Raymond Rudman, Niles police chief.

Koller, 23, was cleared June 10 of charges of committing perjury 10 times before the grand jury on March 11. The charges were dismissed by Ronald Taylor, Berrien Fifth District court judge.

Rudman said he was authorized by the city's board of public safety to reinstate Koller, but was not authorized to pay Koller wages he did not receive while suspended from the department.

Atty. Richard Beers Lindenfeld, St. Joseph, who represented Koller, said the safety board has not acted on Koller's claim for back pay and that the claim would go to arbitration.

John Steele Given Plaque By Coloma Township Board

COLOMA — A longtime township resident was presented with a plaque by the Coloma township board last night for his 19 years of service on various township boards. Receiving the recognition was John Steele, who resigned last June from the posts citing health reasons. Steele served on the township board of appeals, zoning board, planning commission, board of review, Paw Paw Lake Planning commission, and the Joint Paw Paw Lake Sewage Operating board. Supervisor Ewald Eckblom presented the plaque to Steele and thanked him for his long years of service to the township.

In other areas, during a brief meeting, Eckblom said the township attorney will be requested to determine which areas around Paw Paw lake are for use by the public.

According to Eckblom, several questions have been asked by township residents as to which areas around the lake may be used by the public. Eckblom indicated some areas, although thought to be private, have been dedicated to the township by land developers as public beach. The review by the attorney, said Eckblom, will determine which areas are open.

Texan Joe Hager Medalist At Hills

By JACK WALKER
Staff Sports Writer

Joe Hager has been around golf all his life.

All Monday it finally paid off. Hager carded a brilliant even-par 71 at Lake Michigan Golf Hills to take medalist honors in pre-qualifying competition for the Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Hager, a Dallas, Tex., native arrived at the course just five minutes before his tee time, but it didn't seem to matter. The former Southern Methodist golfer collected four birdies and only a miserable three-hole stretch kept him from bettering par.

"I wanted to play well," Hager said. "But my goal was really just to qualify. I qualified for the tournament three years ago, but missed the cut. This year I think I've grown up a little bit and hope to do better."

Hager edged Roger Nall of Cedar Rapids, Iowa by one stroke and Dave Edwards of Edmond, Okla. by two to take top honors.

A brisk wind, which reached up to 30 miles an hour by the afternoon, caused most of the players problems. But Hager didn't let it bother him.

"The wind helped me probably more than it hurt," he said. "Some of the holes which would've normally played long, played short. The wind didn't affect my putting, either, and that was the big thing. If you can stand up over a putt and not have the wind effect your balance, it's okay."

"I think the thing that made the course play so hard was the pin placement," he added.

Hager comes from a golfing family: His mother, Florine, teaches golf in Dallas while his father, Kermit, is a club professional. His sister Nancy was a member of the Curtis Cup team in 1970.

"I've been around golf all my life," Hager explained. "I used to play a lot of sports like basketball, football, track and swimming. Then when I went into ninth grade I decided to take golf seriously and dropped everything else."

Hager had just one bad stretch. Starting at the 17th hole and ending at No. 1, he went bogey, double bogey and bogey. The double bogey at the par-four, 342-yard 18th resulted when Hager three-putted from four feet. But he finished strong, playing the final eight holes one-under-par.

Nall, a 32-year-old golf course superintendent, made his first trip to qualify a successful one. A friend, Bill Bergman, talked Nall into joining him for the qualifying. The two played a pair of practice rounds Sunday and Nall called them "instrumental" in his strong showing.

"I had a lot of safe hits that I would not have normally hit because of the practice rounds," he said. "The big thing in my round was that I just kept the ball in play. I hit real well and had no penalty shots."

Sadly Nall's friend Bergman was able to shoot just an 83 and did not qualify.

Edwards, who will be a junior this fall at Oklahoma State, tried to qualify two years ago and failed. Last year he was, exempt after making the quarterfinals of the Trans-Mississippi tournament.

Edwards also comes from a strong golfing background. His brother, Dan, is a tour professional, finishing 90th on last year's PGA money list.

He credits much of his success to his brother.

"My brother was the main reason I picked it up," Edwards said. "He taught me a lot. He helped me with the fundamentals like the mechanics of a good golf swing. He's played in all these amateur tournaments so I know that a lot of the courses are like and what to expect."

Twenty-six golfers qualified for the beginning of the Western Amateur on Wednesday at Point O' Woods. A playoff was held among 10 golfers who finished with 77s for the five alternate spots.

Mark Burden of Clinton, Ia. gained a spot with a birdie on the first hole, while Lester Hayashi of San Diego, Calif. parred the hole for his berth.

Lawrence Hicks of Greensboro, N. C., Arthur Nash of Kent, Ohio and Reed Mackenzie of Chaska, Minn. birdied the third playoff hole for their alternate spots.

The only area golfer, St. Joseph's John Gersonde, carded an 83 and failed to qualify.

'Young Lion' Saad Tops At Hampshire

By PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

DOWAGIAC — The young lions invaded Hampshire Golf Course Monday and by the looks of the scores, the battle was just about a draw.

Dana Saad of Portsmouth, N.H. shot a two-under par 70 to capture medalist honors in the pre-qualifying competition for the Western Amateur which gets underway at the Point O' Woods on Wednesday.

Only four golfers broke par on the 7,020-yard, par 72 course. But it took a 75 to nail down one of the 24 spots that qualified for the Amateur.

Most of the elite group are just out of high school or in their beginning years of college. The oldest man to qualify was Mike LaLard of 33. But of the 24 and one alternate, only three men are over 30 and the average age of the group is a mere 22.5 years.

This is the first time in the Western Am for Saad but he is no stranger to amateur competition. The 20-year old who plays for the University of South Florida finished second in the New England Amateur two weeks ago at the Portland Country Club in Portland, Maine.

Saad has also played in the New Hampshire and Vermont amateur's and when he was in high school, won the Maine Prep School title twice while playing for Berwick Academy of South Berwick, Maine.

Area Clubs Fall In Bangor Event

BANGOR — Cannon-Dendel, an All-Star team from Wayland, and Stan's from Dorr posted wins in the first round of the Bangor Babe Ruth Tournament Monday night.

Cannon-Dendel ripped Earl Claire-Sodas 7-1 behind the pitching of Skip Blaine. Stan's blasted Hartford 19-0 with Randy Merren picking up the victory.

The double-elimination tournament continues tonight. Gobles faces Bangor at 6 p.m. and Hager takes on Paw Paw at 8 p.m. here.

His first nine was the back side as he started off on the 10th hole and he literally tore it up, shooting a five five three-under par 33. But it was the front nine that gave him problems.

Saad double-bogeyed the fourth hole and went on to shoot a 37, one-over par. "I played good on the back nine so the bad hole didn't bother me that much," Saad indicated. "I just hit the ball real well today."

"I like to get off to a good start and cruise on in, too," he added.

His round included five birdies and nine were of the long putt types. "I hit 37 shots to the greens and 31 putts," he said.

The business administration major has never come this far west to play in a tourney before. "But I've played so well this year, I decided to get into a national tournament," he said.

One of Saad's new roommates for the week, Tom Lamore of Novato, Cal., also made the cut. Both golfers are staying with the Bruce Laing's in Benton Harbor while playing in the Western Am.

Lamore tied with Judd Silverman of Toledo, Ohio and Mike Gray from Rushville, Ind. at one-under par 71.

This is the first Western Amateur for Lamore who plays for the University of Houston's second team. The junior has had a tough time cracking the starting group with the likes of Keith Fergus anchoring the team.

Coming in at even par 72 were James Monaghan from West Bloomfield, Don Doctor of Buffalo, N. Y. and Rick Borg, Worthington, Ohio. Monaghan was the state Class A medalist in 1975 while playing for Brother Rice in Detroit.

Doctor was the medalist in the pre-qualifying at Hampshire in 1974, shooting a 66. He ended up with a 296 total that year and missed the Sweet Sixteen cut by just two strokes.

There were only seven area golfers entered at Hampshire and none made the final group. David Hryn of Bridgman and Lawton's Bill Keim tied for low area honors with 77s.

Tom Weiskopf's younger brother, Dan, also failed to make the cut. A favorite of the spectators, Dan came in with an 85 in the afternoon session.

Ackerman Tied For PGA Lead

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) — Two Western Michigan golfers shared the lead Monday in the first round of the Michigan PGA tournament at Red Run Golf Course.

Bob Ackerman, 23, an assistant pro in Buchanan, and Glenn Stuart, of Bedford Valley in Battle Creek, fired four-under-par opening round 68s.

Ackerman, who participated in the Western Am at the Point O' Woods the last several years, is a former Bridgman high school and Indiana University golf star. He now works at Buchanan's Brookwood golf course.

Dave Zink, 22, of Burning Tree in Mount Clemens, and John Traub, 25, of Detroit Golf Club, were one stroke back in the 54-hole race for the $3,000 first prize.

At Mergert of Oakland Hills and Dick Horgan of Lansing were at 71.

Clustered at 71, one under par, were Jack Seltzer of Grand Blanc; Alex Hedmond of Lewiston; Ron English of Saginaw; Jeff Voss of South Haven; Tim Foster of East Lansing; and Cas Jawor. Voss is head pro at the South Haven golf and country club.

After today's round, the field will be cut to the low 60s and ties for Wednesday's final round.

The $20,000 tournament is being sponsored by Chevrolet dealers.

Tough Point May Rough Up Western Am Golfers

By JOHN VANDEN HEDE
Sports Editor

The challenging course at Point O'Woods could "rough" up some Western Amateur golfers this week.

Randy Simmons, a finalist last year; Fred Ridley, the U.S. Amateur champion, and 19 All-Americans are among the star-studded field on hand for Wednesday's start of championship competition.

But none are likely to topple the records of 1974 champion Curtis Strange, now a professional, because Point head pro Sam Drake says the beautiful 6,900-yard Benton Harbor course is "going to be tougher than ever."

Mastering the Point will be difficult because Drake notes that "roughs are heavier around the green." Fairway roughs are also "long." And the trees provide bigger obstacles after widening out and getting taller.

It took a 297 score through the 72 holes of qualifying medal play last year to make the cut for the Sweet 16 and match play, and Drake and others feel that could go as high as 300 this year.

Strange set the medal and single round records of 65 and 278, respectively, in 1974. He broke a 282 mark set in 1972 by Ben Crenshaw, currently the leading money winner on the PGA tour. Four shared medalist honors last year at 289.

"It (the course) didn't play easy that year ('74), but it played easier than last year," adds Doug Fischesser, who was a Sweet 16 player in 1974. "I would say a 300 would make it this year." (Fischesser's father, Don, is the pro at the Signal Point course in Niles.)

Of course, not everyone is predicting higher qualifying scores. Bruce Hollowell, an oldtimer in the Amateur at 33, says scores could be "a shot better" because the firm fairways provide a "little faster track than last year."

And Tim Simpson, an All-American from Georgia who missed the Sweet 16 by one stroke last year, thought the golf course was a "little easier" during a practice round Monday. He talked of a 295 to 296 as the cut off for match play.

Any talk of scores also brings into consideration the quality of the field, because Strange, Crenshaw and 1975 champ Andy Bean are now pros.

Drake thinks there was a "little stronger field last year," while Fischesser says it's "just as good as the last two or three years."

Half of last year's Sweet 16 players are back, including Simmons, Ridley, Bob Byman, Peter Jacobson, Lance Ten Broeck, Tom Sieckman, Mike Reid and Del deWindt. And all must be considered championship favorites this year.

"I like Simmons and Ridley's chances of going all the way," declares Hollowell.

There's also NCAA champion Scott Simpson and Mike Reid, this year's first round leader in the U.S. Open, to be considered as contenders along with the other All-Americans.

A non-collegian and a newcomer to the Western Am who is drawing a lot of consideration is 32-year-old Pennsylvania Jay Sigel, an insurance man who recently won his fifth straight Pennsylvania Golf Association amateur championship. This year he has also won the Sunnehanna Amateur, earned a semifinalist spot in the North and South event and placed third in the Northeast Amateur.

One thing is for certain, the Western Amateur field will be the strongest group of amateurs assembled this year.

Marshall Dann, of the sponsoring Western Golf Association, says there is no solid favorite while calling the field "so strong, so balanced." He says "there are at least 10 players here that will go on to the pro tour."

An example of the balance can be seen in the fact that 12 entrants already have won major amateur honors this year. Six others are waiting to defend major titles later this year.

A record field of 521 entered this year's amateur, and that number has been cut down to 177 through pre-qualifying. There will be further reductions after 36 holes on Thursday and 72 holes on Friday. Match play will be Saturday and Sunday, with the championship clash set for Sunday afternoon before a crowd that the WGA thinks could reach 10,000 fans.

Cubs Post Fourth Straight Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Pete LaCock's two-run homer capped a three-run first inning Monday and powered the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The triumph was the fourth straight for the Cubs, matching their best streak of the season, and ended a three-game Philadelphia win streak. It was only the 14th loss on the road for Phils this season.

Joe Wallis opened the Chicago first against Jim Lonborg, 12-6, with a single, went to third on a double by Bill Madlock and scored on Jerry Morales grounder before LaCock hit his sixth homer.

The Phillies scored their runs in the third off Bill Bonham, 7-9, on singles by Dave Cash and Larry Bowa, a double by Mike Schmidt and an infield out by Greg Luzinski. Chicago added a run in the sixth on doubles by Manny Trillo and George Mitterwald. Joe Coleman replaced Bonham in the seventh and gained his third save of the season.

The first victory is always the toughest in the major leagues, but Rick Sawyer didn't wait long to get his. He did it in his first start.

The 28-year-old rookie realized a dream few attain by winning his first big league start — and doing it in style with a five-hit, 7-0 decision Monday night that helped the San Diego Padres sweep a doubleheader from the Atlanta Braves.

Before Monday night, Sawyer had only pitched a total of nine innings in the major leagues, all with the New York Yankees. Earlier this summer, he had all but given up expectations of having a big league career and was in fact considering early retirement from baseball.

But Sawyer moved from the Yankees' Syracuse farm team to the San Diego roster as the "player to be named later" in a trade with New York involving Gene Locklear.

Before Sawyer's splendid five-hitter, the Padres had beaten the Braves 7-3. In other National League action, the Montreal Expos nipped the New York Mets 5-4; the St. Louis Cardinals stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0; the Cincinnati Reds defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 5-4 in 11 innings.

Pinch-hitter Merv Rettenmund broke a tie with a run-scoring single in a four-run ninth inning as San Diego won the first game. Reliever Butch Metzger benefited from the rally, recording his ninth victory without a loss.

Johnny Grubb belted two home runs and drove in four runs to ease Sawyer's victory in the nightcap.

Jose Morales, the National League's leading pinch-hitter, delivered a three-run pinch homer in the top of the ninth inning to give Montreal a tense victory over New York before a Jacket Night sellout crowd of 35,523 at Shea Stadium.

Morales, who has 14 pinch hits this season, batted against Skip Lockwood after Tim Lincecum and Jerry White had singled to put runners on first and second. Morales then drove an 0-2 pitch over the left field fence at the 371-foot mark for his fourth homer of the season.

Pete Falcone shut out Pittsburgh on four hits and helped his effort by driving home a run as St. Louis defeated the Pirates. A three-run seventh-inning burst wrapped up the victory for St. Louis.

Johnny Bench sent Cincinnati ahead with a run-scoring single in a four-run eighth inning and the Reds rolled past San Francisco. Bench's hit was one of six singles in the rally which began off Giants' starter John D'Aquisto, 3-6.

Dusty Baker slugged a home run with two out in the 11th inning to give Los Angeles a comeback victory over Houston. The home run was Baker's third this season, coming off loser Gene Pentz, 3-2.

NY Hurler Stars Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Doyle Alexander flirted with a no-hitter for the fourth time in six weeks Monday night, pitching the New York Yankees to a 1-0 victory over Detroit and retiring the first 20 batters before Rusty Staub singled cleanly for the first of the Tigers' two hits.

Pinch-hitter Alex Johnson slapped a single to right leading off the ninth for Detroit's other hit. But Dan Meyer, another pinch hitter, became Alexander's fifth strikeout victim and Ron LeFlore grounded into a game-ending double play as Alexander faced only 28 batters, one over the limit.

It was the third consecutive outing in which Alexander, 6-7, didn't allow a hit until the late innings. On July 23, he pitched eight hitless innings and finished with a three-hitter in beating Boston. Last Wednesday, he went 5-2-3 innings against Baltimore before yielding a hit in a game he eventually lost.

The 25-year-old right-hander had to be sharp this time in outdueling Dave Roberts, 10-11, who allowed only five hits.

After Roberts retired the first seven batters, five of them on ground balls, the Yankees got their run on Sandy Alomar's ground-rule double down the third base line, an infield out, which moved him to third and Mickey Rivers' infield hit.

Detroit shortstop Tom Verzerfeldt fielded Rivers' bouncer while moving towards second base but his hurried throw was in the dirt and first baseman Jason Thompson failed to scoop it up cleanly.

Alexander was helped three times by sparking outfield catches before Staub ended the no-hit bid. Right fielder Lou Pinella made a running grab of a line drive by Aurelio Rodriguez in the third inning, left fielder Roy White made a tumbling knee-high catch of Thompson's liner in the fifth, and Pinella hit the right field wall as he caught LeFlore's fly ball in the ninth.

The Oakland A's are in something of an unaccustomed position, sitting in third place and looking up at the American League's West Division leaders. They are even more unaccustomed to looking up at the Minnesota Twins, who aren't all that accustomed to being in second place, themselves.

The Twins hadn't won seven games in a row since 1970 — now they've won eight in a row and 13 of 15, including the last five against the A's. You remember the A's, the team that won three straight World Series until their string was broken by Boston last season.

This year, some harsh facts are beginning to present themselves to Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner.

"We just have to play better," he said Monday night after the upstart Twins got a seven-hit shutout from Steve Luebber for a 5-0 triumph. "We have to play about .675 baseball now and we can't afford to lose to Kansas City. Before this series, we could do things for ourselves. But now the other clubs have to beat them, too."

And suddenly, the Twins are one of those other clubs to beat. There's a three-game series starting in Kansas City tonight, and it's a good bet that the A's will be playing the scoreboard game while the top two teams in the AL West start carving out a pennant race.

In the other AL games Monday night, Milwaukee topped Baltimore 7-1, and Boston trimmed Cleveland 3-1.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in a pair of runs and Rick Wise pitched a five-hitter to pick up his second victory over the Indians in five days and his eighth complete game of the season.

Von Joshua capped a two-run sixth inning with an RBI single, then highlighted a four-run seventh with another run-producing hit as Milwaukee cruised past Baltimore on an eight-hitter by Jim Colborn.

The triumph was the fifth in a row by the Brewers over the Orioles.

Number Of Hunters Increasing

The number of Michigan hunters is increasing faster than the state's population, and their financial contributions to wildlife restoration work has risen proportionately, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

Similar increases have also been reported nationally.

Lawrence A. Ryel, who heads the DNR's office of surveys and statistics, says the state's estimated one million hunters have expanded their ranks by nearly 10.3 per cent since 1970, while Michigan's population rose only 4.5 per cent during the same period.

He notes that the greatest changes are found among those who hunt deer with a gun, whose numbers increased by nearly 15 per cent from 1970 to 1975, while the state's population was only about six per cent more after the five-year period.

Ryel says the 742,000 hunters who bought firearm deer licenses last season represented

20 times the number who purchased licenses in 1920. In the same 55-year time period, the U.S. population has increased about two and one-half times.

Nationally, the Wildlife

Management Institute estimates that almost 16 million Americans hunted in 1975, over 200,000 more than in 1974. The Institute also reports that hunters comprised 7.7 per cent of the total U.S. population in 1960, 7.8 per cent in 1970, and 7.7 per cent in 1975.

"It seems that many people generally agree that a spin-off of the recent ecology movement has been an increase in anti-hunting sentiment," states Ryel. "To date, however, I cannot detect a tailing off in the participation in hunting. Using deer hunting as an example, the 1970 census of Michigan was up 12.2 per cent from 1960, but the 1970 deer hunters were up 40.5 per cent from 1960.

"Using the 1970 census figures as a base, we also find that a good eight per cent of the total Michigan population hunts deer with a gun, which is higher than the national average," adds Ryel. "If we look only at those 15 years of age and older (youths must be 14 to buy a license), the percentage jumps to almost 10 per cent."

Ryel estimates that one out of every four males in Michigan between age 25 and 44 makes deer hunting part of their annual outdoor activities, although only four per cent of the 1975 deer hunters were women. And, regionally, over half of the males age 15 or older living in the northern two-thirds of the state hunt deer, compared to only 16 per cent in the southern one-third of the state.

Michigan's estimated 1975 population is 8.3 million, compared to about 8.8 million in 1970 and 7.8 million in 1960.

Michigan hunters and trappers paid $11.23 million for state hunting licenses in 1975, nearly a 10 per cent increase over 1974, says Ryel. Nationally, hunters paid almost $155 million for state hunting licenses in 1975, which is $12 million more than the previous year.

In addition, the Wildlife Management Institute reports that hunters paid over $51 million in manufacturer's excise taxes on sporting arms and ammunition last year — funds which are earmarked for wildlife restoration work.

Sportsmen paid $11.9 million in excise taxes on handguns and archery equipment during 1975, of which 70 per cent was allocated to the states for wildlife purposes and hunting safety and education programs.

Sportsmen also purchased $11 million worth of federal duck stamps in 1975, which is later spent on acquisition of wetlands for wildlife.

Since 1923, hunters have contributed more than $3 billion to wildlife restoration over and above what they provide in taxes as members of the general public, according to the Institute.

Fishing Report

Lake Michigan trollers are finding salmon and trout in deep waters. Many are running lures 50 to 80 feet deep over 90 to 170 feet of water.

Good catches of perch continue when weather conditions are right. Two of the better spots have been over the rocks south of South Haven and south of the Cook Nuclear Plant at Bridgman.

On inland lakes, the best bluegill fishing has been in the early morning and late evening hours. Most anglers are fishing deep and using crickets, catpaws and red worms as bait. One of the better lakes has been Baseline Lake in Allegan county.

Bass success has generally been slow, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Deep water lures seem to work best, with Big Lake in Allegan county one of the better spots.

Some catfish catches have been noted on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam.

Rough Fish Menu Tasty?

The reputation of some rough fish — carp, sucker, alewife and burbot — may eventually improve enough to be part of a smorgasbord.

Michigan State University fisheries and wildlife specialists are looking at these species as part of low-cost, low-fat, high-protein dishes for family meals. In fact, they are in the process of publishing a booklet which tells how to prepare them.

"Rough fish, long disdained by fishermen, merely suffer from an image problem. They can be made very tasty, are good nutritionally and are abundant," says Dr. Niles R. Kevern, MSU fisheries and wildlife department chairman.

The booklet, "Recipes for Underutilized Fish," (E-932) will soon be available at all Extension offices. "It tells how to prepare these fish to get rid of the 'muddy' flavors that have long given some of them a bad name. It also tells how to smoke fish, can them, and provides a variety of recipes for stuffings and sauces," Kevern says.

The booklet recipes were originally developed by MSU specialists during World War II when there was a need for good, alternate sources of protein. "Now, we've modernized the recipes and reprinted them with financial assistance from the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission and the Michigan Sea Grant Program. With our interest in keeping saturated fats at low levels in our diets, the food costs down without sacrificing good protein, these recipes should be very popular with today's cooks," Kevern says.

Texan Joe Hager Medalist At Hills

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Joe Hager has been around golf all of his life.

And Monday it finally paid off. Hager carded a brilliant even-par 71 at Lake Michigan Golf Hills to take medalist honors in pre-qualifying competition for the Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Hager, a Dallas, Tex., native arrived at the course just five minutes before his tee time, but it didn't seem to matter. The former Southern Methodist golfer collected four birdies and only a miserable three-hole stretch kept him from bettering par.

"I wanted to play well," Hager said. "But my goal was really just to qualify. I qualified for the tournament three years ago, but missed the cut. This year I think I've grown up a little bit and hope to do better."

Hager edged Roger Null of Cedar Rapids, Iowa by one stroke and Dave Edwards of Edmond, Okla. by two to take top honors.

A brisk wind, which reached up to 20 miles an hour by the afternoon, caused most of the players problems. But Hager didn't let it bother him.

"The wind helped me probably more than it hurt," he said. "Some of the holes which would've normally played long, played short. The wind didn't effect my putting, either, and that was the big thing. If you can stand up over a putt and not have the wind effect your balance, it's okay."

"I think the thing that made the course play so hard was the pin placement," he added.

Hager comes from a golfing family. His mother, Florine, teaches golf in Dallas while his father, Kermit, is a club professional. His sister Nancy was a member of the Curtis Cup team in 1970.

"I've been around golf all my life," Hager explained. "I used to play a lot of sports like basketball, football, track and swimming. Then when I went into ninth grade I decided to take golf seriously and dropped everything else."

Hager had just one bad stretch. Starting at the 17th hole and ending at No. 1, he went bogey, double bogey and bogey. The double bogey at the par-four, 342-yard 18th resulted when Hager three-putted from four feet. But he finished strong, playing the final eight holes one-under-par.

Null, a 32-year-old golf course superintendent, made his first trip to qualify a successful one. A friend, Bill Bergman, talked Null into joining him for the qualifying. The two played a pair of practice rounds Sunday and Null called them "instrumental" in his strong showing.

Sadly Null's friend Bergman was able to shoot just an 83 and did not qualify.

Edwards, who will be a junior this fall at Oklahoma State, tried to qualify two years ago and failed. Last year he was, exempt after making the quarterfinals of the Trans-Mississippi tournament.

Edwards also comes from a strong golfing background. His brother, Dan, is a tour professional, finishing 80th on last year's PGA money list.

He credits much of his success to his brother.

"My brother was the main reason I picked it up," Edwards said. "He taught me a lot. He helped me with the fundamentals like the mechanics of a good golf swing. He's played in all these amateur tournaments so I know that a lot of the courses are like and what to expect."

Twenty-six golfers qualified for the beginning of the Western Amateur on Wednesday at Point O'Woods. A playoff was held among 10 golfers who finished with 77s for the five alternate spots.

Mark Burden of Clinton, Ia. gained a spot with a birdie on the first hole, while Lester Hayashi of San Diego, Calif. parred the hole for his berth.

Lawrence Hicks of Greensboro, N. C., Arthur Nash of Kent, Ohio and Reed Mackenzie of Chaska, Minn. birdied the third playoff hole for their alternate spots.

The only area golfer, St. Joseph's John Gersonde, carded an 83 and failed to qualify.

DANA SAAD

'Young Lion' Saad Tops At Hampshire

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

DOWAGIAC — The young lions invaded Hampshire Golf Course Monday and by the looks of the scores, the battle was just about a draw.

Dana Saad of Portsmouth, N.H. shot a two-under par 70 to capture medalist honors in the pre-qualifying competition for the Western Amateur which gets underway at the Point O'Woods on Wednesday.

Only four golfers broke par on the 7,020-yard, par 72 course. But it took a 75 to nail down one of the 24 spots that qualified for the Amateur.

Most of the elite group are just out of high school or in their beginning years of college. The oldest man to qualify was Mike LaLaeff who is 33. But of the 24 and one alternate, only three men are over 30 and the average age of the group is a mere 22.5 years.

This is the first time in the Western Am for Saad but he is no stranger to amateur competition. The 20-year old who plays for the University of South Florida finished second in the New England Amateur two weeks ago at the Portland Country Club in Portland, Maine.

Saad has also played in the New Hampshire and Vermont amateur's and when he was in high school, won the Maine Prep School title twice while playing for Berwick Academy of South Berwick, Maine.

QUALIFIERS
Dana Saad	37-33 - 70
Tom Lamore	35-36 - 71
Judd Silverman	35-36 - 71
Mike Gray	35-36 - 71
James Monaghan	37-35 - 72
Don Doctor	36-36 - 72
Rick Bahr	36-36 - 72
Craig Carlson	36-37 - 73
Stan Gebro	38-35 - 73
John Hoffman	38-35 - 73
Doug LaCrosse	39-35 - 74
Greg Farris	38-36 - 74
Rex Bahr	38-36 - 74
Bob Michael	37-37 - 74
Joey Sindler	36-38 - 74
Greg Staff	38-37 - 75
Marv Blemlev	37-38 - 75
Roger Armstrong	38-37 - 75
Jim Ankenbrandt	39-36 - 75
Mike LaLaeff	37-38 - 75
Andy Soley	37-38 - 75
Dick Nordlund	37-38 - 75
Len Luken	37-38 - 75
ALTERNATE
Tom Stevens	37-39 - 76

His first nine was the back side as he started off on the 10th hole and he literally tore it up, shooting a five fine three-under par 33. But it was the front nine that gave him problems.

Saad double-bogeyed the fourth hole and went on to shoot a 37, one-over par. "I played good on the back nine so the bad hole didn't bother me that much," Saad indicated. "I just hit the ball real well today."

"I like to get off to a good start and cruise on in, too," he added.

His round included five birdies and none were of the long putt types. "I hit 37 shots to the greens and 33 putts," he said.

The business administration major has never come this far west to play in a tourney before. "But I've played so well this year, I decided to get into a national tournament," he said.

One of Saad's new roommates for the week, Tom Lamore of Novato, Cal., also made the cut. Both golfers are staying with the Bruce Laing's in Benton Harbor while playing in the Western Am.

verman of Toledo, Ohio and Mike Gray from Rushville, Ind. at one-under par 71.

This is the first Western Amateur for Lamore who plays for the University of Houston's second team. The junior has had a tough time cracking the starting group with the likes of Keith Fergus anchoring the team.

Coming in at even par 72 were James Monaghan from West Bloomfield, Don Doctor of Buffalo, N. Y. and Rick Borg, Worthington, Ohio. Monaghan was the state Class A medalist in 1975 while playing for Brother Rice in Detroit.

Doctor was the medalist in the pre-qualifying at Hampshire in 1974, shooting a 66. He ended up with a 296 total that year and missed the Sweet Sixteen cut by just two strokes.

There were only seven area golfers entered at Hampshire and none made the final group. David Heyn of Bridgman and Lawton's Bull Keim tied for low area honors with 77s.

Tom Weiskopf's younger brother, Dan, also failed to make the cut. A favorite of the spectators, Dan came in with an 85 in the afternoon session.

SHROUDS ACTIVITIES IN SECRECY

Ralph Nader One-Man Conglomerate

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Ralph Nader is a one-man conglomerate. Like the government agencies and huge corporations he criticizes, Nader wields enormous influence on American life through a maze of interlocking organizations.

He does not always practice what he preaches. The same man who urges openness in government and business, defends secrecy in his own operation.

The organizations directly linked to Nader are small: less than a dozen groups with about 100 employees and an annual budget probably under $2 million.

of the Center for Auto Safety — one of those technically independent groups with which Nader worked closely — described the various units as "organizations on the end of the arms of a ferris wheel with Nader at the center."

David Sanford, author of a book critical of Nader, says Nader's organization "has become so large and diverse and bureaucratic that it resembles the divisions of General Motors."

Nonsense, said Nader. "The whole list (of organizations) is smaller than many Chevrolet dealerships."

The Nader groups lack many of the trappings of bureaucracy. There are no organization tables, no structural hierarchy.

The Nader operation "was a series of many personal relationships," recalls John Esposito, a lawyer who worked at the center in its earliest days. "There were occasional attempts to be more efficient. It just didn't happen very much," he said.

The best way to try to trace Nader's organization is to start at the beginning.

Nader gained public attention just over a decade ago, with "Unsafe at Any Speed," a critical of General Motors' Corvair. The impact was magnified by the disclosure that GM hired a private detective to investigate his personal life to try to discredit his charges.

The first Nader organization was the Center for Study of Responsive Law, set up in 1969 as a tax-exempt group, funded by foundations. Its purpose, Nader said, was "to conduct research into violations of the public interest by business and governmental groups."

The center has an annual budget of $250,000 to $300,000, Nader said. A big part of its current money comes from a three-year, $317,000 Carnegie Foundation grant which expires at the end of 1976.

With the help of summer interns known as Nader's Raiders, the center was responsible for a series of reports about government and industry, including "The Chemical Feast," "The Interstate Commerce Omission," "Vanishing Air" and "The Closed Enterprise System."

In 1972, the Freedom of Information Clearinghouse was organized as part of the center to help win release of government-held documents under the Freedom of Information Act.

The importance of the center has waned as Nader shifted his focus from research to action. It remains his base of operations, however, and Nader has his offices in the center.

The Center for Study of Responsive Law is not listed in the telephone book, although you can get the number from information.

Staff members say listing the address would result in a deluge of visitors. The policy is nothing new. Esposito, who left Nader in 1971 and is now counsel to the New York State Consumer Protection Board, said that even in the early days of the center, "People had the idea that Ralph was some sort of public utility that everyone could tap into ... We didn't want people wandering in with complaints."

The major Nader operation today is Public Citizen, Inc., a fund-raising umbrella group established in 1971. Unlike the center, Public Citizen is not tax exempt and therefore is allowed to lobby.

The tax filings of Public Citizen — how much money is

Citizen Action Group: $109,751. The organizing arm of the Nader organization. The group helps set up student-supported Public Interest Research Groups. Once es-

Grants totaling $38,500 also went to the Aviation Consumer Action Project and the Retired Professionals Action Group, working for the rights of senior citizens. The retired professionals recently merged with the Gray Panthers and is no longer directly linked to Nader. Nader said he personally formation with enemies," he added.

Among other groups linked with Nader either directly or indirectly:

—Center for Auto Safety: "That's not our group," said Nader, adding that he simply "suggested to Consumers Union that they fund an auto safety unit." Consumers Union paid the salary of the director through a fellowship, but cut back in recent years and most of the funding now comes from foundations such as State Farm and Allstate. Former center director Dodge said Nader never had any official connection, but "it was the understanding that the center would work with Nader ... he was influential."

—Professional Drivers: The group is comprised of Teamsters Union members and has been critical of the union leadership. Nader says the group is independent. The head of the organization, Arthur Fox, also works for the Litigation Group, however.

—Center for Science in the raised and what it is spent on — are a matter of public record. The names of contributors are not. Nader said he does not disclose the names "because we don't want them (contributors) exploited commercially or harassed. Beyond what the law requires us to do, we have the right to protect our contributors."

Public Citizen supports six Nader groups: the Litigation Group, the Health Research Group, the Citizen Action Group, the Tax Reform Research Group, Congress Watch and the Public Citizen Visitors Center. Public Citizen also makes contributions to some technically independent groups such as the Aviation Consumer Action Project.

The relationship between Nader and the aviation project illustrates the difficulty of trying to pinpoint the structure of the Nader organization.

Nader describes the project as "an independent educational group." At the same time, he says, it gets 80 per cent of its funds from Public Citizen. When Nader was bumped from a 1972 Allegheny Airlines flight because of overbooking, the Aviation Project — represented in court by Nader's Litigation Group — successfully took up his cause. Nader ultimately was awarded $25,000 in damages, and the Supreme Court ruled that a passenger who is bumped can sue for damage in the federal courts.

In 1974, the latest year for which complete figures are available, Public Citizen raised a little more than $1.1 million, up slightly from the year before. The cost of direct mail appeals to raise the money was $338,430. Administrative expenses for the staff of Public Citizen itself were $48,229. The amount raised in 1973, said Nader, was just about the same "give or take 4 or 5 per cent either way." Nader said the final report was not complete because the group's accountant was on vacation.

Here is a look at the six groups and their 1974 budgets. (The major change from 1974 to 1975 was an increase of about 50 per cent in the amount received by the Litigation group, Nader said.)

Litigation Group: $129,828. The legal arm of Nader's operation. Headed by Alan Morrison, it has seven full-time and two part-time lawyers. The group has been a party in over 100 cases involving anticompetitive industry practices, health and safety issues and government accountability. Morrison reports to Nader once a month with a formal summary of what the group is doing.

Health Research Group: $136,596. Focuses on health care, food and drug safety and occupational health and safety. Headed by Dr. Sidney Wolfe, the group has a staff of nine, including three attorneys. It has studied issues ranging from Red Dye No. 2 to black lung disease.

Congress Watch: $126,824. Nader's lobbying arm. The group is headed by Joan Claybrook and provides congressmen with research, technical analyses and legislative drafting services. It has lobbied for establishment of an independent consumer protection agency — still pending in Congress — for creation of a federal bank to loan money to consumer cooperatives.

Tax Reform Research Group: $72,374. The group works to reform the tax laws and its lobbying in the House Ways and Means Committee last year was credited with being instrumental in elimination of oil depletion allowances. It also publishes a newsletter, "People and Taxes" and puts out "consciousness-raising reports." Among recent studies was a survey of property tax assessments in 67 cities.

Public Citizen Visitors Center: $30,102. The center arranges guided tours of Washington at $2 per person including visits to legislators' offices, committee hearings and the House and Senate chambers. It publishes published, these groups are technically independent, but the PIRGs are the closest thing to a broad-based, Nader-oriented network. The Capitol Hill News Service, providing regional coverage of Washington, received $112,731 from Public Citizen in 1974, but that group became independent at the start of this year. It received what Nader called "a kind of good luck grant" of about $25,000 in 1975.

The power company's job is to help you with your job.

All of our jobs, as well as the basic quality of our lives, depend, in part, on a stable supply of electric power.

But the price of electricity has been going up. And a lot of people are worrying about the possibility of shortages in a few years.

These are serious problems. Not just for you. For all of us.

Because without electricity, machines stop. Work stops. Paychecks stop. The economy suffers. And progress stops.

So, how do we deal with this? By working together.

At the power company, we're continuing to expand our search for economical fuel sources. Planning for new facilities that will be needed in the future. And, we're continuing our efforts to hold our operating costs in line so we can efficiently provide the electricity that helps all of us get our jobs done. How can you help? By using electricity wisely. On the job. And at home, too.

You can also help by understanding and sharing the joint responsibility we have in assuring our electric supply.

And working together offers the best chance for all of us to get the job done.

Number Of Hunters Increasing

The number of Michigan hunters is increasing faster than the state's population, and their financial contributions to wildlife restoration work has risen proportionately, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

Similar increases have also been reported nationally.

Lawrence A. Ryel, who heads the DNR's office of surveys and statistics, says the state's estimated one million hunters have expanded their ranks by nearly 10.3 per cent since 1970, while Michigan's population rose only 4.5 per cent during the same period.

He notes that the greatest changes are found among those who hunt deer with a gun, whose numbers increased by nearly 15 per cent from 1970 to 1975, while the state's population was only about six per cent more after the five-year period.

Ryel says the 742,000 hunters who bought firearm deer licenses last season represented

20 times the number who purchased licenses in 1920. In the same 55-year time period, the U.S. population has increased about two and one-half times.

Nationally, the Wildlife

Management Institute estimates that almost 16 million Americans hunted in 1975, over 200,000 more than in 1974. The Institute also reports that hunters comprised 7.7 per cent of the total U.S. population in 1960, 7.6 per cent in 1970, and 7.7 per cent in 1975.

"It seems that many people generally agree that a spin-off of the recent ecology movement has been an increase in anti-hunting sentiment," states Ryel. "To date, however, I cannot detect a tailing off in the participation in hunting. Using deer hunting as an example, the 1970 census of Michigan was up 12.2 per cent from 1960, but the 1970 deer hunters were up 40.5 per cent from 1960.

"Using the 1970 census figures as a base, we also find that a good eight per cent of the total Michigan population hunts deer with a gun, which is higher than the national average," adds Ryel. "If we look only at those 15 years of age and older (youths must be 14 to buy a license), the percentage jumps to almost 10 per cent."

Ryel estimates that one out of every four males in Michigan between age 25 and 44 makes deer hunting part of their annual outdoor activities, although only four per cent of the 1975 deer hunters were women. And, regionally, over half of the males age 15 or older living in the northern two-thirds of the state hunt deer, compared to only 16 per cent in the southern one-third of the state.

Michigan's estimated 1975 population is 9.3 million, compared to about 8.8 million in 1970 and 7.8 million in 1960.

Michigan hunters and trappers paid $11.23 million for state hunting licenses in 1975, nearly a 10 per cent increase over 1974, says Ryel. Nationally, hunters paid almost $155 million for state hunting licenses in 1975, which is $12 million more than the previous year.

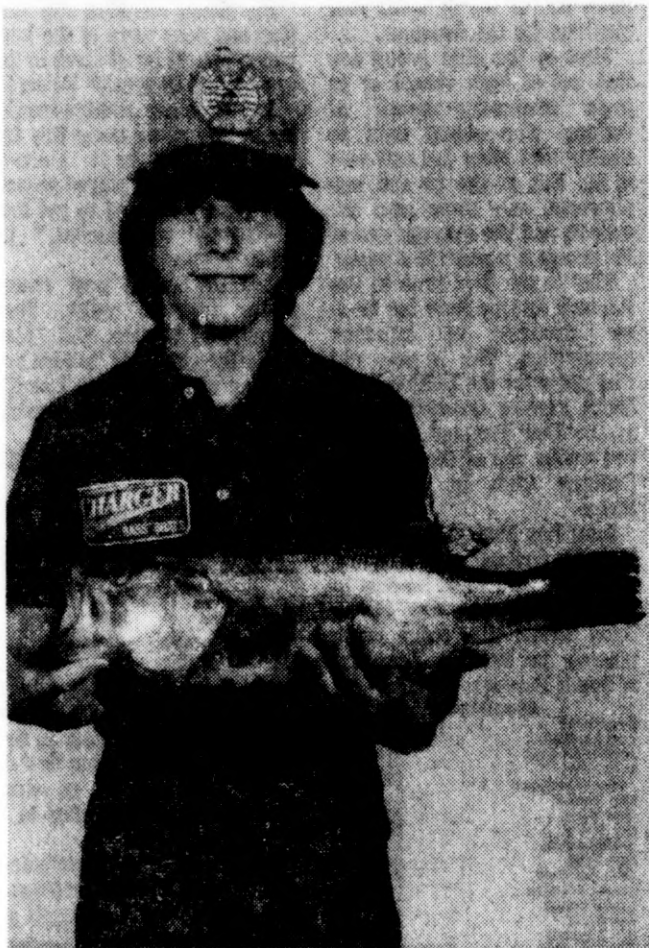

In addition, the Wildlife Management Institute reports that hunters paid over $51 million in manufacturer's excise taxes on sporting arms and ammunition last year — funds which are earmarked for wildlife restoration work.

Sportsmen paid $11.9 million in excise taxes on handguns and archery equipment during 1975, of which 70 per cent was allocated to the states for wildlife purposes and hunting safety and education programs.

Sportsmen also purchased $11 million worth of federal duck stamps in 1975, which is later spent on acquisition of wetlands for wildlife.

Since 1923, hunters have contributed more than $3 billion to wildlife restoration over and above what they provide in taxes as members of the general public, according to the Institute.

Fishing Report

Lake Michigan trollers are finding salmon and trout in deep waters. Many are running lures 50 to 80 feet deep over 90 to 170 feet of water.

Good catches of perch continue when weather conditions are right. Two of the better spots have been over the rocks south of South Haven and south of the Cook Nuclear Plant at Bridgman.

On inland lakes, the best bluegill fishing has been in the early morning and late evening hours. Most anglers are fishing deep and using crickets, catalpas and red worms as bait. One of the better lakes has been Baseline Lake in Allegan county.

Bass success has generally been slow, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Deep water lures seem to work best, with Big Lake in Allegan county one of the better spots.

Some catfish catches have been noted on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam.

Rough Fish Menu Tasty?

The reputation of some rough fish — carp, sucker, alewife and burbot — may eventually improve enough to be part of a smorgasbord.

Michigan State University fisheries and wildlife specialists are looking at these species as part of low-cost, low-fat, high-protein dishes for family meals. In fact, they are in the process of publishing a booklet which tells how to prepare them.

"Rough fish, long disdained by fishermen, merely suffer from an image problem. They can be made very tasty, are good nutritionally and are abundant," says Dr. Niles R. Kevern, MSU fisheries and wildlife department chairman.

The booklet, "Recipes for Underutilized Fish," (E-932) will soon be available at all Extension offices. "It tells how to prepare these fish to get rid of the 'muddy' flavors that have long given some of them a bad name. It also tells how to smoke fish, can them, and provides a variety of recipes for stuffings and sauces," Kevern says.

The booklet recipes were originally developed by MSU specialists during World War II when there was a need for good, alternate sources of protein. "Now, we've modernized the recipes and reprinted them with financial assistance from the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission and the Michigan Sea Grant Program. With our interest in keeping saturated fats at low levels in our diets, the food costs down without sacrificing good protein, these recipes should be very popular with today's cooks," Kevern says.

Forest Problems

Even though forest fires are the most spectacular destructive agents in woodlands, more than 90 per cent of forest losses are due to insects and disease.

The 10,000-member National Wild Turkey Federation, which is headquartered in Edgefield, South Carolina, has introduced its first annual wild turkey stamp.

According to the group's executive vice president, Tom Rodgers, the program has been designed to closely rival the federal duck stamp in both investment and fund-raising potential. All proceeds will go toward education and restoration, protection and purchase of wild turkey habitat. A land purchase trust fund will be established this month.

The $3 stamp features the Florida wild turkey, Osceola. In addition to the limited stamp sale (50,000 printed), a number of prints of the stamp, done by Florida wildlife artist Russ Smiley, are available ($63 unframed and $110 framed).

Orders, which are tax-deductible, should be directed to: Wild Turkey Stamp, P.O. Box 467, Edgefield, S.C. 29824.

A new statewide organization, called the Michigan Association of Recreational Snowmobilers (MARS), has been formed to promote interests of recreational snowmobilers throughout Michigan, according to Roger A. Matthews of Grand Rapids, charter president of MARS.

The major purpose of MARS, says Matthews, is to work with local snowmobile clubs on a statewide basis and to develop more groomed snowmobile trails through legislation.

MARS also will offer training in club administration for local club officers, offer special insurance rates to recreational snowmobilers, set up safety inspection programs for machines and help club members organize recreational and safety programs.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is considering ways to keep salmon from wandering all over the Great Lakes.

If successful, they will keep the fish closer to home and out of the nets of Canadian commercial fishermen and off the hooks of sport anglers in other states.

"We're studying ways to discourage these migrations," notes DNR director Dr. Howard A. Tanner. "These include better imprinting of the smolts with the streams they should return to, experiments with different strains of salmon which may be less likely to migrate and deliberate disorientation of the released smolts."

The last idea, already being used with some success in western states, involves holding smolts in hatcheries well past the usual spring release time.

"When this is done," says Tanner, "the salmon seem to be disoriented. They move down the release stream to the big water normally, but then they spend all of their adult life near the mouth of the release stream, especially if there is a big bay handy. They stage their spawning run normally when they reach adulthood."

Prison Sentence Is Third Handed To Indiana Man

Sentenced to 3 to 5 years by Judge William S. White was Michael A. Parritt, 22, of Bremen, Ind., for attempted breaking and entering. He was charged with attempting to break into the home of Victor

Parritt in 1972 was sentenced to 2 to 4 years in prison for larceny in a building, and in 1974 got a 16 to 24-month sentence for resisting arrest. Parritt served 10 months of that sentence before the court of appeals overturned the conviction, and the prosecutor's office had the charge dismissed rather than re-trying the case, according to White.

In arraignments before White:

King on Dec. 4 assaulted James Kehr, owner of Kehr gun shop in Niles township, with a sawed-off shotgun.

Oliver Haroy, 24, of Kankakee, Ill., pleaded innocent to a charge of armed robbery. He is accused of robbing Marshall Pebler of $1,256 with an afro comb July 6 at the Burger King restaurant on M-139 in Benton township.

William Binkley, 33, and Janie Binkley, 31, both of Bangor, both stood mute, and had innocent pleas entered, to charges of conspiracy to commit false pretenses over $100. They are charged with intending to defraud Auto Owners Insurance Co. by claiming a motorcycle was stolen July 10 in Watervliet township.

Richard A. Cobb, 17, of 2153 Ruth street, Benton township, stood mute, and had an innocent plea entered, to a charge of delivery of heroin Sept. 22 in Benton township.

Calvin Harvey, 19, of Michigan City, pleaded innocent to charges of first and third degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly statutory rape) with a 15-year-old girl June 15 in Benton township.

Gayle E. Jackson, 29, of Cicero, Ill., pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon — a pistol — June 26 in Benton Harbor.

Cable Television Proposal Facing Berrien Springs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A proposal seeking a cable television franchise here was introduced to the Berrien Springs village council last night.

Todd Borst, president of TAB Inc., presented the proposal on behalf of his Kalamazoo-based firm. At Borst's request, the council agreed to study the proposal and meet with the firm at a later unspecified date for further discussion.

Under the proposal, drawn up in the form of a suggested city ordinance, the village would receive $1 for every hook-up and $1 per year for each customer of the service thereafter.

Borst said his firm would charge a maximum installation fee of $20; and then $8 per month for the first TV outlet; $2 per month for each additional TV outlet; $2 per month for an optional FM radio outlet, and $1 to $8 per month for a "home box office" service offering 3 current movies per month.

If approved by the Federal Communications commission, Borst said his proposed service would offer 12 television channels to Berrien Springs residents, including one channel available for public service and the school system.

Borst said that if his non-exclusive franchise is approved, construction on the project would begin within the next two years.

In other areas, the council agreed to purchase some 350 feet of St. Joseph river frontage from the Red Hen Turf Farm, New Carlisle, Ind., at a cost of $1,200. The land is located north of the US-31 bridge on the east side of the river, the council said.

The council approved taking the first step toward seeking a newly-available grant from the federal Environmental Protection agency to finance improvements and additions to the village's water and sewage lines. The action approved seeking an application for the first stage of the grant.

Edgar Kesterke, village president, said no decision has been made on what amount of money the village will seek to help finance improvements to sewer and water lines on Fisher Court and Shawnee and Snow roads.

The council approved a resolution, to be sent to the state liquor control commission, saying it had no objection to an application seeking to name Edward Modigall of Berrien Springs as a third partner in the Bar H Restaurant on East Ferry street. Modigall would join current owners Glen and Elsa Helme as partners in the business.

The Klett Construction Co., Hartford, was awarded a contract for the 1978 street improvement program which calls for repaving portions of 15 city streets.

The firm's bid of $23,799 was the lowest of four submitted.

The council voted approval for a beer and wine license application submitted by the owners of the Northside market, 108 Sheldon street. The application must now be approved by the state liquor control commission.

Bridgman Buying $681 Transformer

BRIDGMAN — The Bridgman city commission last night tentatively agreed to buy a transformer for the city's water department from the Murphy Electric Co., Bridgman, for $681.

The firm's bid, lowest of three received, was approved for acceptance providing the unit meets all specifications as determined by Robert Anderson, city water superintendent. Other bids were $1,380 by Mead & White, Bridgman, and $1,495 by Northern Electric Co.

In other areas, the commission approved seeking bids for sewer lines for Pearl and Church streets and instructed Barger Engineering, St. Joseph, to prepare specifications.

The commission approved the city fire department joining a reciprocal aid agreement with other area fire departments.

It was announced that a board of determination hearing will be held Wednesday, Aug. 4, at 10 a.m. with the county drain commissioner to determine the Bedortha drainage district boundaries.

Anderson reported that water usage during July amounted to 16,833,000 gallons, over 2 million more than used in July, 1975.

Last night's meeting was opened with dedication ceremonies of revitalized Weco Beach, which has been undergoing an $11,000 park restoration project.

ASKS ORDER CHANGED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voice concern about potential health hazards, an alliance of consumer groups and Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., have asked the Agriculture Department to rescind its tentative approval of mechanically deboned meat.

Dowagiac To Act On Trash Plan

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac city residents will vote in November on whether to initiate a citywide trash and garbage collection service with a mandatory charge to every household.

The ballot proposal was approved last night by the Dowagiac city council which has been grappling with the question since June.

The mandatory pickup was first proposed for council action by Third Ward Councilman Clarence Self as a remedy to complaints of illegal trash and garbage burning.

Now, city residents will cast advisory ballots on the question during the Nov. 2 general election.

City Manager Henry Graper Jr. said that if approved, the city would seek bids from commercial trash haulers.

Graper has estimated the charge to each household would be about $2.75 a month. He said the exact charge could not be figured until bids were received.

In a related action, the council voted to continue operating under the present burning ordinance which allows trash burning but not garbage burning each evening for two hours.

Second Ward Councilman DeVee Hunsberger said the public will be given a chance to comply with the law which allows burning between the hours of 7 to 9 p.m. from April 1 to Sept. 30 and between 4 to 6 p.m. from Oct. 1 to March 31.

If residents continue to abuse the law, he said the council would have to outlaw burning altogether.

In other areas, the council voted first reading approval to several amendments to the city's pension program. One of the amendments reduces the compulsory retirement age for policemen from 65 to 55.

Graper said the amendments were prepared by the city's pension board to comply with the union contract with the police department. A second vote of approval is necessary before the measures become law.

The Klett Construction Co., Hartford, was awarded a contract for the 1978 street improvement program which calls for repaving portions of 15 city streets.

The firm's bid of $23,799 was the lowest of four submitted.

The council voted approval for a beer and wine license application submitted by the owners of the Northside market, 108 Sheldon street. The application must now be approved by the state liquor control commission.

SHROUDS ACTIVITIES IN SECRECY

Ralph Nader One-Man Conglomerate

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Ralph Nader is a one-man conglomerate.

Like the government agencies and huge corporations he criticizes, Nader wields enormous influence on American life through a maze of interlocking organizations.

He does not always practice what he preaches. The same man who urges openness in government and business, defends secrecy in his own operation.

The organizations directly linked to Nader are small: less than a dozen groups with about 100 employees and an annual budget probably under $2 million.

Nader's indirect influence is difficult to measure. Groups

tor of the Center for Auto Safety — one of those technically independent groups with which Nader worked closely — described the various units as "organizations on the end of the arms of a ferris wheel with Nader at the center."

David Sanford, author of a book critical of Nader, says Nader's organization "has become so large and diverse and bureaucratic that it resembles the divisions of General Motors."

Nonsense, said Nader. "The whole list (of organizations) is smaller than many Chevrolet dealerships."

(Nader is right — in dollars and cents terms, at least, since the National Automobile Dealers Association estimated that the average Chevrolet dealership had gross sales of about $3.1 million in 1975.)

The Nader groups lack many of the trappings of bureaucracy. There are no organization tables, no structural hierarchy.

The Nader operation "was a series of many personal relationships," recalls John Esposito, a lawyer who worked at the center in its earliest days. "There were occasional attempts to be more efficient. It just didn't happen very much," he said.

The best way to try to trace Nader's organization is to start at the beginning.

Nader gained public attention just over a decade ago, with "Unsafe at Any Speed," critical of General Motors' Corvair. The impact was magnified by the disclosure that GM hired a private detective to investigate his personal life to try to discredit his charges.

(Nader sued GM for invasion of privacy and the eventual settlement of the suit provided some of the money to finance later campaigns.)

The first Nader organization was the Center for Study of Responsive Law, set up in 1969 as a tax-exempt group, funded by foundations. Its purpose, Nader said, was "to conduct research into violations of the public interest by business and governmental groups."

The center has an annual budget of $250,000 to $300,000, Nader said. A big part of its current money comes from a three-year, $317,000 Carnegie Foundation grant which expires at the end of 1976.

With the help of summer interns known as Nader's Raiders, the center was responsible for a series of reports about government and industry, including "The Chemical Feast," "The Interstate Commerce Omission," "Vanishing Air" and "The Closed Enterprise System."

In 1972, the Freedom of Information Clearinghouse was organized as part of the center to help win release of government-held documents under the Freedom of Information Act.

The importance of the center has waned as Nader shifted his focus from research to action. It remains his base of operations, however, and Nader has his offices in the center.

The Center for Study of Responsive Law is not listed in the telephone book, although you can get the number from information.

Staff members say listing the address would result in a deluge of visitors. The policy is nothing new. Esposito, who left Nader in 1971 and is now counsel to the New York State Consumer Protection Board, said that even in the early days of the center, "People had the idea that Ralph was some sort of public utility that everyone could tap into ... We didn't want people wandering in with complaints."

The major Nader operation today is Public Citizen, Inc., a fund-raising umbrella group established in 1971. Unlike the center, Public Citizen is not tax exempt and therefore is allowed to lobby.

The tax filings of Public Citizen — how much money is raised and what it is spent on — are a matter of public record. The names of contributors are not. Nader said he does not disclose the names "because we don't want them (contributors) exploited commercially or harassed. Beyond what the law requires us to do, we have the right to protect our contributors."

Public Citizen supports six Nader groups: the Litigation Group, the Health Research Group, the Citizen Action Group, the Tax Reform Research Group, Congress Watch and the Public Citizen Visitors Center. Public Citizen also makes contributions to some technically independent groups such as the Aviation Consumer Action Project.

The relationship between Nader and the aviation project illustrates the difficulty of trying to pinpoint the structure of the Nader organization.

Nader describes the project as "an independent educational group." At the same time, he says, it gets 80 per cent of its funds from Public Citizen. When Nader was bumped from a 1972 Allegheny Airlines flight because of overbooking, the Aviation Project — represented in court by Nader's Litigation Group — successfully took up his cause. Nader ultimately was awarded $25,000 in damages and the Supreme Court ruled that a passenger who is bumped can sue for damage in the federal courts.

In 1974, the latest year for which complete figures are available, Public Citizen raised a little more than $1.1 million, up slightly from the year before. The cost of direct mail appeals to raise the money was $338,430. Administrative expenses for the staff of Public Citizen itself were $48,229. The amount raised in 1975, said Nader, was just about the same "give or take 4 or 5 per cent either way." Nader said the final report was not complete because the group's accountant was on vacation.

Here is a look at the six groups and their 1974 budgets. (The major change from 1974 to 1975 was an increase of about 50 per cent in the amount received by the litigation group, Nader said.)

Litigation Group: $129,828. The legal arm of Nader's operation. Headed by Alan Morrison, it has seven full-time and two part-time lawyers. The group has been a party in over 100 cases involving anticompetitive industry practices, health and safety issues and government accountability. Morrison reports to Nader once a month with a formal summary of what the group is doing.

Health Research Group: $136,596. Focuses on health care, food and drug safety and occupational health and safety. Headed by Dr. Sidney Wolfe, the group has a staff of nine, including three attorneys. It has studied issues ranging from Red Dye No. 2 to black lung disease.

Congress Watch: $126,824. Nader's lobbying arm. The group is headed by Joan Claybrook and provides congressmen with research, technical analyses and legislative drafting services. It has lobbied for establishment of an independent consumer protection agency — still pending in Congress — for creation of a federal bank to loan money to consumer cooperatives.

Tax Reform Research Group: $72,374. The group works to reform the tax laws and its lobbying in the House Ways and Means Committee last year was credited with being instrumental in elimination of oil depletion allowances. It also publishes a newsletter, "People and Taxes" and puts out "consciousness-raising reports." Among recent studies was a survey of property tax assessments in 67 cities.

Public Citizen Visitors Center: $30,102. The center arranges guided tours of Washington at $2 per person including visits to legislators' offices, committee hearings and the House and Senate chambers. It publishes a bimonthly calendar. "Inside the Capitol," of events including agency and congressional hearings, exhibits, etc.

Citizen Action Group: $109,751. The organizing arm of the Nader organization. The group helps set up student-supported Public Interest Research Groups. Once es-which are technically independent have been founded by former Nader employees. Or they have received funds from Nader organizations. Or they have joined forces with Nader units for specific campaigns.

"We share common goals and ideas," said Nader when asked about his influence on some technically independent groups, including state and local Public Interest Research Groups — PIRGs — comprised mainly of students. (The PIRGs have a membership of over half a million persons and annual revenues of over $1.4 million.)

Pressed for specifics about his influence, if any, Nader avoided a direct answer. "There's nothing ominous about influence," he said, making a distinction between his influence over citizen groups and the influence of a large corporation over a government official.

It is the sort of distinction Nader makes frequently. He draws a line between what he will and will not disclose, both personally and financially. Corporation secrecy becomes Nader's right to privacy.

Nader himself can be hard to reach. He often ignores phone messages, returning calls only when he has a point he wants to get across. Once he knows you, however, he can be charming and responsive.

He sometimes answers criticism by attacking the critic rather than responding to the substance of the charge. He refuses to allow interviews to be tape recorded.

While Nader gives some of his organizations a measure of independence, he remains clearly in charge. His personal eccentricities and life-style — the long hours, the passion for privacy — stamp the output of those who work with him.

your job.

All of our jobs, as well as the basic quality of our lives, depend, in part, on a stable supply of electric power.

But the price of electricity has been going up. And a lot of people are worrying about the possibility of shortages in a few years.

These are serious problems. Not just for you. For all of us.

Because without electricity, machines stop. Work stops. Paychecks stop. The economy suffers. And progress stops.

So, how do we deal with this?

By working together.

At the power company, we're continuing to expand our search for economical fuel sources. Planning for new facilities that will be needed in the future. And, we're continuing our efforts to hold our operating costs in line so we can efficiently provide the electricity that helps all of us get our jobs done.

How can you help? By using electricity wisely. On the job. And at home, too.

You can also help by understanding and sharing the joint responsibility we have in assuring our electric supply.

And working together offers the best chance for all of us to get the job done.

Prison Sentence Is Third Handed To Indiana Man

A 22-year-old Indiana man with two prison terms already on his record was again sentenced to prison yesterday in Berrien Circuit court.

Sentenced to 3 to 5 years by Judge William S. White was Michael A. Parritt, 22, of Bremen, Ind., for attempted breaking and entering. He was charged with attempting to break into the home of Victor

Cuthbert, Jr., at the Ravines Mobile Home park in Benton township on Feb. 16.

Parritt in 1972 was sentenced to 2 to 4 years in prison for larceny in a building, and in 1974 got a 16 to 24-month sentence for resisting arrest. Parritt served 10 months of that sentence before the court of appeals overturned the conviction, and the prosecutor's office had the charge dismissed rather than re-trying the case, according to White.

In arraignments before White:

Ackley King, 24, of 36 Cass street, Niles, pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob while armed, with a charge of armed robbery dismissed on motion of the prosecutor's office.

King on Dec. 4 assaulted James Kehrer, owner of Kehrer gun shop in Niles township, with a sawed-off shotgun.

Oliver Haray, 24, of Kankakee, Ill., pleaded innocent to a charge of armed robbery. He is accused of robbing Marshall Pebler of $1,256 with an afro comb July 6 at the Burger King restaurant on M-139 in Benton township.

William Binkley, 33, and Jane Binkley, 31, both of Bangor, both stood mute, and had innocent pleas entered, to charges of conspiracy to commit false pretenses over $100. They are charged with intending to defraud Auto Owners Insurance Co. by claiming a motorcycle was stolen July 10 in Watervliet township.

Richard A. Cobb, 17, of 2153 Ruth street, Benton township, stood mute, and had an innocent plea entered, to a charge of delivery of heroin Sept. 22 in Benton township.

Calvin Harvey, 19, of Michigan City, pleaded innocent to charges of first and third degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly statutory rape) with a 15-year-old girl June 15 in Benton township.

Gayle E. Jackson, 29, of Cicero, Ill., pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon — a pistol — June 26 in Benton Harbor.

Dowagiac To Act On Trash Plan

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac city residents will vote in November on whether to initiate a citywide trash and garbage collection service with a mandatory charge to every household.

The ballot proposal was approved last night by the Dowagiac city council which has been grappling with the question since June.

The mandatory pickup was first proposed for council action by Third Ward Councilman Clarence Self as a remedy to complaints of illegal trash and garbage burning.

Now, city residents will cast advisory ballots on the question during the Nov. 2 general election.

City Manager Henry Graper Jr. said that if approved, the city would seek bids from commercial trash haulers.

Graper has estimated the charge to each household would be about $2.75 a month. He said the exact charge could not be figured until bids were received.

In a related action, the council voted to continue operating under the present burning ordinance which allows trash burning but not garbage burning each evening for two hours.

Second Ward Councilman DeVee Hunsberger said the

Bridgman Buying $681 Transformer

BRIDGMAN — The Bridgman city commission last night tentatively agreed to buy a transformer for the city's water department from the Murphy Electric Co., Bridgman, for $681.

The firm's bid, lowest of three received, was approved for acceptance providing the unit meets all specifications as determined by Robert Anderson, city water superintendent. Other bids were $1,380 by Mead & White, Bridgman, and $1,495 by Northern Electric Co.

In other areas, the commission approved seeking bids for sewer lines for Pearl and Church streets and instructed Barger Engineering, St. Joseph, to prepare specifications.

The commission approved the city fire department joining a reciprocal aid agreement with other area fire departments.

It was announced that a board of determination hearing will be held Wednesday, Aug. 4, at 10 a.m. with the county drain commissioner to determine the Bedortha drainage district boundaries.

Anderson reported that water usage during July amounted to 16,833,000 gallons, over 2 million more than used in July, 1975.

Last night's meeting was opened with dedication ceremonies of revitalized Weko Beach, which has been undergoing an $11,000 park restoration project.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Edging Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged upward today in another uninspired session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks showed a token .09 gain in the early going, and advances opened up a slight lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers found no special news behind the advance, and no evidence that the market was gathering enough force to move out of the narrow channel in which it has fluctuated for the past six months.

Today's early prices included Pillsbury, unchanged at 39 1/4; Talley Industries, up 1/8 at 10; and Merck, ahead 1/4 at 70 1/4.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average lost 2.38 to 982.26.

Traders held a narrow edge on gains among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index dropped .13 to 55.13.

Big Board volume came to 13.87 million shares, the fourth highest total of the year.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .34 at 161.33.

Professor's Review Is Published

A review by Dr. K. Sundaram, Lake Michigan college associate professor of philosophy, on Andre de Muralt's philosophic discussion of science, "The Idea of Phenomenology: Husserlian Exemplarism," has been published in a recent issue of Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, quarterly journal of the International Phenomenological Society.

In his review, Dr. Sundaram declares that de Muralt's volume is valuable in that it aims to establish phenomenology as a concrete logic by using the phenomenological method.

Phenomenology is a science which describes and classifies phenomena.

Dr. Sundaram joined the LMC faculty in 1973 and holds graduate degrees from the University of Madras, India, and the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Equitable Split?

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Eugene Schneider has been ordered to explain in court why his idea of dividing property in a divorce settlement was cutting his $80,000 house in half with a chain saw.

Schneider told authorities that cutting up the house was his idea of complying with New Jersey's divorce laws which require fair and equitable division of property, an attorney familiar with the case said.

FT. CUSTER PURCHASE

Amusement Park Agreement Signed

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Cedar Point, Inc., and the City of Battle Creek today signed a tentative agreement for the purchase of 780 acres of land where Cedar Point plans to build a new amusement park.

The agreement sets a sale price of $1.826 million, but several conditions must be met before the agreement becomes final.

Robert L. Munger Jr., president and chief executive officer of Cedar Point, which has another park in Sandusky, Ohio, said some 50 potential sites in Michigan were checked by the organization. But he said the Battle Creek site, about four miles from the downtown area of the city along Interstate 94, had "an ideal combination of factors including location, available labor, and local interest and support."

"We are confident of the potential of a Cedar Point-type park in Battle Creek. More than 25 million people live within a 200-mile radius, and the local places us almost midway between Chicago and Detroit and also puts Indianapolis in our prime market area," Munger said.

Officials said they expect to hire 3,000 part-time workers for the park's 180-day season and several hundred other jobs would be created during construction. The park is tentatively set to open on Memorial Day, 1978.

Officials plan to have 26 rides at the park. The "theme" of the facility has not been decided, officials said.

Conditions set by Cedar Point include a 50 per cent tax abatement, commitments by utilities and a firm financing commitment.

The site is the former military reservation which housed old Fort Custer. The city owns 360 acres of the land and is planning to purchase the additional 400 acres from the government. Amusement park officials said the site would not be a duplication of the Cedar Point park in Sandusky, but would be built around the natural beauty of the area, which includes a lake. Market studies have projected a first year attendance of 1.5 million people.

Rollover Pins Driver Inside Car

SISTER LAKES — Martin McIntyre, 17, Evergreen Park, Ill., apparently suffered only minor injury early this morning when the car he was driving rolled over on its side when he failed to negotiate a turn near here. He was pinned inside the vehicle for a short time before being freed.

McIntyre was treated and released from Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac. Following the 3:20 a.m. accident, he was alone in the vehicle at the time. State police at the Paw Paw post said McIntyre was west-bound on Victory Shore drive when he failed to negotiate the turn. The Keeler township accident remains under investigation.

Niles Pair Sues State Gas Utility

A Niles couple has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking an unspecified cash award from a gas utility for a 1975 explosion in their home, allegedly caused by leaking natural gas.

The plaintiffs, Victor and Charlotte Layman, claim their home at 1218 Oak street sustained extensive damage in an explosion on Jan. 7, 1975, and a resulting fire injured both of them. The suit asks for any amount over $10,000 to which the Laymans may be entitled.

Named defendant in the suit was Michigan Power Co. The suit claims the utility firm knew the gas was escaping from a main under the street in front of the Layman house "for many months" but did nothing about it. The suit also charges Michigan Power failed to inspect the gas mains and correct the leak, resulting in the explosion.

DESPITE AUTO BOOM State Job Market Recovering Slowly

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's job market is recovering from the recession only half as fast as the national average, according to the state Employment Security Commission (MESC). And despite an auto industry boom, there are still 200,000 fewer workers on payrolls in Michigan than there were two years ago. The reason for the lag, according to MESC director S. Martin Taylor, is that Michigan lost jobs at three times the national rate during the recession.

"The auto industry and other big manufacturing companies were hit harder in the recession, went down faster, and now they're coming back slower," Taylor said. Michigan's June unemployment rate was 10.2 per cent, down from the 14.4 per cent at the worst of the recession in the spring of 1975, but still well above the national rate of 7.5 per cent.

Taylor predicts it will take "at least one and probably two" more good model years in the auto industry before the state's jobless rate returns to the 6 per cent level of three years ago. "And if we have an auto strike, that would throw recovery behind the eighth ball," Taylor added.

'BIGNESS' ISN'T BAD AT&T Divestiture Rejected By Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Communications Commission administrative law judge has rejected a staff recommendation that American Telephone & Telegraph Co. be forced to divest itself of its manufacturing arm, Western Electric Co.

In handing down a sweeping, 535-page ruling Monday, Judge David I. Kraushaar declared that "the problems of managing Bell's 'bigness' ... simply don't call for the altogether extreme and revolutionary remedy of divestment and splinterization in the holy names of 'competition' and 'free markets.'"

The Justice Department, in a separate action, still has an antitrust suit pending against AT&T that seeks divestiture of Western Electric.

Aged Anchor Discovered

COPPER HARBOR, Mich. (AP) — What state officials think is the massive anchor of the schooner John Jacob Astor is sitting underwater near Copper Harbor until officials decide what to do with it. The Astor was the first American ship to sail Lake Superior. The anchor, which weighs about a ton, was fished out of the lake recently by volunteer divers. It was found offshore from Fort Wilkins State Park, examined on shore, and was dumped back into nearby Lake Fanny Hooe to prevent it from deteriorating. "We're certain it's from the Astor, although this has not been confirmed by maritime historians," said Dave LaPointe, Fort Wilkins Park Manager.

Grace's Recipe For Happy Life

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Faith, love, discipline and respect for the husband's authority make for harmonious family life, says Princess Grace of Monaco.

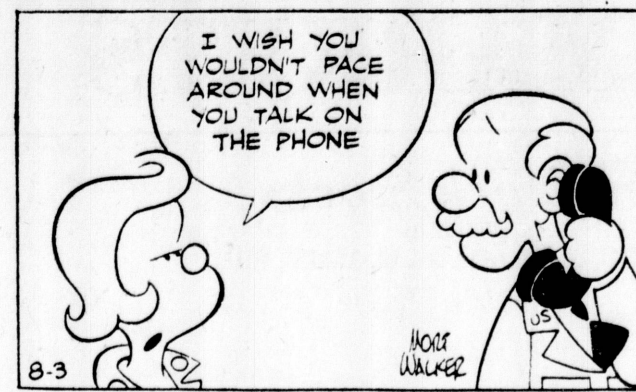

"It would have been extremely difficult without the strong basic bond of our religion — and that we were in agreement on principles we hope to instill in our children," the former Hollywood actress said Monday of her 20-year marriage to Prince Rainier.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Edging Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged upward today in another uninspired session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks showed a token .09 gain in the early going, and advances opened up a slight lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers found no special news behind the advance, and no evidence that the market was gathering enough force to move out of the narrow channel in which it has fluctuated for the past six months.

Today's early prices included Pillsbury, unchanged at 39 3/4; Talley Industries, up 1/8 at 10, and Merck, ahead 1/4 at 70 3/4.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average lost 2.38 to 982.26.

Losers held a narrow edge on gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index dropped 13 to 55.13.

Big Board volume came to 13.87 million shares, the fourth highest total of the year.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .34 at 103.33.

Professor's Review Is Published

A review by Dr. K. Sundaram, Lake Michigan college associate professor of philosophy, on Andre de Muralt's philosophical discussion of science, "The Idea of Phenomenology: Husserlian Exemplarism," has been published in a recent issue of Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, quarterly journal of the International Phenomenological Society.

In his review, Dr. Sundaram declares that de Muralt's volume is valuable in that it aims to establish phenomenology as a concrete logic by using the phenomenological method.

Phenomenology is a science which describes and classifies phenomena.

Dr. Sundaram joined the LMC faculty in 1973 and holds graduate degrees from the University of Madras, India, and the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Equitable Split?

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Eugene Schneider has been ordered to explain in court why his idea of dividing property in a divorce settlement was cutting his $80,000 house in half with a chain saw.

Schneider told authorities that cutting up the house was his idea of complying with New Jersey's divorce laws which require fair and equitable division of property, an attorney familiar with the case said.

FT. CUSTER PURCHASE

Amusement Park Agreement Signed

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Cedar Point, Inc., and the City of Battle Creek today signed a tentative agreement for the purchase of 760 acres of land where Cedar Point plans to build a new amusement park.

The agreement sets a sale price of $1.826 million, but several conditions must be met before the agreement becomes final.

Robert L. Munger Jr., president and chief executive officer of Cedar Point, which has another park in Sandusky, Ohio, said some 50 potential sites in Michigan were checked by the organization. But he said the Battle Creek site, about four miles from the downtown area of the city along Interstate 94, had "an ideal combination of factors including location, available labor, and local interest and support."

"We are confident of the potential of a Cedar Point-type park in Battle Creek. More than 25 million people live within a 200-mile radius, and the location places us almost midway between Chicago and Detroit and also puts Indianapolis in our prime market area," Munger said.

Officials said they expect to hire 3,000 part-time workers for the park's 180-day season and several hundred other jobs would be created during construction. The park is tentatively set to open on Memorial Day, 1978.

Officials plan to have 26 rides at the park. The "theme" of the facility has not been decided, officials said.

Conditions set by Cedar Point include a 50 per cent tax abatement, commitments by utilities and a firm financing commitment.

The site is the former military reservation which housed old Fort Custer. The city owns 360 acres of the land and is planning to purchase the additional 400 acres from the government. Amusement park officials said the site would not be a duplication of the Cedar Point park in Sandusky, but would be built around the natural beauty of the area, which includes a lake. Market studies have projected a first year attendance of 1.5 million people.

Rollover Pins Driver Inside Car

SISTER LAKES — Martin McIntyre, 17, Evergreen Park, Ill., apparently suffered only minor injury early this morning when the car he was driving rolled over on its side when he failed to negotiate a turn near here. He was pinned inside the vehicle for a short time before being freed.

McIntyre was treated and released from Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac, following the 3:20 a.m. accident. He was alone in the vehicle at the time. State police at the Paw Paw post said McIntyre was west-bound on Victory Shore drive when he failed to negotiate the turn. The Keeler township accident remains under investigation.

Niles Pair Sues State Gas Utility

A Niles couple has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking an unspecified cash award from a gas utility for a 1975 explosion in their home, allegedly caused by leaking natural gas.

The plaintiffs, Victor and Charlotte Layman, claim their home at 1218 Oak street sustained extensive damage in an explosion on Jan. 7, 1975, and a resulting fire injured both of them. The suit asks for any amount over $10,000 to which the Laymans may be entitled.

Named defendant in the suit was Michigan Power Co. The suit claims the utility firm knew the gas was escaping from a main under the street in front of the Layman home "for many months" but did nothing about it. The suit also charges Michigan Power failed to inspect the gas mains and correct the leak, resulting in the explosion.

Judge Confines Three

PAW PAW — One man got a prison term and two others got county jail terms when they appeared for sentencing in Van Buren circuit court yesterday.

The three appeared before Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

Dewey Wayne McLamore, 29, Lawton, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of resisting arrest, was sentenced to a prison term of from 16 months to two years and given credit for 183 days already spent in custody.

A second charge of absconding while on bond was dismissed at sentencing.

Sharon Reese Cook, 24, Detroit, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful use of a motor vehicle, was handed a six-month county jail term and given credit for three months already spent in custody.

Jesse Lee Rouse, 32, Mat-tawan, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of fourth degree criminal sexual conduct, was sentenced to a four-month county jail term, two years probation and fines and costs of $200.

Rouse was initially charged with first degree criminal sexual conduct in connection with the alleged rape of a 13-year-old girl. That charge was dropped at sentencing as part of a plea bargaining agreement.

Part of Cook's probation calls for treatments through the county mental health clinic, according to court officials.

Judge Confines Three

PAW PAW — One man got a prison term and two others got county jail terms when they appeared for sentencing in Van Buren circuit court yesterday.

The three appeared before Judge Meyer Warshawsky.

Dewey Wayne McLamore, 29, Lawton, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of resisting arrest, was sentenced to a prison term of from 16 months to two years and given credit for 165 days already spent in custody.

A second charge of absconding while on bond was dismissed at sentencing.

Sharon Reese Cook, 24, Detroit, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful use of a motor vehicle, was handed a six-month county jail term and given credit for three months already spent in custody.

Jesse Lee Rouse, 32, Mat-tawan, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of fourth degree criminal sexual conduct, was sentenced to a four-month county jail term, two years probation and fines and costs of $200.

Rouse was initially charged with first degree criminal sexual conduct in connection with the alleged rape of a 13-year-old girl. That charge was dropped at sentencing as part of a plea bargaining agreement.

Part of Cook's probation calls for treatments through the county mental health clinic, according to court officials.

Kissinger said that President Ford is pursuing a courageous and positive policy in Southern Africa. Kissinger was booed when he tried to explain small numbers of blacks in foreign service.
